Another Rich Discovery
at Brown Farm

AUBURN, Me., Aug. 30.—A notable discovery of gems was that of Saturday at the old Brown farm on the road from Marston's corner to Milnot, about six miles out of this city.

In one pocket in a tourmaline mine on that farm uncovered by a single blast, were found 6000 carats of the finest tourmaline. As the mine was worth $15 a carat cut, this means that the pocket contained from $90,000 to $75,000 worth of gems.

Two weeks ago two other pockets were struck in the same mine which yielded not less than 200 carats of rough crystals, so that in the last two weeks gems which will run well over the $100,000 mark have been taken out of this mine. The owner of the mine is Forest L. Harvey of Ash street, Lewiston. He leased the Brown farm a little less than 10 years ago for the feldspar which was on it.

Scarcely any of the gems will cut less than a 10-carat tourmaline, and many of them will cut 50 carats.

By a curious coincidence Mr. Farrington, collector for the Field museum,

PLAYGROUND FETE

SKETCHES ON THE CLOSING DAY OF THE PLAYGROUND SEASON.
ALSO OF SOME OF THE INDUSTRIAL WORK DONE BY CHILDREN.

Demonstration of Supervised Play
Draws Thousands to So. Common

A delightful scene, a scene of rare beauty, was presented at the South common this afternoon when nearly 2000 children gathered there to participate in the closing exercises, for this season, of Lowell's supervised playgrounds. For beauty and inspiration there isn't anything to compare with the glad faces of happy children at play and if you missed the exercises at the common this afternoon you missed a whole lot.

It was a play festival and it was certainly nothing short of beautiful. It goes without saying that there was a great many happy parents present and the attendance was large because the closing exercises had been pretty well advertised. There was still another reason why the attendance was large. It's something that moves the world and it is nothing more nor less than the love of children. Any man or woman with the milk of human kindness in his or her heart cannot but love children.

The weather clerk was very gracious and passed out the proper article so far as weather was concerned and that was the greatest concern. It had rained the high school drill shed where they would have lost a deal of their spirit of attractiveness.

If the park commission and the playground supervisors had had a day made to order it could not have been better suited for the occasion than was today and the scene on the South common this afternoon was, as the old saying goes, "a cure for sore eyes."

The benefit of supervised playgrounds was clearly made manifest and that the supervision of our playgrounds will be continued there is no doubt.

Judge Pickman, chairman of the park commission, is a firm believer in supervised playgrounds. It was mainly through Judge Pickman's efforts that the supervision of playgrounds in Lowell was brought about.

for the supervision of playgrounds in Lowell was brought about, and he is well pleased with the work as far as it has gone and he sincerely hopes that it will be continued. The children have had a delightful time during the summer months and their mothers appreciate how great has been the benefit to the children.

Mayor Meehan, too, is heartily in favor of supervised playgrounds. He says that nothing should be of more interest to the mayor of a city than the proper bodily and mental training of the boys and girls. He believes that the right kind of play helps to make good American citizens of our boys and girls.

The exercises this afternoon were held on the baseball diamond of the common and quite a number of automobiles drew up 'longside' to witness the festival or inter-playground meet. At 2 o'clock Miss Anna Moran, supervisor-in-chief of the girls, gave the signal for the program to commence.

The field was almost filled with dancing little ones ranging from 1 to 12, and dressed in accordance with the special folk dance in which they were to participate. The program opened with a playground march and it was a very pretty affair. Although the athletic training which the girls have received has formed no small part of their instruction, it is the folk dancing which has particularly attracted them. The practicing of the folk dances has been carried on both in the open air and in the basement of the Elton school.

The playground march was followed by the folk dances selected by the desire of the little girls as their favorites. Some of the dances called for typical costumes of the countries whose dances were used, and many of the costumes were made by the girls themselves and their ability to make them-by the girls from each of the large playgrounds. Little Canada chose the "Carrousel" and "Rabbit" North common, "Captain Ball," "Dodge Ball" and "The Farmer," South common, "Did You Ever See a Lassie?"

Music for the dancing and the group games was furnished by Hibbard's orchestra, accompanied by a piano, lent to the occasion by Grunewald's music store.

Boys' Program

After the girls had finished with their part of the exhibition, the boys had their turn. The boys were "right there with the berries" and the program, which was thoroughly enjoyed, was as follows:

McGEE CAPTURED

But It is Believed That He is Fatally Shot

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Private McGee of Troop L, Tenth U. S. Cavalry, who shot and killed Private Turner of Company B, 24th regiment, and Corporal Jones of Company C of the 24th, all negroes, at Watertown last night, was captured at Boonville, 25 miles north of here, early today and in a running fight with civil officers before he gave up, was probably fatally shot. Boonville received word to look out for the fugitive from the military authorities at Pine Camp early this morning and when the 8 o'clock train drew in Deputy Sheriff Wetmore and Constable Studor spied McGee on the bumpers. The soldier started up the tracks on a run, the officers following. Two residents of the village tried to stop him, but McGee drew his big cavalry pistol and stood them off. Others joined in the chase and McGee was cornered between the canal and a knitting mill. Closely pressed, he jumped into the water and, standing waist deep, turned the gun on his pursuers. Studor took him to surrender. McGee replied with a bullet. Studor returned the fire. Walter Rinkie came up with a rifle. Both Rinkie and Studor fired at the same time and the negro dropped with two bullets in his back. Physicians say he cannot live.

own costumes is due to that particular branch of playground training.

The Dance Program

Danish Folk Dance: The Shoemaker.
Gilbert Dance: The Dainty Step.
American Plantation Dance: Topsy.
Calisthenics.
Finnish Folk Dance: Gossling Ella. This dance represents children chatting.

Industrial Work Done

Specimens of the industrial material of the girls have been on exhibition in Dows' drug store and they afforded an excellent idea of the accomplishments of the girls in this direction. Among the specimens were unbordered belts and collars, sewing cards, by those of the kindergarten age; paper dolls by the middle sized group; patchwork quilts, for doll and baby carriages; sofa pillow tops; aprons; bead work, reed, cane and raffia work; sewing bags; and by one group, cardboard construction work, comprising a house and house furnishings.

The staff of supervisors in charge of the exhibit and of the festival was as follows: Mr. George E. Wilton and Miss Anna Moran, chief supervisors. On the North common, Mr. Charles R. Church and Miss Mabel Dockendorf in charge, and Miss Rose Geary assisting. South common, Mr. Chas. Lawrence and Miss Gretchen Cheney in charge, Miss Dorothy Barclay and Miss Pauline Coggeshall assisting. Little Canada, Mr. Cecil P. Dodge and Miss Mildred H. IN POLICE COURT

Today's Docket Showed
Minor Cases

This morning's session of the police court was comparatively short due to the fact that several cases which were scheduled for hearings were settled without going to trial.

The case of A. Aaron, Peterlosky, charged with assault and battery on Louis P. Caron, was called for trial, but Messrs. Joseph E. Loughran and J. Joseph Hennessy, counsel in the case, had a conference with the court relative to a civil settlement and the case was dismissed. The assault took place a week ago Saturday in Middlesex street. It is alleged that Caron, who was intoxicated, was bothering Peterlosky, who keeps a second hand clothing store in Middlesex street. Caron tried to enter Peterlosky's store and the latter pushed him into the street, Caron falling and striking on his head.

The case of Anastasios Voufess, charged with the larceny of $85 from John Thomas, was also settled. This case grew out of the dissolution of partnership and it is alleged that the defendant collected some of the money due the firm. D. J. Donahue and J. Joseph Hennessy appeared as counsel in the case.

Michael Klesulik, charged with assault and battery on Mary A. Kott, pleaded guilty, but no finding was made because the parties in the case reached an agreement.

Sent to the Reformatory

Constantinos Manopoulos, who was yesterday found guilty of the larceny of carpenter tools from Leroy Dunn, was this morning sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory.

Drunk Offenders

Mark Brennan was charged with being drunk and admitted that she had partaken of a few drinks, but promised to let drink alone if given a chance. She was given a suspended sentence to the women's prison at Sherborn.

Thomas McGovern was sentenced to four months in jail. Timothy Desmond goes to the state farm, and Elizabeth Gennell will spend the next three months in jail.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Makes an Attack on the U. S. Supreme Court

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 30.—In an address here yesterday Col. Roosevelt said that the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Knight sugar trust case was a decision not only against national rights, but really against popular rights.

In the New York bakeshop case, he said, the supreme court of the United States had decided that the government had no right to regulate the bakeshop industry. If such decisions as these two indicated the court's permanent attitude, he declared there would be real and grave cause to give alarm, for such decisions would uproot the whole system of popular government.

ON CONSERVATION

EX-PRES. ROOSEVELT ADDRESSED A GREAT AUDIENCE

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 30.—Theodore Roosevelt delivered the following speech in this city today:

"This country has shown definite signs of waking up to the absolute necessity of handling its natural resources with foresight and common sense. The conservation question has three sides. In the first place the needless waste of the natural resources must be stopped. It is rapidly becoming a well settled policy of this people that we of this generation hold the land in part for the next generation, and not exclusively for our own selfish enjoyment. Just as the farmer is a good citizen if he leaves his farm improved and not impaired for his children, and a bad citizen if he skins the land in his own selfish interest, so the nation behaves well if it treats the natural resources as assets which it must turn over to the next generation increased and not impaired in value, and behaves badly if it leaves the land poorer to those who come after us.

"In the second place, the natural resources must be developed promptly, completely, and in orderly fashion. It is not conservation to leave the natural resources undeveloped.

"Development is an indispensable part of the conservation plan. The forests, the mines, the water powers and the land itself, must all be put to use. Those who assert that conservation proposes to tie them up, depriving this generation of their benefits in order to hand them on untouched to the next generation, are wrong.

"Conservation does not mean depriving the men of today of their natural rights in the natural resources of the land. All it means is that we of this generation shall use our rights as not to deprive those who come after us of their natural rights in their turn.

"In the third place, so far as possible these resources must be kept for the whole people and not handed over for exploitation to single individuals. We do not intend to discourage individual enterprise by unduly diminishing the reward for that enterprise. On the contrary, we believe that the men of exceptional abilities should have exceptional rewards up to a point where the reward becomes disproportionate to the service, up to the point where the abilities are used to the detriment of the people as a whole. We are for the liberty of the individual up to and not beyond the point where it becomes inconsistent with the welfare of the community. Thus our consistent aim is to favor the actual settler—the man who takes as much of the public domain as he himself can cultivate, and there makes a permanent home for his children who come after him; but we are against the man, no matter what his ability, who tries to monopolize large masses of public land.

State and Federal Control

"Now, to preserve the general welfare, to see to it that the rights of the public are protected, and the liberty of the individual secured and encouraged as long as consistent with his welfare, and curbed when it becomes inconsistent therewith, it is necessary to invoke the aid of the government. There are points in which this governmental aid can best be rendered by the state, that is, where the exercise of state rights helps to secure popular rights; and as to those I believe in state rights. But there are large classes of cases where only the authority of the national government will secure the rights of the people; and where this is the case I am convinced and a thoroughgoing believer in the rights of the national government. Big business, for instance, is no longer an affair of any one state; big business has become nationalized, and the only effective way of controlling and directing it, and preventing abuses in connection with it, is by having the people nationalize the control over it by the government is now necessary to prevent their being exploited by the individuals who have nationalized the business. All commerce on a scale sufficiently large to warrant any control over it by the government is nowadays interstate or foreign commerce; and until this fact is heartily acknowledged and acted upon by both courts and legislative bodies, national and state alike, the interest of the people will suffer.

"In the matter of conservation, I heartily approve of state action where under our form of government the state only has the power to act. I cordially join with those who desire to see the state, within our own sphere, take the most advanced position in regard to the whole matter of conservation. I have taken exactly this attitude in my own state of New York. When the state alone had power to act, I have done all I could to get it to act in the most advanced manner; and where the nation could act, I have done all I could to get national action in the same direction. Unfortunately, in the past we have in this matter paid the penalty of not having our forest land under national control; and the penalty has been severe. Most of the states, although they are old states—have not protected their forests, each failing to act by itself, because the action was really the common concern of all; and where action is the common concern of all, experience has shown that it can only be profitably undertaken by the national government.

As a result of the impossibility of getting such wise action by the several governments in the east, we are doing our best to get national legislation under which the national government, at the expense of millions of dollars, will undertake to do as regards the Appalachian and White mountains of the east what it is now doing in the Rocky mountains here out west. It would be both a calamity and an absurdity for the national government now to do in the west the very thing that at a heavy pecuniary cost it is trying to undo in the east. By actual experience in the east we have found to our cost that the nation, and not the several states, can best guard the interests of the people in the matter of the forests and the waters; and that if it fails to attempt this duty at the outset it will later on have to pay heavily in order to be allowed to take up the work, which, because it is done so late, cannot be so well done as if it had been begun earlier.

Water Power

"Take the question of the control of the water power sites. The enormous importance of water power sites to the future industrial development of this country has only been realized within a very few years. Unfortunately, the realization has come too late as regards many of the power sites; but many yet remain with which our hands are free to deal. We should make it our duty to see that hereafter the power sites are kept under the control of the general government, for the use of the people as a whole. The fee should remain with the people as a whole, while the use is leased on terms which shall secure an ample reward to the lessee, which shall encourage the development and use of the water power, but which shall not create a permanent monopoly or permit the development to be antisocial, to be in any respect hostile to the public good. The nation alone has the power to do this effectively, and it is for this reason that you will find these corporations which wish to gain improper advantage and to be freed from efficient control on the part of the public, doing all that they can to secure the substitution of state for national action.

"There is something fairly comic in the appeal made by many of these men in favor of state control when you realize that the great corporations seeking the privileges of developing the water power in any given state side the state as within it. In this country, nowadays, the great corporations, nowdays, have a national and not a state use. The great corporations which are managed and largely owned in the older states are those which are most in evidence in developing and using the mines and water powers and the new states, from Alaska to Arizona, I have been continually amused during the past two months at having arguments presented to me on behalf of certain rich men from New York and Ohio, for instance, as to why Colorado and other Rocky Mountain states should manage their own water power sites. Now these men may be great citizens according to their lights, but naturally enough their special interests obscure their sense of public need; and as their object is to escape an efficient control, exercised in the interest of all the people of the country, they clamor to be put under the state instead of under the nation. If we are foolish enough to grant their requests, we shall have ourselves to blame when we wake up and find that we have permitted another privilege to trench itself and another portion of what should be kept for the public good to be turned over to individuals for purposes of private enrichment. During the last session of congress bills were introduced to transfer the water power sites in the national forests and the public domain to the control of the states. I cannot state too strongly my belief that these measures are unwise and that they will be disastrous to enact them into law. In substance their effect would be to free effective control from all state and federal control. The passage of such a bill would be a victory of the special interests over the general welfare, and a long backward step down the hill of progress we have of late been climbing.

"Our people have for many years proceeded upon the assumption that the nation should control the public land, and that it is for the national interest to this assumption of national legislation that we owe our wisest law to the irrigation law. The wise use of our public domain has always been conditioned upon national action. The states can greatly help, but it is the nation that must take the lead as regards the land, as regards the forests and the waters, and perhaps particularly in the case of the waters, because almost all streams are really interstate streams.

Coal Lands

"The same principle applies with peculiar force to the coal lands, and especially to the coal lands in Alaska, whose preservation and ownership by the federal government is so necessary, both for full and free industrial development in the west and for the needs of our fleet in the Pacific. The coal mines should be leased, not sold, and those who mine the coal should pay back a part of the profit to the people. It is the right and duty of the people to demand the most vigilant trusteeship on that part of that branch of the federal government in charge of the fuel resources of the United States.

The Neutral Ground

"Remember also that many of the men who protest loudly against effective national action would be the first to turn round and protest against state action if and when in its turn it became effective, and would then unjustly invoke the law to show that the state had no constitutional power to act. Long experience has shown that it is by no means impossible, in cases of constitutional doubt, to get one set of judicial decisions which render it difficult for the nation to act, and another set which render possible for the state to act. Case after case has shown that the constitution is not as a matter of fact a barrier to growth, but as a matter of fact a shield to growth; and that the advocates of wise and cautious progress as being opponents of the constitution. As I have said before, I am a strong believer in efficient national action, where such action offers the best hope of securing and protecting the interests of a few. But I am emphatically in favor of state action, where state action can best serve this purpose; and I am no less emphatically in favor of cordial and hearty co-operation, between the nation and the states where their duties are identical or develop.

"If there is one thing which is more unwise than another, it is the creation by legislative, or executive, or by judicial action of a neutral ground in which neither the state nor the nation has power, and which can serve as a place of refuge for the lawless man, and especially for the lawless man of great wealth, who can hire the best legal counsel to advise him how to keep his abiding place equally distant from the uncertain frontiers of both state and national power.

I am here at the invitation of the Colorado Livestock association, and I desire to express my appreciation of their stand for decency and progress in the handling of public lands and national forests. They have met and overcome the unrelenting opposition of some of the most influential stockmen of the state; they have won because they have been right. I want to express also my appreciation of the work of the American National Livestock association. It has been one of the really important forces working toward effective railway regulation, while its support of the policy of federal range control has given it a large place in national affairs. As an old-time stockman I realize that the present order of things on the open range cannot continue, and that the sure way to protect the range itself, prevent the increase of big outfits, promote the suitable use of the grazing lands, and water genuine homestead settlement, is to extend over the open range a system of range control somewhat similar to that now in effect on the national forests.

Whatever system of range control may be adopted in detail, there are two things it must not do. It must not handicap or exclude the small man by requiring him to send more money for fences than he can afford, and it must leave every acre that can be settled by bona-fide homesteaders freely open to such settlement.

I do not believe that a single acre of our public lands should hereafter pass into private ownership except for the single purpose of homestead settlement, and I know that the stockmen stand with me in their desire to remove every obstacle from the path of the genuine homesteader, and to put every possible obstacle in the pathway of the man who tries to get public lands by misrepresentation or fraud. This is absolutely necessary on the agricultural lands. It is at least equally necessary on the mineral lands. It would be a calamity, whose baleful effect on the average citizen we can scarcely exaggerate, if the great stores of coal and other mineral fuels still owned by the people in Alaska and elsewhere should pass into the unregulated ownership of monopolistic corporations.

The Forest Service

You progressive stockmen have stood heavily by the conservation movement, and with you have stood many others throughout the west, to whom large credit is due, such as the lumbermen in Washington and Oregon, the irrigators in California, and the supporters of the country life movement in and around Spokane. I want to make my acknowledgments in particular to the Colorado Forestry association, which has supported the forest work of the government with such unselfish zeal. The forest service has enemies because it is effective. Some of its best work has been met by the bitterest opposition. For example, it has done a real service by blocking the road against the grabbers of water power, and again by standing like a rock against the demands of bogus mining concerns to exploit the national forests. I have always done my best to help the genuine miner. I believe that one of the first duties of the government is to encourage honest mining on the public lands. But it is equally important to enforce the law firmly against that particularly dangerous class which makes its living off the public through fraudulent mining schemes.

Much of the opposition to the forest service, like much of the opposition to conservation, takes the form of direct misrepresentation. For example, the cry is often heard that the national forests inclose great areas of agricultural land which are thus put beyond the reach of settlement. This statement seems plausible only till the facts are known. In the first place, congress has specially provided that whatever agricultural land there may be in any national forest shall be open, under proper safeguards, to homestead settlement. And in the second place, when the opponents of conservation are asked to point out the great stretches of inclosed agricultural land on the ground and in the presence of experts instead of speeches in a hall, they fail.

The Reclamation Service

The national irrigation congress is to hold a session in the city of Pueblo late in September. I am keenly sorry that I could not have accepted the invitation to be present. I must, however, be in the east at that time. But since I cannot be present then to express my keen, long-held and deep interest in the reclamation of arid lands by the federal government, I desire to do so now. There is no more effective instrument for the making of homes than the United States Reclamation service, and no government bureau while I was president, had reached a higher standard of efficiency, integrity and devotion to the public welfare.

Like the forest service, the reclamation service has clashed with certain private interests, and has had to pay the penalty of its service to the public in the form of bitter opposition from those with whose profit it has interfered. The cry has been raised against it that the government must not do its citizens at a less cost than private interests are ready to make them pay for at higher prices. Now, I believe fully in the private development of irrigation projects which the government cannot undertake. There is a large and legitimate field for such work. But the essential thing is to make homes on the lands not to make individuals to profit from the necessities of the men who make homes. There is no more warrant for objecting to the reclamation of arid lands by the government than there would be to protest against the government for patenting agricultural lands directly to the actual settler, instead of through a middleman, who could make a profit from the transaction. The men who assert their right to get something for themselves at the cost of the community instead of by service to the community we have always had with us, and doubtless we always shall. But there is no reason why we should yield to them. The reclamation service has not done so, and that is the chief reason for the attacks upon it.

I don't think that there is one among you who is a better, and more thorough-going westerner than I am. There has been no support given to the conservation policies so welcome as that which came from the west, and none in the west more welcome than that which came from Colorado. There are men and organizations in Colorado, and I mention Delta in particular, whose support of the conservation policies has been of the greatest value to the nation. It has not always been an easy thing for them to stand for the ultimate good as against the seeming temporary good; but they have stood for it steadily nevertheless.

From the standpoint of conservation the east has wasted much of its own superb endowment; and as an American, as a lover of the west, I hope that the west will profit by the east's bitter

TO RAISE THE MAINE

O'Rourke Explains His Plan to President Taft

BEVERLY, Aug. 30.—If plans which President Taft regards favorably are adopted, the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor 12 years ago and since then concealing the secret of the disaster which overwhelmed her, may be sailing homeward on or before Christmas, bearing a long-delayed verdict to the nation.

John F. O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction company of New York, submitted his plans yesterday to President Taft. They poured over them for two hours and O'Rourke departed with instructions to meet the president in Washington in the last week in September, when definite action will be taken.

The government is asked to furnish men, tugs and other assistance, which will cooperate with the O'Rourke forces in raising the Maine out of her grave of mud and water. In this way, Mr. O'Rourke says, the work can be done without the appropriation of $300,000 made by congress. A commission has been appointed to study the plans and pronounce their judgment when President Taft and O'Rourke meet for the final conference in Washington.

So impressively did O'Rourke state his case that the president favors the immediate selection of an engineer to undertake the task without going through the usual procedure of advertising for bids. It is not certain, however, that bids can be dispensed with, but the matter will be taken up with the attorney-general, and if he gives his approval the reclaiming of the Maine will be under way early in October.

Triotism is understood to have much to do with an offer made by Mr. O'Rourke which will insure apparently that Uncle Sam will get the job done most reasonably. It is understood that Mr. O'Rourke agrees, granted government assistance, to undertake the task, and when it is completed have the work appraised. This appraisal, plus a reasonable sum for doing the job, will constitute his price, the total doubtless coming within the $300,000 appropriation.

The plan provides for raising the Maine by means of pneumatic caissons and steel cables. The ship will be preserved intact. Mr. O'Rourke says, with every evidence of the disaster which she may bear.

It is proposed to construct on piles a line of wharves about 20 feet from either side of the ship. Between it and the wharves will be sunk pneumatic caissons to a depth of about 10 feet below the keel of the Maine. Cables will be passed down one side of the caissons under the Maine and up the other side to the caissons there.

These cables will be placed at intervals of four feet and form a cradle in which the Maine will rest. The combined strength of the cables will be four times the weight of the ship.

Jack screws, to which the ends of the cables will be fastened, will be stationed on platforms erected over the caissons and when the jacks are operated the tightening cables will raise the Maine from her berth of mud and gradually tell her clear from the water. The caissons are planned to have a capacity of 50 per cent more sustaining power than the weight of the Maine.

As the caissons are called upon to support the Maine, pneumatic devices are installed, which will increase their efficiency so that they will not sink in the mud. About 1000 men will be required to attend to the jacks and other equipment and it is proposed that the government furnish all or part of this force, calling out a regiment if necessary. It is further proposed that, repair ships in southern waters be sent to Havana.

"I am confident that the work could be done successfully if my plan is adopted," Mr. O'Rourke said after his conference with the president. "It is based on proven scientific principles. When the ship is raised, a platform above water and under the ship could be constructed between the caissons. The supporting cables would constitute a drydock on which the Maine could rest while she was being examined. Every facility for examination and repairs would be afforded."

Secretary of the Navy Meyer called at Burgess Point and viewed the plans while they were under discussion. His visit was for the purpose of conferring with the president on economy administration for the federal departments in Washington.

Juan Sumulong, one of the Filipino members of the Philippine commission, who is returning from Europe, was given an audience by the president yesterday afternoon.

At noon Mr. Taft pressed an electric button completing a circuit which opened the Ohio Valley exposition in Cincinnati.

CONGRESSMAN LLOYD

Says That the Tide is Against The Republicans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—"There is every prospect of a democratic victory in the congressional elections," said Representative Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the democratic congressional committee yesterday. "I do not expect a tremendous democratic tidal wave, but I believe we will have a safe majority in the next house."

Representative Lloyd came here from Buffalo, where he had a conference with Norman E. Mack, chairman of the democratic national committee. Asked about the campaign plans, Mr. Lloyd said:

"There is nothing new about our campaign plans. We will continue to appeal to the people upon the issues of the iniquitous tariff, the increased cost of living, Cannonism and the bad record of the republican party. On these issues we expect to be successful. Democrats everywhere are working in harmony. Not in years has the party been so thoroughly united."

Pleased by G. O. P. Quarrels

York last evening to confer with the democratic managers there. Before leaving he announced that he would continue his travels about the country, spending part of his time at the Washington headquarters of the committee and part at the Chicago headquarters.

The campaign in the east will be directed from Washington, while the Chicago headquarters will have charge of the western campaign. The south will be left to take care of itself, the feeling being that except in a few districts there is no danger of democratic defeat. These districts will be looked after carefully.

Representative Lloyd expressed himself as very much pleased with the differences between the regular and insurgent wings of the republican party. He does not believe that President Taft's campaign letter will have the effect of reunifying the party factions.

Dissatisfaction Widespread

"In any opinion the split between the republican factions will require a long time to heal if it ever heals," said Mr. Lloyd. "The president's letter will do little good. His admission that the tariff needs further revision is a confession of weakness and sustains our contention. It will contribute to the general feeling of disgust with government and economic conditions and against the party responsible for them."

"This feeling extends from Maine to California. In Maine it promises to be responsible for a democratic victory. In Massachusetts the disgust with republicanism and all the name implies which resulted in the election of Representative Ross some months ago will be much more manifest this fall."

"It is not any one thing that has caused the people to turn to the democracy for relief. In some sections it is the tariff, in others the increased cost of living, in others Cannonism."

"Here it may be the general spirit of insubordination against corporation influence in politics. There it may be dissatisfaction with an individual republican. But whatever the cause of the general dissatisfaction, discontent and disgust in different localities the democratic party will be the beneficiary."

Roosevelt Behind Longworth
"The regular republicans would rather see democrats win than insurgents victorious, while the insurgents will vote for democrats in preference to helping elect regular candidates. The republican split is especially wide in the west. In Indiana Senator Beveridge is defeated and a democrat will succeed him. In Ohio Gov. Harmon will be triumphantly re-elected. In Chicago the democrats will gain several congressional districts. In Kansas, Iowa and other states democratic prospects were never better."

"In New York the light between the Roosevelt-Hughes forces and the 'old guard' republican politicians bids fair to result in the election of a democratic governor and a gain of democratic conditions ripe for democratic victory."

"Mr. Longworth's announcement that he would support Speaker Cannon because he could not be elected is a boomerang. It did not have the desired effect. People are saying that while Mr. Cannon may be bad, his friends should not desert him. I heard Mr. Bryan make a speech recently in which he expressed sympathy for Mr. Cannon because Mr. Longworth, whom the speaker befriended, has declared his opposition to him."

"It is generally known that Ex-President Roosevelt intended Speaker Cannon to appoint Mr. Longworth a member of the ways and means committee. It is generally believed that Mr. Longworth's recent statement repudiating Mr. Cannon was inspired by Col. Roosevelt. People do not like the attitude either of Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Longworth."

"I do not wish it to be understood that the feeling of sympathy for Mr. Cannon in certain quarters will help him. It simply serves to add to the disgust with which the voters regard the republican party and some of its prominent members. Mr. Cannon cannot be re-elected speaker because the house will be democratic."

HENRY G. DAVIS

Who is Reported to be Seriously Ill

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 30.—Henry Cassaway Davis, former United States senator and candidate for vice president on the democratic ticket in 1904, is seriously ill at his home at Elkins, near here. The aged millionaire fell down a flight of steps recently, and as he has been feeble for several months the result of the accident may be serious.

DEEPER WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—The vanguard of the delegates to the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association began arriving here today, by train, steamer and automobile. They found the downtown district of the city decorated as it has seldom been before with welcoming signs on all sides. At the corner of Dorrance street and Exchange place facing the railroad station a large arch has been erected, displaying in big electric letters the greeting "What Cheer." Along the sides of the street hung lines of electric lights entwined with laurel, held up by white poles, surmounted by gliding tridents. Several electric arches crossed each other at the corner of Dorrance and Westminster streets and from their center hung an anchor, rope and pair of oars.

The fact that President Taft is not to attend has dampened the enthusiasm of a great many. The various committees who have been working hard to make the affair a success feel the disappointment keenly as the president had practically fixed the date of the convention. The gatherings of the convention will begin tonight with an informal reception at the Narragansett hotel, the association's headquarters in this city. The convention will open formally tomorrow.

PRIMARY ELECTION

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—The first statewide primary election in Maryland is in progress today for the election of nominees for representative in congress. In four districts, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth, stirring campaigns have been waged. No primaries are held in the first and second districts, both democrats and republicans having agreed on their candidates. As far as the other districts are concerned the fights within one party or the other make it impossible to say who will get the nominations. Keen interest is taken in the republican contest in the sixth district, represented by George A. Pearce. Pearce entered the list to succeed himself, but subsequently withdrew, his strength, it is claimed, largely going to Gist Blair. In the fourth district four candidates are striving for the place of John Gill, who is not seeking re-election because of ill health. The republicans in the fifth district are united behind Thomas Parman, as the successor of Sydney F. Mudd, who declined a re-nomination but the democrats are divided into two factions over the nomination, each claiming the victory.

TWO LIVES LOST

In an Attempt to Rescue a Child From Drowning

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—While endeavoring to rescue her child, Marie, two years and eight months old, from drowning in Jamaica pond yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Catherine M. Hogarty, wife of Patrick J. Hogarty of 18 Hall street, Jamaica Plain, lost her life by drowning and an unknown man, about 60 years old, who attempted to rescue Mrs. Hogarty and her baby, was also drowned.

The baby, Marie Hogarty, was rescued by the heroic act of Miss Martha Daley, 23 years old, a nursemaid employed by Dr. Mark W. Richardson of 110 Moss Hill road, Jamaica Plain, who, on seeing the frantic efforts of the unknown man in his attempt to aid Mrs. Hogarty and the child, ran into the water and brought the baby safely to shore.

Mrs. Hogarty, with her children, Marie and Annie, 10 months old, went to the pond, as has been their custom this summer, to spend the afternoon under the trees near the shore.

Baby Marie was sitting in the four-wheeled carriage, with leather hood, while Annie was sitting on the grass beside her mother under a tree nearly opposite the end of Elliot street. There the ground at the shore of the pond rises in a slight knoll that is quite irregular and precipitous.

From some cause unexplained the carriage with Marie in it started down the embankment toward the water. The mother screamed, got to her feet as quickly as possible and ran after the carriage, hoping to stop it before it should reach the water.

But the carriage with Marie sitting in it rolled quickly down the hill and into deep water.

The shore at this point, near where the old boathouse stood, dips quickly and the water is a number of feet deep a short distance from land.

When the carriage struck the water the baby was thrown out.

Mrs. Hogarty thought nothing of her danger, but madly sprang into the water to save Marie.

In her excitement she screamed and floundered about and attracted the attention of an aged man.

He ran up the path and boldly jumping into the water to rescue mother and child.

He is said to have reached Mrs. Hogarty, who was fast losing her strength, and took hold of her. The baby had floated away a little distance from Mrs. Hogarty, and she frantically endeavored to reach her child. As a result there was a struggle with the unknown man and both sank.

Miss Daley was sitting on the grass not far from the scene of the accident with little Martha Richardson. Seeing the danger of the baby Hogarty drowning, she ran into the water up to her waist and rescued the baby. When Miss Daley had reached the shore with the child, she turned to see how the man was getting along in his effort to rescue Mrs. Hogarty, and to her amazement and grief both man and woman had disappeared from view.

Martin Nee of 14 Humboldt place, South Boston, was driving past the place and, hearing the screams of people, left his wagon and, on learning what had happened, he walked into the water up to his waist in an effort to recover the man and woman. A plant growth in the pond prevented him from seeing either.

Sergeant Charles Gilman of police division 13, who was a short distance away, also heard the screams and, snatching a life preserver from a post on the shore, ran to the spot. When he arrived both Mrs. Hogarty and her would-be rescuer had disappeared. Other men who were attracted to the spot tried in every way to aid in the quick recovery of the bodies.

Simon Fraser and George Erickson, employed at the boathouse at Jamaica pond, manned two boats and hurried to the spot where it was said the two persons had sunk, and they were ready to make the attempt at recovery of the bodies by diving. But they did not know where to dive.

Sergeant Gilman went to a police signal box and notified Capt. Harriman at division 13, and the patrol wagon with grappling irons was hurried to the pond, with Sgt. Frank Arnold and Patrolmen Herthel, Egan, Cluffin and Howes.

LODGE FORCES BUSY

Looking for Support in Congressman Ames' Bailwick

Attempt Made to Have Democrat Run in 17th District—Congressman Green Criticizes Ames—Boston Man Declares for Ames

While Congressman Greene of Fall River has been assailing the methods of Congressman Ames in his campaign for United States senator, emissaries of Senator Lodge are reported to have been working similar methods right here in Lowell. The city difference being that Congressman Ames has openly stated that he will canvass every corner of the state for votes while the Lodge people have practically given the assurance that they would not seek support in this section of the state and have then come here under cover as it were to do their campaign work.

Here is what Congressman Greene writes:

"In all the history of the state no such spectacle has ever been presented as has been called to the attention of the people of this section of the commonwealth during the last few weeks by an aspirant to the high and honorable office of U. S. senator residing in Middlesex county."

"He is down on the bosses. Then he proceeds to hold conferences for the purpose of procuring candidates for the legislature in both Fall River and New Bedford, and it is openly stated that he will with his untold wealth pay all the campaign expenses and will proceed to put the Ames' collar around the necks of the candidates he selects, and he asks that they shall obey his will in the legislature."

"Personally I care nothing for the diatribes regarding myself. Nothing he can say or do will injure me; but I have some regard for the high office of U. S. senator and I hope the republican voters may awaken themselves regarding the situation that confronts them."

A former ward six congressman who is well known in the 17th district was asked to run for representative in that district on the democratic ticket being given assurances of support if he would allow his name to be used. He declined but report has it that from the information given him if he ran as a Lodge man he would be supported. Wonder how the high minded seniors of the republican party will like the idea of their model senator becoming democratic candidate for the legislature."

Senator Joseph H. Milburn, who is an avowed Ames supporter, was assured by representatives of the state central committee recently that the committee would interfere in the legislative contests in this vicinity. This information has been taken by the local republicans to mean that the Lodge forces would not attempt to fight the election on his own bailiwick. Ames' best, the Pawtucket candidate for senator is said to be an Ames man while it is understood that ex-Rep. Varnum, who is also a candidate has not declared himself.

It is believed that every republican candidate for the legislature in the local districts who has thus far announced himself is an Ames man. That the Lodge forces should try to break up the state in the 17th district is probably due to two reasons, the first being that Rep. Barlow, who is seeking another term was one of the leading Ames men in the house and the second reason is the fact that the 17th district is listed by both state organizations as a doubtful district.

The candidacy of Frederic P. Marble in the 19th district is looked upon by many as a move of the Lodge forces though the Marble forces claim that Mr. Marble is the strongest man that can be found to defeat Rep. Cuff, a democrat elected in a republican district. This district has been electing republicans for some years but has received but little as a result. During the last year, however, Rep. Cuff did more for his district than his predecessors had done in a decade. His great fight was for the reimbursement of the town of Tewksbury for the taxes on the great amount of state property in that town, something that Tewksbury has been seeking for years without success until Rep. Cuff went to the house. Any republican who can carry Tewksbury against Rep. Cuff this year will certainly be going some.

Ruford H. Barnes of ward 20, Dorchester, announces his candidacy for the republican nomination for the state senate.

Mr. Barnes states positively that he is an anti-Lodge candidate, but he is in the progressive principles of the republican party as expounded by Theodore Roosevelt.

Ames is his first choice for the U. S. senate. He favors direct nominations and direct election of U. S. senators by the people.

Mr. Barnes was a candidate for the nomination last year but failed.

SHOT IN THE NECK

Haverhill Man is Not Expected to Live

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 30.—As the result of a quarrel over a basin of water, Antonio S. Scattitolo, commonly known as Tony Capello, an Italian, aged about 40, of 237 River street, Haverhill, is at the Hale hospital and his name has been put on the dangerous list. He has two bullet wounds in the left side of his neck and one in the right arm near the shoulder. A general alarm has been sent out for the capture of James Rossi, who is accused of doing the shooting.

The men were attached to a gang engaged in resurfacing work on the state highway on Storey avenue in this city under the direction of Walter Cressy of Gloucester, the contractor. They had finished work for the day and had gone to the camp which had been established near the Storey avenue schoolhouse.

Just what started the quarrel is not clear, but it is alleged that Scattitolo, succeeded in getting a basin of water away from Rossi after quite a struggle.

It is charged that Rossi then drew a pistol and fired three shots in quick succession at Scattitolo, who staggered a few feet and dropped to the ground. Rossi at once fled in the darkness into the fields toward the Newbury line.

In the excitement everybody turned their attention to aiding the wounded man. It was at once seen that he had been badly injured. Mr. Cressy took him into his automobile and started to a local hospital, where Scattitolo begged to be taken to Haverhill. He said he felt that he would die and that he had a daughter there, whom he wanted to see before he passed away. Yielding to his request, Mr. Cressy turned his machine and made for the Hale hospital in the up-river city, 15 miles away.

The physicians found one bullet embedded in the shoulder and one in the neck, and that the patient's condition was extremely critical. Storey avenue is in the outskirts of the city, and it was an hour after the shooting occurred before the local police heard of it. Then Capt. Wells, Patrolmen Woodman, Moynihan and Haley made a quick trip to the scene and, assisted by armed citizens, began beating the woods toward Crow lane, in which direction the fugitive had gone. They covered several miles of territory, but owing to the darkness and a thick fog were unable to make much headway, and shortly before 10 gave up the search for the night.

Rossi is described as 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighs 175, dark complexion and with sandy brown hair. He has a smooth face and wore a tan colored shirt, black tie and white felt hat. Word was received by telephone that a man answering the description had been seen in West Newbury about an hour after the shooting, and that he was hurrying in the direction of Ipswich.

City Marshal McLean telephoned a description to all cities and towns between here and Boston.

SAFE BLOWERS

Got Large Amount of Stage Money

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Three safe blowers wrecked the Ashland theatre early yesterday, dynamited the safe and secured $10,000,000 in stage money and $500 in real cash. The Lake street police arrived on the scene eight hours after the cracksmen had departed. They believe they can recover the $10,000,000 in stage money, unless the safe blowers put vegetables with it from some newly arrived immigrant. The $500 in legal tender they have no hope of tracing.

Tearing down the plush curtain draperies in front of the store—the theatre is owned by Weiner & Ottman, merchants—the burglars carried them to the theatre office to use in deadening the noise of the explosion.

TO PATENT LANDS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—At a meeting held here yesterday between officers in the field service of the general land office and officers of the forestry service an agreement was reached which gave to the general land office all responsibility for the patenting of lands on the public domain. The agreement places in effect the compact recently entered into between Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson respecting the rights of the two branches of the service.

The agreement provides that forest service officers shall report upon all locations made upon forest lands for any purpose and after the reports have been sent to Washington they shall be returned through the secretary of the interior to the chiefs of the field divisions for the various districts. After examination of the report the field division officers may confirm the report or they may order a new examination, if there is anything about the papers to excite suspicion.

WOMAN SHOT HERSELF NEAR SEA TRAGEDY.

But She Will Not Make Known Her Name Steamer Mascuppic Was Lost in the Fog

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—While surgeons in the Flower hospital were making every effort today to save the life of the fashionably attired young woman who shot and seriously wounded herself in the crowded waiting room of the Hotel Astor late last night, the attempts of the authorities to obtain a clue to the woman's identity were unavailing. She still persisted in refusing to answer questions. Whenever an effort was made to get her to say who she was she would bite her lips and shake her head.

Surgeons today say the young woman's condition was serious and that an operation would probably have to be performed on her during the day. She walked into the hotel shortly before midnight last night, seated herself in the woman's room and a moment later shot herself in the breast. She was conscious when taken to the hospital.

"I did it myself," was all she would say, steadfastly refusing to say where she was or where she lived. She is about 25 years old, of medium height and light complexion, wore no jewelry and had only a small amount of money with her in a handbag.

LOSS IS $10,000 VICIOUS ATTACKS

Inmates of Cambridge Fishermen Are Hard Hit House Escaped by Sharks

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 30.—Sixty persons were aroused from sleep early today by policemen and firemen, and carried in safety from a burning tenement house on Putnam avenue, Cambridgeport. There were twelve families living in the house, mostly foreigners. The building was located in the heart of the factory tenement district and other property was threatened. Two firemen were overcome by smoke but none of the inmates was injured. The house was destroyed, causing a loss of $10,000.

IT'S DERBY DAY

Thousands at the Readville Track

READVILLE, Aug. 30.—Derby day was one of the two big attractions that drew thousands of horse race followers to the Readville track today for the opening of the grand circuit meeting. The other attraction that held the interest of the crowd was the great Union, 1883, the England born and bred champion trotter of the world. This big gelding owned and driven by C. K. C. Billings of Cleveland attempted today to better his one mile wagon record of 2:01, made this season at the Cleveland meet.

The American derby handicap in two divisions had an aggregate prize of $15,000, two-thirds of it going to the trotters and the remainder to the pacers. In the former division there were twenty-three horses to face the starter while in the pacing division of the race it had twenty-one entrants. The distance was one and one-eighth miles and the handicap forty feet to the second.

That meant that the horses with the highest handicap at the 2:17 mark were 300 feet ahead of the scratch horses on the 2:07 mark. Last year the distance was one-eighth of a mile longer and the handicap was 45 feet to the second.

FELL INTO SHAFT

Man's Remarkable Escape From Death

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 30.—One of the most remarkable escapes from death in the annals of the Lake Superior copper industry occurred at Red Jacket shaft of the Calumet & Hecla mine when Mike Sunrich, a timberman, in stepping from a repair car to the main cage, fell into the shaft. He fell 150 feet before he grasped the rope attached to the shaft, saving himself from a fall of a mile to the bottom. His hands were badly burned on the wire rope but otherwise he was unhurt.

Sunrich was dangling from the rope when rescued.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Yesterday saw the inauguration of what will be the last show to be seen at the Canobie Lake theatre for this season. It is the last of J. W. Gorman's musical comedies by Matthew Ott, called "My Girl".

The plot deals with one of the funniest subjects that has ever lent itself to the stage, that of imposters in spiritualism. Mr. Moore, according to the story, journeys to Boston, but in reality he calls upon his friend, Grinand Barrett, who, it happens, lives in the same apartments as does Prof. Knox Loud, a fake spiritualist. Mrs. Moore becomes intensely interested in spiritualism and goes to Prof. Loud to be materialized. Her husband whom she believes to be far away appears upon the scene and the complications begin.

It is all very funny and Charles Morgan and Miss Melba Drake are well supported by an able company, who work well together to get a lot of uproarious run out of the many queer situations. Miss Lorraine made a decided hit with her song, "Call Me Up Some Rainy Afternoon," and with Miss Woods singing "Stingy Kid" in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Bold sings a college song that is very effective.

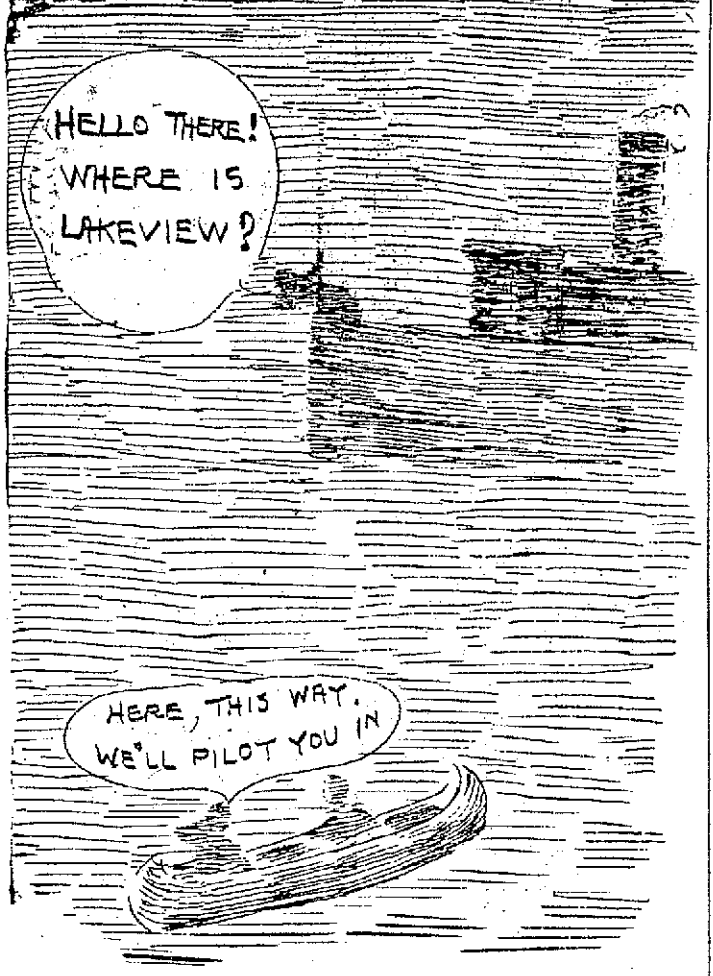

The costumes are all good and the play is well staged. As has been the case with all the other musical shows this season, the chorus of young ladies proved one of the real attractions of the show.

With two performances of "My Girl" on Labor day, the season at the Canobie Lake theatre will close.

LOST IN A FOG ON THE MASCUPI C. THE FIGURE IN THE BOW IS THAT OF OUR GENIAL SENATOR JOSEPH H. HIBBARD HOLLERING FOR HELP.

Senator Hibbard Saves Twenty-Six Passengers From Watery Grave by a Wireless Telegraphy Act on, Lake Mascuppic—The Steamer Wound Up at Her Starting Point

Senator Joe Hibbard is assured of some 20 votes regardless of party affiliation in the next election, for with great presence of mind he transformed himself into a human wireless telegraphy system late last night and thereby saved twenty men and six women from an untimely fate mid the deep and dark water of Lake Mascuppic.

Of all the men and women on that ill-fated steamer Mascuppic last night, none but the husky senator could be said to have been in the boat for Joe possessed the only pair of lungs on the boat that could make an impression on the almost impenetrable fog that started to rise from the water about 9:30 and which at 10:30 had pond, Lakeview, Willow Dale and the surrounding territory completely enveloped.

The orchestra had ground out "Home Sweet Home," a polite hint for every one to leave the boat for the evening. Their instruments had faded and had marched to the boat, everybody on board said good night to everybody on shore, the whistle tooted several farewell notes and they were off, bound for Lakeview, only a short distance away.

"De night she's dark lak was black cat," so dark in fact that a fellow put his arm round a girl's waist and then quickly apologized, stating that it was so dark he didn't see her, and in a very few minutes the long row of incandescents along the Breezy Point dance hall had completely disappeared from view. Although the hour was quite late there were still a few canoes on the pond though completely hidden from view, their presence being detected by the voices of their occupants.

The captain stood manfully by the wheel wearing a murderous look. His watch told him that he was due at Lakeview, his compass didn't tell him anything because it was in his other coat. He figured that it would have been impossible for anyone to have come along and move Lakeview, for he had left there only half an hour before and it was then firmly planted and well lighted. Yet where was it?

During the voyage a passenger aboard made many inquiries about the ship's "log," the latitude and longitude, the altitude of the polar star, the workings of the compass, the indications of the chronometer, and a lot of other things at which the captain merely shook his head. Finally impatient, the nautical passenger demanded of the captain to get a look at the sextant. At this remark an indignant passenger interposed with, "Dye think this is a church?"

"When are you going to land, Cap?" asked one of the musicians.

"Soon as we get to the shore," responded the captain.

The boat went along somewhere, for several more minutes and then the passengers began to feel awe-stricken. On all sides one beheld—nothing. Even the lights in the heavens had gone out of commission.

Then came a chorus of "Where are we, Captain?"

The captain would give a week's salary for the first correct answer, himself. There was no thing of which he was certain. The boat was still on Lake Mascuppic for there was no land through which it could have sneaked unknown to him, but just where on

THE DEMOCRATS

Protest the Action of Mayor Shedd

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 30.—When Mayor Shedd called last night's joint convention of the city councils to order, 19 republican members took their seats and 15 democratic members filed out the front door of the city hall, leaving the convention without a quorum. This was a new declaration of war by the democratic members against the mayor because of his refusal to listen to their request to suggest appointments to the charter commission.

The meeting of the city councils was called from the chair requesting that the members attend a joint convention to meet the inspectors of check lists and fill a vacancy. The mayor also announced that he would make the appointments of the members of the commission to revise the city charter and provided for in an act passed by the last legislature.

The democratic members of both branches assembled in caucus and de-layed a committee consisting of Alderman James H. Connor and Councilman Walter D. Roberts and Daniel J. Moriarty to wait on the mayor with suggestions.

They told the mayor that his democratic selections were in opposition to their wishes, and asked that they be permitted to suggest five democrats from which he might select the three necessary for the commission. They made this request as a majority of the city councils. After consulting with republican aldermen the mayor refused.

The republican aldermen and councilmen then met in the common council room and City Clerk Cyr called the roll and adjournment took place.

After the meeting Mayor Shedd

stated that he informed the committee of democrats that waited on him that the legislative act providing for the charter commission authorized him to make appointments and not the democratic members of the city council. As far as the election of an inspector of check lists is concerned, he said the inspector had hired a man to do the work and would probably continue to do so.

The democratic claim is that Mayor Shedd exceeded his authority in calling a joint convention and that he took advantage of the absence of some of the democrats to put through the charter commission appointments, which they have been holding up since a year or more ago. Their claim is based on the joint rule, which says that when a convention of the mayor and aldermen and common council is to be held the two boards must meet, and then a message sent from one to the other and a vote taken for the convention meeting.

TRAFFIC RESUMES
BRIDGE AT VARNUM'S LANDING
Uninterrupted traffic between Lowell and Lawrence on the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill division of the Boston & Northern was resumed last night. While the workmen employed in building the state highway along the bank of the river between Lowell and Lawrence were driving new piles for the bridge to span the brook at Varnum's landing it was necessary for passengers on the electric cars to change cars at the bridge. The last pile was driven late yesterday afternoon, however, and now the cars are running through without change.

The government was given until Sept. 23 to file its bill of corrections.

CARDINAL'S HAT

Report That Archbishop O'Connell Will Receive One

ROME, Aug. 30.—It can be stated by good authority that among those who will receive cardinal's caps at the consistory next November are Archbishop O'Connell of New York and O'Connell of Boston. This is the first consistory in three years.

REPORT HARDLY CREDITED
BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Archbishop O'Connell is absent from the city, having gone to Montreal to participate in the eucharistic congress next week. The archbishop will attend to a number of ecclesiastical matters on the way north and started a few days early in consequence.

The report that the Boston prelate would receive the red hat is by no means a new one, but hitherto coming from sources not regarded as authentic and for the most part it has been a report among the laity. Clergymen pay little attention to the reports on account of their knowledge of the position at the Vatican and the fact that one who is to be created a cardinal sometimes gets the first intimation as much as six months in advance. It would be rather rare, according to clergymen, for only a couple of months' notification being given of a prospect of being created a cardinal.

It has now been a long period since any cardinals were created at Rome and there are nearly a score of vacancies in the sacred college. Pope Pius X. apparently is in no hurry to increase the number. Though three or four consistories have been held in the last two years, each time accompanied by rumors that cardinals were to be

CAHILL ELECTED

He Was Chosen Mayor of Lawrence Last Night

LAWRENCE, Aug. 30.—Dr. John T. Cahill was elected mayor at a joint convention of the city council last night, to fill the unexpired term of William P. White, who resigned after being committed to the house of correction on July 13 for three years on conviction of conspiring to effect the removal of James A. Hamilton as chief engineer of the fire department.

This action will preclude the supreme court proceedings scheduled for today, when acting Mayor Thomas M. Jordan was summoned to appear as respondent to a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel him to call a session of the two branches of the government to fill the existing vacancy. The common council had adjourned until the third Monday in September, and the acting mayor, who had been regarded as a candidate for the office ever after City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy had given the opinion that no member of the council was eligible, had refused to call a special meeting of the lower branch on the ground that there was no manifest desire on the part of the councilmen that such a step should be taken.

Last night's meeting was for the purpose of listening to a report of City Engineer Arthur D. Marble relative to his inspection of the Broadway paving contract, complaint having been made that the contractor was not conforming to the specifications. The air was surcharged with talk of a joint convention, however, and on motion of Alderman Tobin it was voted to go into session and elect a mayor.

First Ballot Turns Trick
Aldermen Tobin, Callahan and Moss voted in the affirmative on the motion for a joint convention. Aldermen Jordan and Ford did not vote. The common council unanimously concurred.

The absence of Alderman Scanlon, who is said to be at Bethlehem, N. H., on a vacation, made 12 votes necessary for a choice, and Dr. Cahill had just that number on the first ballot. Councilmen Rushforth and Spencer breaking away from their republican colleagues and voting with 10 democrats for him. There were reports about the chapters that in some quarters it was anticipated there would be no choice and four councilmen were named who were expected to vote for others than the doctor.

These voting for the successful candidate were Aldermen Callahan and Tobin, Councilmen Hegley, Foley, Morrissey, Donnelly, Maxwell, McCarthy, Rushforth, Spencer, Shaw and Welch. Aldermen Jordan and Councilman Noonan voted for Charles E. Bradley, who had been mentioned as a business man's candidate; Alderman Ford and Councilman Nugent for Attorney Michael P. Cronin, Councilmen Keaveney and Nichols for ex-school Commissioner Michael J. Sullivan and Aldermen Moss and four republican councilmen for ex-Alderman Hugh E. Dick.

Jordan Not a Candidate
When the two branches had assembled jointly acting Mayor Jordan said that he desired it known that he was not a candidate for the office. He declared that he had good legal advice that a member of the government was eligible. However, he felt that should he or any other member be chosen, in view of the city solicitor's opinion to the contrary, complications might be caused.

"I waive what personal rights and personal ambition that I may have in favor of the interests of the city," he asserted, and concluded with an expression of appreciation of the support that had been accorded him.

Alderman Cahill announced that Alderman John P. Ryan desired it known that he was not a candidate. The ballot was then taken, and on motion of Alderman Tobin the latter and Alderman Ford were delegated to escort the mayor-elect before the body. The oath of office was administered by Assistant City Clerk Edward J. Wade.

Mayor Cahill expressed briefly his appreciation of the honor conferred and bespoke the support of the members of the government and the heads of departments in his effort to give a creditable administration.

"I assume the office," he said, "with good-will toward everybody and malice toward none."

Mayor Cahill's Training
The two branches adjourned on dissolution of the joint session.

Asked if he had anything to say regarding his policy, Mayor Cahill replied in the negative. "It is too much a matter just now," was the way he put it, referring to the complicated conditions that have followed the incarceration and resignation of ex-Mayor White.

Mayor Cahill is a native of this city, 42 years of age. He was educated in local schools and was graduated from Holy Cross college with degrees of A. B. and A. M. and from Harvard Medical school. He is a ready talker and has appeared as a speaker in state canvasses, having at one time taken part in a Vermont campaign. He was a candidate for the democratic mayoralty nomination in 1903, but was defeated by Michael T. Cronin, who in turn was outstripped by William P. White at the polls. Tables were turned in the democratic primaries last year, but again Mayor White won out.

The new mayor is married and resides at 344 Haverhill street. He is a member of the Elks, Eagles and Father Matthew C. T. society.

The city engineer's report relative to the paving was for the most part favorable to the contractor, but he suggested the election of an inspector of contract mixing. No action was taken on the recommendation.

LOSS IS $5000
Ruggles Foundry Burned at Poultny, Vt.

POULTNEY, Vt., Aug. 30.—Fire early last evening totally destroyed the foundry part of the Ruggles machine shop here, owned by the A. V. Gray Co. of Middletown Springs, and until now buildings can be erected about 10 men will be thrown out of employment. The hard work of the fire department saved the machine shops which were attached to the building.

The loss is estimated at $5000, well covered by insurance. It is very probable that the work of rebuilding will be begun at once. The wooden structure which was 200x50 feet burned like tinder. The blaze was discovered by two boys who live nearby, Dennis Melvin and John Mahan.

An alarm was sounded and the flames shooting skyward attracted nearly everybody in the town. It is thought that the fire started from a spark in the cupola from one of the furnaces.

SEIZED JEWELS

Are Said to be Worth $115,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Announcing that he represented Mrs. J. Reynolds Adriaens, wife of John P. Adriaens of Poughkeepsie, who arrived from Europe Sunday on the Baltic, and who is alleged by customs officials to have failed to declare a pearl necklace valued at $3000, Abram J. Rose, an attorney, appeared at the custom house and requested a hearing in the case.

The pearl necklace was found, it is alleged, by customs officials in the trappings of Mrs. Adriaens' hat. The officials had received word that the necklace had been purchased abroad, and at the pier she is alleged to have denied that she had the jewels. She was taken to her cabin where, according to the officials, the jewels were found.

Although charged specifically with smuggling into this country a pearl necklace, a gold purse and a lace mantle, valued in all at $3000, Mrs. Adriaens must explain where she brought other jewelry valued at more than $100,000 before she is out of the customs net.

According to a statement made at Collector Loe's office yesterday afternoon, jewels with a total value of $115,000 were found in the woman's possession and seized, while from her daughter, Marion, a $3000 pearl necklace was confiscated, and a third necklace taken from Mrs. Mary H. Doughty, a traveling companion.

These additional jewels do not figure in the smuggling charge against Mrs. Adriaens, who appeared before U. S. Commissioner Alexander and gave $750,000 bail after examination, but they are being held pending investigation and the production of bills of sale covering each piece.

The necklace taken from Mrs. Adriaens says, was purchased in this country but lengthened abroad by the insertion of eight pearls.

Bond for Mrs. Adriaens was entered by her husband, who gave as security his residence, "Eden court" at Poughkeepsie, which he said is worth not less than $50,000.

LAKEVIEW PARK

GRAND FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT CLOSING FRIDAY EVENING

Lakeview park will close in an actual blaze of glory next Friday evening, when Masten & Wells, premier fireworks experts, under contract with the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co., will furnish a magnificent and often amusing display of colored flames. The exhibition, extraordinary and spectacular, will be absolutely free. For the evening one will be seemingly transported into another world and after the display will return to the old world with refreshed interest.

The "Magic Hearts" is a remarkable showing of pyrotechnic genius. Two great flaming hearts open and from them shoot, like Jack-in-the-Box, two great heads of flame which nod at each other in a truly ludicrous way. The set piece combines beauty and comedy in most charming fashion. The flaming, bodiless heads try to make friends with each other and act with all Parisian politeness.

Other features in flames abound. "Tree of Fire" is probably one of the most brilliant pieces ever produced. The display opens with a dazzling circle, unfolding the outlines of an immense tree of fire. A sudden explosion fills the air with showers of fire, falling over the tree with a grand effect, while fire balls are thrown to a great height. As the multicolored sparks vanish and then reappear the spectacle is beautiful to behold.

Fully as brilliant is the display, the "Rising of Jupiter." The planet Jupiter is represented as rising from clouds of fire between revolving zones of dazzling colored rings. The effect is striking in the extreme.

Patriotism is excited, if never before, when the stars and stripes are gradually unfurled. At first the lights are all yellow, and then the red, white and blue appear until at length the glorious emblem which all Americans honor is unfurled in glittering grandeur. Cheers are bound to rise when the immense flag flugs up in all its splendor.

Another suggestive patriotic setpiece is the "American Shield." In it the red, white and blue stand out in commanding beauty.

With Friday night's display the most successful season in the history of Lakeview park will close. Every week during July and August special fire attractions have been provided for the park. Next season the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. expects to give still greater and better free attractions.

FATALLY HURT

Boy Was Impaled on a Broken Limb

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 30.—While climbing a plum tree near his home on South Union street yesterday afternoon Stuart Kelley, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley, fell about fifteen feet and was impaled on a broken limb. The wood entered his abdomen, severed the liver and placed his right lung.

The lad calmly extricated himself from his position, descended to the ground, and without uttering a cry walked about 100 yards before he fell. His parents rushed to his assistance. He was taken to Mary Fletcher hospital and operated on. At a late hour last night he was slowly sinking and is expected to die.

The surgeons are astounded at the vitality exhibited by the lad after receiving the unusual injury, which in most cases would have resulted in almost instant death.

FATALLY INJURED

Mrs. Isabella Owler Fell From Window

Mrs. Isabella Owler, widow of the late Charles B. Owler and formerly a resident of this city, passed away very suddenly at her home, 21 Oliver street, Malden, aged 88 years, 1 month and 24 days. Her death occurred as a result of a fall from a second story window at her home Friday morning about 2.45. It is believed that the aged lady went to the window to get some air and in arranging the screen lost her balance and fell out.

Mr. Charles W. Owler, her son, whom she made her home with, was aroused and he carried her into the house and summoned Dr. H. S. Johnson and he made a thorough examination and found that there were no bones broken, but it was feared that on account of her advanced age she would not survive the shock, and the end came peacefully Sunday afternoon. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons, Charles W. of Malden, James of Danvers, and Edward of Somerville, and eight grandchildren.

HAD A REVOLVER

Court Ordered Woman to Sell It

HAVERHILL, Aug. 30.—The fact that Peter Pappas, a Greek, is alive is due to the failure of a revolver that Miss Anne Thompson had in her room at a lodging house on Washington avenue to fire.

Pappas was arrested yesterday morning when he was found asleep in a Greek lodging house on Grundy court. Pappas, who at first gave the name of Charlie George, was found by Sergt. Sullivan and a detail of policemen who investigated the story told by Miss Thompson that when she returned home late last evening she saw a man's leg sticking out beneath the bed in her room. Her statement was that she ordered the man out and that she tried to have him leave the place. The man, she said, refused to go, and then she grabbed the revolver and pointed it at him but it did not work, and the man seized it and escaped.

Miss Thompson's screams attracted the landlady, Mrs. Martha Morgan, and the police were summoned. Accompanied by Miss Thompson, Sergt. Sullivan visited the Greek lodging house and the revolver was found in Pappas' room, and he was arrested on the charge of assault.

Yesterday afternoon he was arraigned in court where Miss Thompson repeated the story she told the police before Pappas' arrest.

The accused denied her statements in his testimony, stating that he met Miss Thompson on the street and accompanied her home, where they had words, because the woman had refused to speak to him on the street. He said that Miss Thompson wanted him to get out and pointed the revolver at him and he took it away from her.

Mrs. Morgan testified that Pappas had never been seen about the place before. Judge Fuller, after hearing the evidence, put Pappas under bonds to keep the peace, and Miss Thompson promised to abide by the suggestion of the court that she sell the revolver.

PAINTERS' UNION

Addressed by National Organizer Cummings

There was a large gathering of painters at the open meeting of the local union held at their hall in Middle street last night, which was addressed by National Organizer Edward J. Cummings of Providence. Besides the members of the craft there were many friends of the painters present.

Mr. Cummings spoke in favor of unionism and he concluded by urging a stronger organization for the city of Lowell. Here, stated the speaker, are the lowest paid journeymen painters in the state. At the present time the scale of wages here varies from $2.25 to $2.50 per day while in Boston, painters doing the same work and laboring less hours receive $3.64 per day. In Providence, R. I., the painters receive $3.25 and in Fall River and Lawrence $3.60 daily.

The officers of the local union spoke briefly and later in the evening an informal program was given.

PLANS SUICIDE

Woman Drowned Herself at Amherst

AMHERST, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Etta E. Hall drowned herself yesterday afternoon in the Connecticut river. She dressed herself carefully and fastened her name and address with a needle inside her hat and took the trolley car, which she left at the west end of Haverhill bridge.

She walked back over the bridge to Norwottuck park, placed her hat with spectacles in it on the bank, removed her dress skirt, waded into the river up to her neck, threw up her hands, screamed and disappeared.

Lawrence Hill saw her from the other side of the river and swam across but arrived too late. Men on the bridge also saw her drown. The body was recovered an hour after and viewed by Medical Examiner Clarence I. Sparks of Easthampton, who allowed the body to be removed to Amherst.

NIGHT EDITION

ENJOYED AN OUTING

Mothers and Children Had Sail Up the River

Two ladies connected with the Young Ladies' Hospital Guild, which has charge of the milk depot in Market street, gave an outing this afternoon to about 20 mothers who patronize the depot and their children, and about 30 children from the Ayer home. The program included a delightful ride up the Merrimack river to South Nashua and return, and during the trip a musical and literary program was carried out and refreshments were served.

The weather was ideal, the arrangements for the affair were carried out in a manner which reflected much credit on the two ladies in charge and through their philanthropy the mothers and their children together with the little ones from the Ayer home had a delightful time. The ladies, who, by the way, requested that their names be omitted, did everything possible to give the mothers, and little ones a good time.

Shortly after 1 o'clock a number of women with their children boarded a special car in Merrimack square and were taken to the steamboat landing in Pawtucket street where the steamboat Gov. Allen was boarded. Later a delegation from the Ayer home pulled in an appearance and at 2:30 o'clock the Gov. Allen under the command of Capt. Prouty swung from its berth into the middle of the stream and piled up the river as far as South Nashua. The anchor was thrown out at this point and ice cream and cake were served.

After the refreshments had been served the boat started back for the landing and is scheduled to arrive in Lowell shortly before six o'clock.

On the trip up and down the river the mothers and children listened to phonographic selections through the courtesy of Mr. Michael Maloney and vocal selections by a trio from the Ayer home, composed of the little Misses Evelyn Mills, Elsie Allen and Frances Kohlmeier.

Among those who assisted the hostesses in entertaining the party were Miss Alice M. Lindsay, who is the head nurse at the milk depot in Market street, and Misses Corcoran and Chubbourn, assistant nurses.

detained as a witness for a short time, but was honorably discharged by Magistrate Corrigan in the west side court. Brown's condition was reported critical last night.

THE CANOE UPSET

Couple Had Narrow Escape

A canoe containing a young man and a young woman was overturned in Lake Massoupee about 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and the couple had a narrow escape from being drowned. The young man hired a canoe at Lakeview earlier in the afternoon and with his female companion was paddling about the lake when the craft was overturned, dumping the couple into the water.

Fortunately the steamer Mascoupee which plies between Lakeview and Breezy Point was making an extra trip across the lake at about the time the canoe was overturned and Capt. Hugh Gorman, Engineer Sidney Rowell and Ropeman Joseph Patenaude succeeded in rescuing the couple.

While the rescued persons were proffered in their thanks to the crew of the steamer they refused to give their names.

3 NEEDED JOBS

Road Improvements in and About Lowell

Three big improvements now under way or about under way are the building of the state highway between Lowell and Lawrence, the laying of the tracks for the West Centralville car line, the curve at Lakeview avenue being already in position and the macadamizing of Main street from the city line to Collinsville under the direction of the state highway. This road is generally used by autos and at present is in bad shape. The new street railway line through West Centralville opens up a fast growing territory while the advantages of the state highway between Lowell and Lawrence along the river bank which has been promised for the past 10 or 12 years are too well known to be described at this time.

CHOSE SUICIDE

Because Their Romance Was Spoiled

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A photograph of American Jacobs and Frances Cienfuegos, two young sweethearts who have been missing since last Saturday from Newark, was received yesterday by Angelo Jacobs, a brother of the missing youth. It was inclosed in an envelope mailed in Brooklyn on Sunday. With it American wrote:

"When you receive this, Frances and I will be dead."

The letter further stated that because Frances' parents would not permit them to marry, they had decided to go away and die together. The photograph had been taken at Coney Island.

On Saturday Jacobs told his sister-in-law, with whom he boarded, that he intended to take Frances to Coney Island and that afternoon. Later in the day Mrs. Jacobs received a note from American, stating that he would not be home that night. Inclosed was his pay envelope and $12, his week's wages. That was the last heard of him until the letter was received by his brother yesterday.

Angelo Jacobs rushed to the Newark police with the letter. He said his brother had brooded over the objections of his sweetheart's parents to his courtship. As the girl was in a similar mood, he feared they might be found dead together. The Brooklyn police were requested to make a thorough search for the missing couple.

Jacobs, who is 20, lived with his brother at 242 Hunterdon street, Newark. Frances, 18, lived with her parents, 172 Bruce street, Newark.

JOHN BROWN STATUE

May be Erected in the Hall of Fame

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 30.—Celebration of the anniversary of the day when John Brown's men withstood ten times their number of Missouri guerrillas in the woods at the edge of the town of Osawatimie began today. At least 25,000 persons are expected here tomorrow at the second day of the celebration when Theodore Roosevelt will make the address dedicating to the state as a park the wooded hillside where the battle was fought.

So much enthusiasm for John Brown has been awakened that a movement for a statue of the western abolitionist in the Hall of Fame was started by a resolution in the morning.

That Kansas always had been a turbulent state, unmistakable in her views

BIG AUTO PARADE

Is to be Held in Lawrence

LAWRENCE, Aug. 30.—A movement is on foot among the automobile owners, dealers and chauffeurs for a grand automobile parade, slow race and hill climb to be held in this city, Oct. 24 and considerable enthusiasm is already aroused in the project. It is planned for the parade to be made up of autos prettily decorated, and trucks with children singing and bands playing as they pass through the streets, and a slow running race which will be an interesting feature. After the race there will be a hill-climb in which will be shown the qualities of the different makes of cars and the expert demonstration of their operators.

Citizens are requested to contribute a sum to be devoted to the purchase of prizes for the various events and a solicitor will be authorized to receive any money for this purpose.

Manuel P. Silva, chauffeur for Dr. M. P. Sullivan, has been planning for some time for this event. He feels that if he has the co-operation of the auto dealers, owners and their chauffeurs and the citizens of Lawrence that this can be made a very successful affair.

A meeting will be held at the Common street garage, Friday evening of this week to select a committee to make arrangements for the affair and any person interested is invited to be present.

CHARLES KIDDER

BOSTON MAN WELL KNOWN

HERE PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY

The many Lowell friends of Mr. Charles Kidder of Boston, formerly purser on the Joy line of New York steamers and a frequent visitor to this city, will be deeply pained to learn of his death which occurred in Boston suddenly last Friday, the funeral being held on Sunday. The deceased was a close friend of the late John J. Mahoney and a kindred spirit, and their deaths coming within a few days of each other have cast a gloom over and ready to take her share in the responsibility in any national question, was the principal point emphasized by Joseph G. Waters of Topeka, the orator of the day, who, referring to Mr. Roosevelt, said:

"Tomorrow an even greater audience than this will be addressed by an ex-president of the United States, illustrious, honored in all lands, and especially loved in Kansas. We glory in him as a magnificent specimen of an American citizen."

Following Mr. Waters' address, Mr. Heacock of Parsons, Kan., department president of the relief corps, who was leader for the movement which resulted in the buying of the park, made a short address.

a wide circle of friends. Mr. Kidder was a man of most admirable traits, the soul of good nature, scrupulously honest, and generous to a fault he made friends wherever he went. Mr. Kidder was the guest of Mr. William F. Foye of the Park hotel within a few weeks and at that time was in the best of health and spirits. Heart trouble was the cause of death. The deceased was a popular figure in ward eight, Boston, and was a member of the Lancaster club of ward eight and Boston Lodge of Elks. He is survived by one sister.

A BITTER FIGHT

Between Insurgent Republicans and Standpat Forces

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 30.—A clash over the endorsement of President Taft's administration as a whole seemed inevitable when the republican council met here today. Senator Dristow, leading the insurgents, had openly declared that Kansas republicans would not acquiesce in an approval of Secretary Ballinger's removal of Chief Forester Pinchot and the railroad bill as originally introduced in the last congress.

Senator Curtis, on the other hand, said he would insist upon an unqualified endorsement of the national administration.

At the opening of the council the situation had apparently developed into a clean-cut fight between insurgent and standpat forces.

Resolutions prepared by William Allen White, the Emporia editor, and embodying the sentiments as expressed by Senator Bristow, Governor Stubbs, Congressman Murdock and the other insurgent leaders, read as follows:

"We, the republicans of Kansas, in party council, desiring to express our pride in the traditions of our party, for that respect and veneration to those traditions and for the history we have made may be most adequately and fittingly expressed by turning our faces forward rather than backward. Therefore, we bind ourselves to specific further performances rather than to ask for votes by reason of our past achievements, however great it is. Our platform shall be a guarantee of performance rather than a confession of faith."

"Yet we must congratulate President Taft as republicans on the successful outcome of the progressive party measures in congress; the postal savings bank law, the railroad law, and the law providing for the publicity of campaign expenses. And in this connection we wish to commend Representatives Murdock and Madison for their work in congress pursuant to the instructions of the Kansas republican platform of 1908 in modifying the rules of congress so that the enactment of these long-delayed measures was made possible. We wish to commend Senator Bristow for his hard and efficient work to carry out successfully his platform pledge to secure the enactment of the well known long and short haul clause in the inter-state commerce law. We pledge anew our loyalty to the republican national platform of 1908 and bind ourselves to carry out its declarations, accepting the policy of protection as outlined in our platform as the established policy of the nation and binding our members of congress in both houses to vote steadfastly and without reference to any other instructions for a revision of the tariff law of 1909, using as a basis for fixing duties the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad with a reasonable profit for American manufacturers."

"We do not recognize the revision of the tariff of 1909 as a satisfactory fulfillment of the tariff pledge of the republican senators and congressmen to work and vote for legislation that will create an independent non-partisan tariff commission to ascertain accurately the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad and immediately to fix the duties on the basis of this information."

"We pledge our senators and representatives to vote for a joint resolution that will promote the revision of the tariff one schedule at a time."

"We demand the strictest enforcement of the anti-trust laws and enactment of a law providing a jail sentence for willful violation of the anti-trust laws."

Other things that the republican senators and congressmen of Kansas are pledged to vote for are:

Amendments to the inter-state commerce law so as to give power and money to the inter-state commerce commission to ascertain the physical valuation of the railroads; laws that will prevent over-capitalization of corporations; measures concerning the conservation of natural resources along the lines advocated by former President Roosevelt in order to prevent private interests from obtaining unrestricted control of the vast mineral, water and timber resources of Alaska; consolidation of all appointive state and national offices, boards and commissions where good administration and economy have common interests; reduction of tax levies, direct or indirect.

Former President Roosevelt is commended by the resolution in these words:

"We send our greeting to Theodore Roosevelt, the new world's champion of the rights of man in the world-old contest between rising humanity and the encroachment of special privilege. And as republicans we stand ready to enlist under his banner in the fight for human rights."

THE CRIPPEN CASE

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Dr. Hawley Crippen, jointly accused with Ethel Clara Leneve of the murder of his wife, has suffered a nervous collapse and was removed today to the hospital ward of Brixton jail. Solicitor Newton states that his client has given him an explanation of the farewell message found among the prisoner's effects by Inspector Dew which will throw a different light on the matter when it is made public. The message was read in court yesterday at the arraignment of Crippen and Miss Leneve and indicated that the writer contemplated suicide.

TEXT OF THE TREATY

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The text of the treaty by which the Korean kingdom was annexed to the empire of Japan was published here today and in the case of the Novoe Vremya was accompanied by a bitterly sarcastic editorial in which Korea is likened to an oyster which is about to be swallowed, treats with the gastronomoi who already has squeezed the lemon juice upon it. The sole document of importance in the official exchanges is the abolishing of the consular courts and the customs and the coasting trade right made subject to abolition after ten years.

The Novoe Vremya adds that the United States and Great Britain have been hard hit in the opinion of the editor who concludes that a war is the sole means of annulling a fact, the situation will be accepted for "assuredly nobody would go to war for Korea."

6 O'CLOCK McGEE CAPTURED

But It is Believed That He is Fatally Shot

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Private McGee of Troop L, Tenth U. S. Cavalry, who shot and killed Private Turner of Company B, 24th regiment, and Corporal Jones of Company C of the 24th, all negroes, at Watertown last night, was captured at Boonville, 25 miles north of here, early today and in a run, the officers following. Two residents of the village tried to stop him, but McGee drew his big cavalry pistol and stood them off. Others joined in the chase and McGee was cornered between the canal and a knitting mill. Closely pressed, he jumped into the water and, standing waist deep, turned the run on his pursuers. Studor told him to surrender. McGee replied with a bullet. Studor returned the fire. Walter Rinkie came up with a rifle. Both Rinkie and Studor fired at the same time and the negro dropped with two bullets in his back. Physicians say he cannot live.

AN EARTHQUAKE BUMPER CROPS

Felt in Town of New- Are Being Harvested in port, N. H. Connecticut

NEWPORT, N. H., Aug. 30.—An earthquake caused considerable excitement in this section of New Hampshire this forenoon, but did no damage. In this town residents felt a distinct trembling of the earth and dishes rattled on the shelves of houses. The shock came at about 9.30 a. m. and lasted for three seconds. It was accompanied by a loud noise resembling thunder. The whole region was shaken.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 30.—Two bumper crops are being harvested in Connecticut. The peach orchards yield in the aggregate half a million bushels of luscious fruit. One grower will ship 50,000 bushels from his own orchards. The other crop is that of tobacco, which is now maturing. Reports from every part of the state indicate that the crop is the finest in years. At New Milford 20 cents a pound has been offered for the first quality of leaf as against 10 cents a pound for the past three years. Tobacco plants are unusually large, free from grasshoppers and wormholes and the leaves bear no evidence of hail. The size of the leaves adds to the yield for acre and many growers are cutting from 2500 to 3000 pounds to the acre. A factor in the splendid yield is the adoption by growers of methods suggested by government experts who have investigated conditions in this state for several years. Especially in handling the leaf after cutting are results proving satisfactory. A continuation of good weather will round out the harvest, bringing to growers several millions of dollars.

HIBERNIAN CONVENTION

WESTERVILLE, R. I., Aug. 30.—The Ancient Order of Hibernians with the Ladies' Auxiliary met here today for the annual state convention. More than 300 members were present when the meeting was called to order by President Thomas J. Matthews of Providence. State President Mrs. Ellen Ryan Jolly of Pawtucket opened the session of the Ladies' Auxiliary. The convention was of unusual interest to members of the organization this year because of the recently formed alliance between the Hibernians and the German National Alliance.

THE CZAR ARRIVES

FRIEDBERG, Hesse, Aug. 30.—Emperor Nicholas and Empress Alexandra of Russia arrived here safely at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon. Their majesties were accompanied into German territory by a suite of 50 persons. Before the arrival of the imperial train great crowds gathered in the streets in hopes of having a view of the visitors. They were not disappointed, for the emperor and empress were driven from the railroad station to the castle which they will occupy while here, in an open automobile. Their suites followed also in open motor cars.

PLAYGROUND FETE

SKETCHES ON THE CLOSING DAY OF THE PLAYGROUND SEASON.

Demonstration of Supervised Play Draws Thousands to So. Common

A delightful scene, a scene of rare beauty, was presented at the South common this afternoon when nearly 2000 children gathered there to participate in the closing exercises, for this season, of Lowell's supervised playgrounds. For beauty and inspiration there isn't anything to compare with the glad faces of happy children at play and if you missed the exercises at the common this afternoon you missed a whole lot.

It was a play festival and it was certainly nothing short of beautiful. It goes without saying that there was a great many happy parents present and the attendance was large because the closing exercises had been pretty well advertised. There was still another reason why the attendance was large. It's something that moves the world and it is nothing more nor less than the love of children. Any man or woman with the milk of human kindness in his or her heart cannot but love children.

The weather clerk was very gracious and passed out the proper article so far as weather was concerned and that was the greatest concern. If it had rained the exercises would have been held in the high school drill shed where they would have lost a deal of their spirit of attractiveness.

If the park commission and the playground supervisors had had a day made to order it could not have been better suited for the occasion than was today and the scene on the South common this afternoon was, as the old saying goes, "a cure for sore eyes."

The benefit of supervised playgrounds was clearly made manifest and that the supervision of our playgrounds will be continued there is no doubt.

Judge Pickman, chairman of the park commission, is a firm believer in supervised playgrounds. It was mainly through Judge Pickman's efforts that the supervision of playgrounds in Lowell was brought about, and he is well pleased with the work as far as it has gone and he sincerely hopes that it will be continued. The children have had a delightful time during the summer months and their mothers appreciate how great has been the benefit to the children.

Mayor Mearns, too, is heartily in favor of supervised playgrounds. He says that nothing should be of more interest to the mayor of a city than the proper bodily and mental training of the boys and girls. He believes that the right kind of play helps to make good American citizens of our boys and girls.

The exercises this afternoon were held on the baseball diamond of the common and quite a number of automobiles drew up longwise to witness the festival or inter-playground meet. At 2 o'clock Miss Anna Moran, supervisor-in-chief of the girls, gave the training which the girls have received has formed no small part of their instruction. It is the folk dancing which has particularly attracted them. The practicing of the folk dances has been carried on both in the open air and in the basement of the Elliot school.

The playground march was followed by the folk dances selected by the desire of the little girls as their favorites. Some of the dances called for typical costumes of the countries whose dances were used, and many of the costumes were made by the girls themselves and their ability to make their own costumes is due to that particular branch of playground training.

The Dance Program
These are the dances that captivated the onlookers at the festival this afternoon:

March.
Carnival: Swedish singing game, This dance represents the Merry-go-round of Flying Horses. During the first part the Merry-go-round is supposed to be just starting; in the second part it is in full swing.
The Rabbit.
Narrow-gauge Mountain March. This dance represents two travelers lost in the mountains with their guide. In the second part of the dance a house of shelter has been reached and merry-making takes place.
Captain Ball, Hunting, The Farmer, North common playgrounds.
Hill and Hill, Hunting, The Farmer, South common.
Solo, Spanish dance.
Hill and Hill, Hunting, The Farmer, South common.
The dancing was followed by a drill in calisthenics, and following that an exhibition of the favorite group games by the girls from each of the large playgrounds. Little Canada chose the "arrow" and "rabbit," North common, "Captain Ball," "Dodge Ball" and "The Farmer," South common, "Did You Ever See a Lark?"

Musical for the dancing and the group games was furnished by Hubbard's orchestra, accompanied by a piano, lent for the occasion by Grunwald's music store.

Boys' Program

After the girls had finished with their part of the exhibition, the boys had their 1-2-3. The boys were "high there with the berries" and the program, which was thoroughly enjoyed, was as follows:

1—60 yard dash, class A, 12 years and under.
2—75 yard dash, class B, 12 to 14, inclusive.
3—100 yard dash, class C, 14 to 16, inclusive.

5—Bag race, classes B and C.
6—60 yard dash, final, class A.
7—75 yard dash, final, class B.
8—100 yard dash, final, class C.

16—Hurdle race, under two years.
17—Shoe and stocking race, free for all.

18—Sack race, classes A and B.

The officials at the meet are as follows: clerks of course, Christopher Seal's, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., Cheung Lawrence and Head Supervisor of Playgrounds G. C. Wilton; referee, G. C. Wilton; starter, C. P. Dodge; announcer, Charles R. Church; scorer, R. D. Gumb; judge, T. R. William; of the Y. M. C. A.

Industrial Work Done

Specimens of the industrial material of the girls have been on exhibition in Dows' drug store and they afforded an excellent idea of the accomplishments of the girls in this direction. Among the specimens were embroidered belts and collars, and linens, made by the older girls; sewing cards, by those of the kindergarten age; paper dolls by the middle sized group; patchwork quilts, for doll and baby carriages; sofa pillow tops; aprons; bead work, red, cane and raffia work; sewing bags; and by one group, cardboard construction work, comprising a house and house furnishings.

The staff of supervisors in charge of the exhibit and of the festival was as follows: Mr. George E. Wilton and Miss Anna Moran, chief supervisors. On the North common, Mr. Charles R. Church and Miss Mabel Dockendorf in charge, and Miss Rose Geary assisting. South common, Mr. Cheung Lawrence and Miss Gretchen Billings in charge, Miss Dorothy Barclay and Miss Pauline Coggeshall assisting. Little Canada, Mr. Cecil P. Dodge and Miss Mildred Dunn in charge, Miss Regina Frappier assisting. Fiske street, Miss Eugenia "Crappie" in charge. Fayette street, Miss Prescott in charge.

IN POLICE COURT

Today's Docket Showed
Minor Cases

This morning's session of the police court was comparatively short due to the fact that several cases which were scheduled for hearings were settled without going to trial.

The case of Aaron Peterlosky, charged with assault and battery on Louis P. Caron, was called for trial, but Messrs. Joseph E. Loughran and J. Joseph Hennessy, counsel in the case, had a conference with the court relative to a civil settlement and the case was dismissed. The assault took place a week ago Saturday in Middlesex street. It is alleged that Caron, who was intoxicated, was bothering Peterlosky, who keeps a second hand clothing store in Middlesex street. Caron tried to enter Peterlosky's store and the latter pushed him into the street. Caron falling and striking on his head. The case of Anastasios Voufas, charged with the larceny of $35 from John Thomas, was also settled. This case grew out of the dissolution of partnership and it is alleged that the defendant collected some of the money due the firm. D. J. Donahue and J. Joseph Hennessy appeared as counsel in the case.

Michael Kissalik, charged with assault and battery on Mary A. Kott, pleaded guilty, but no finding was made because the parties in the case reached an agreement.

Sent to the Reformatory
Constantinos Manopoulos, who was yesterday morning guilty of the larceny of carpenter tools from Leroy Dunn, was this morning sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory.

Drunken Offenders
Mary Brennan was charged with being drunk and admitted that she had partaken of a few drinks but promised to let drink alone if given a chance. She was given a suspended sentence to the women's prison at Sherborn.

Thomas McGovern was sentenced to four months in jail, Timothy Desmond goes to the state farm, and Elizabeth Gennell will spend the next three months in jail.

David Sheehan was fined $6 and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

H.) most highly respected and prominent citizens, died at his home on Highland avenue, at the Centre, Sunday afternoon, of Bright's disease and asthma, at the age of 68. He had lived in Salem for over 40 years. He was a member of the Grand Army, and had held many prominent offices in the same. He was also a Mason, and past master of the Salem lodge. He is survived by a wife, and son, Fred Maxwell, of the depot, and one brother, Wilbur Maxwell, of Maine.

WORTH $75,000

Another Rich Discovery at Brown Farm

AUBURN, Me., Aug. 30.—A notable discovery of gems was that of Saturday at the old Brown farm on the road from Marston's corner to Minot, about six miles out of this city.

In one pocket in a tourmaline mine on that farm uncovered by a single blast, were found 6000 carats of the finest tourmaline. As the year worth $15 a carat out, this means that the pocket contained from $60,000 to $75,000 worth of the gems.

Two weeks ago two other pockets were struck in the same mine which yielded not less than 200 carats of rough crystals, so that in the last two weeks gems which will run well up over the $100,000 mark have been taken out of this mine. The owner of the mine is L. H. Harvey of Ash street, Lewiston. He leased the Brown farm a little less than 10 years ago for the feldspar which was on it.

Scarcely any of the gems will cut less than a 10-carat tourmaline, and many of them will cut 50 carats. By a curious coincidence Mr. Farrington, collector for the Field museum in Chicago, was present when the pocket was opened, and the figures given are made up in his estimates.

IF IT KEEPS ON

Every house in Lowell and surrounding towns will have a CRAWFORD RANGES in it. In spite of all the talk of hard times, we have sold three times as many CRAWFORD RANGES this month than any August in the history of this store. It's wonderful. And yet, why should any one buy any other range? The CRAWFORD has everything that makes any range a good range. It's built for weight. That makes it better, no matter how good other ranges may be, and sure for size and weight for weight. The CRAWFORD costs no more than any of the half dozen other good makes on the market.

O'Rourke Explains His Plan to President Taft

BEVERLY, Aug. 30.—If plans which Pres. Taft regards favorably are adopted, the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor 12 years ago and since then concealed the secret of the disaster which overwhelmed her, may be sailing homeward on or before Christmas, bearing a long-delayed verdict to the nation.

John F. O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction company of New York, submitted the plans yesterday to President Taft. They poured over them for two hours and O'Rourke departed with instructions to meet the president in Washington in the last week in September, when definite action will be taken.

The government is asked to furnish men, tugs and other assistance, which will co-operate with the O'Rourke forces in raising the Maine out of her grave of mud and water. In this way, Mr. O'Rourke says, the work can be done without the appropriation of $300,000 made by congress. A commission has been appointed to study the plans and pronounce their judgment when President Taft and O'Rourke meet for the final conference in Washington.

So impressively did O'Rourke state his case that the president favors the immediate selection of an engineer to undertake the task without going through the usual procedure of advertising for bids. It is not certain, however, that bids can be dispensed with, but the matter will be taken up with the attorney-general, and if he gives his approval the reclaiming of the Maine will be under way early in October.

Patriotism is understood to have much to do with an offer made by Mr. O'Rourke which will insure apparently that Uncle Sam will get the job done most reasonably. It is understood that Mr. O'Rourke agrees, granted government assistance, to undertake the task, and when it is completed have a reasonable sum for doing the job, will constitute his price, the total doubtless coming within the $300,000 appropriation.

The plan provides for raising the Maine by means of pneumatic caissons and steel cables. The ship will be preserved intact, Mr. O'Rourke says, with every evidence of the disaster which she may bear.

It is proposed to construct on piles a line of wharves about 20 feet from the other side of the ship. Between it and the wharves will be sunk pneumatic caissons to a depth of about 10 feet below the keel of the Maine. Cables will be passed down one side of the caissons under the Maine and up the other side to the caissons there.

These cables will be placed at intervals of four feet and form a cradle in which the Maine will rest. The combined strength of the cables will be four times the weight of the ship.

Jack screws, to which the ends of the cables will be fastened, will be stationed on platforms erected over the caissons and when the jacks are operated the tightening cables will raise the Maine from her berth of mud and gradually lift her clear from the water. The caissons are planned to have a capacity of 50 per cent more sustaining power than the weight of the Maine.

As the caissons are called upon to support the Maine, pneumatic devices are installed, which will increase their efficiency so that they will not sink in the mud. About 1000 men will be required to attend to the jacks and other equipment and it is proposed that the government furnish all or part of this force, calling out a regiment if necessary. It is further proposed that repair ships in southern waters be sent to Havana.

"I am confident that the work could be done successfully if my plan is adopted," Mr. O'Rourke said after his conference with the president. "It is based on proven scientific principles. When the ship is raised, a platform above water and under the ship could be constructed between the caissons. The supporting cables would constitute a drydock on which the Maine could rest while she was being examined. Every facility for examination and repairs would be afforded."

Secretary of the Navy Meyer called at Burkes Point and viewed the plans while they were under discussion. His visit was for the purpose of conferring with the president on economy administration for the federal departments in Washington.

Juan Sumulong, one of the Filipino members of the Philippine commission, who is returning from Europe, was given an audience by the president yesterday afternoon.

At noon Mr. Taft pressed an electric button, compelling a circuit which opened the Ohio Valley exposition in Cincinnati.

CONGRESSMAN LLOYD

Says That the Tide is Against The Republicans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—"There is every prospect of a democratic victory in the congressional elections," said Representative Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the democratic congressional committee yesterday. "I do not expect a tremendous democratic tidal wave, but I believe we will have a safe majority in the next house."

Representative Lloyd came here from Buffalo, where he had a conference with Norman B. Mack, chairman of the democratic national committee. Asked about the campaign plans, Mr. Lloyd said:

"There is nothing new about our campaign plans. We will continue to appeal to the people upon the issues of the iniquitous tariff, the increased cost of living, Cannonism and the bad record of the republican party. On these issues we expect to be successful. Democrats everywhere are working in harmony. Not in years has the party been so thoroughly united."

Pleased by G. O. P. Quarrels

Representative Lloyd left for New York last evening to confer with the democratic managers there. Before leaving he announced that he would continue his travels about the country, spending part of his time at the Washington headquarters of the committee and part at the Chicago headquarters.

The campaign in the east will be directed from Washington, while the Chicago headquarters will have charge of the western campaign. The south will be left to take care of itself, the feeling being that except in a few districts there is no danger of democratic defeat. These districts will be looked after carefully.

Representative Lloyd expressed himself as very much pleased with the general feeling of disgust with government and economic conditions and against the party responsible for them.

"This feeling extends from Maine to California. In Maine it promises to be responsible for a democratic victory. In Massachusetts the disgust with republicanism and all the name implies which resulted in the election of Representative Ross some months ago will be much more manifest this fall."

"It is not any one thing that has caused the people to turn to the democracy for relief. In some sections it is the tariff, in others the increased cost of living, in others Cannonism."

"Here it may be the general spirit of insurgency against corporation influence in politics. There it may be dissatisfaction with an individual republican. But whatever the cause, the general dissatisfaction, discontent and disgust in different localities the democratic party will be the beneficiary."

Roosevelt Behind Longworth

"The regular republicans would rather see democrats win than insurgents victorious, while the insurgents will vote for democrats in preference to helping elect regular candidates. The republican split is especially wide in the west. In Indiana Senator Beveridge is defeated and a democrat will succeed him. In Ohio Gov. Harmon will be triumphantly re-elected. In Chicago the democrats will gain several congressional districts. In Kansas, Iowa and other states democratic prospects were never better."

"In New York the fight between the Roosevelt-Hughes forces and the 'old guard' republican politicians bids fair to result in the election of a democratic governor and a gain of democratic conditions are ripe for democratic victory."

"Mr. Longworth's announcement that

In an Attempt to Rescue a Child From Drowning

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—While endeavoring to rescue her child, Marie, two years and eight months old, from drowning in Jamaica pond yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Catherine M. Hogarty, wife of Patrick J. Hogarty of 15 Hall street, Jamaica Plain, lost her life by drowning, and an unknown man, about 60 years old, who attempted to rescue Mrs. Hogarty and her baby, was also drowned.

The baby, Marie Hogarty, was rescued by the heroic act of Miss Martha Daley, 25 years old, a nursery maid employed by Dr. Mark W. Richardson of 110 Moss Hill road, Jamaica Plain, who, on seeing the frantic efforts of the unknown man in his attempt to aid Mrs. Hogarty and the child, ran into the water and brought the baby safely to shore.

Mrs. Hogarty, with her children, Marie and Annie, 10 months old, went to the pond, as has been their custom this summer, to spend the afternoon under the trees near the shore.

Baby Marie was sitting in the four-wheeled carriage with leather hood, while Annie was sitting on the grass beside her mother under a tree nearly opposite the end of Elliot street. There the ground at the shore of the pond rises to a slight knoll that is quite irregular and precipitous.

From some cause unexplained the carriage with Marie in it started down the embankment toward the water. The mother screamed, got to her feet as quickly as possible and ran after the carriage, hoping to stop it before it should reach the water.

But the carriage with Marie sitting in it rolled quickly down the hill and into deep water.

The shore at this point, near where the old boathouse stood, dips quickly and the water is a number of feet deep. When the carriage struck the water the baby was thrown out.

Mrs. Hogarty thought nothing of her danger, but madly sprang into the water to save Marie.

In her excitement she screamed and floundered about and attracted the attention of an aged man.

He ran up the path and boldly jumped into the water to rescue mother and child.

He is said to have reached Mrs. Hogarty, who was fast losing her strength and took hold of her. The baby had floated away a little distance from Mrs. Hogarty, and she frantically endeavored to reach her child. As a result there was a struggle with the unknown man and both sank.

Miss Daley was sitting on the grass not far from the scene of the accident with little Martha Richardson. Seeing the danger of the baby Hogarty drowning, she ran into the water up to her waist and rescued the baby. When Miss Daley had reached the shore with the child, she turned to see how the man was getting along in his effort to rescue Mrs. Hogarty, and to her amazement and grief both man and woman had disappeared from view.

Martha Nece of 14 Humboldt place, South Boston, was driving past the place and, hearing the screams of people, left his wagon and, on learning what had happened, he walked into the water up to his waist in an effort to recover the man and woman. A plant growth in the pond prevented him from seeing either.

Sergeant Gilman of police division 13, who was a short distance away, also heard the screams and, snatching a life preserver from a post on the shore, ran to the spot. When he arrived both Mrs. Hogarty and her would-be rescuer had disappeared. Other men who were attracted to the spot tried in every way to aid in the quick recovery of the bodies.

Simon Fraser and George Erickson, employed at the boathouse at Jamaica pond, manned two boats and hurried to the spot where it was said the two persons had sunk, and they were ready to make the attempt at recovery of the bodies by diving. But they did not know where to dive.

Sergeant Gilman went to a police signal box and notified Capt. Harman at division 13, and the patrol wagon with grappling irons was hurried to the pond, with Sgt. Frank Arnold and Patrolmen Berthel, Egan, Claffin and Illoves.

SHOT IN THE NECK

Haverhill Man is Not Expected to Live

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 30.—As the result of a quarrel over a basin of water, Antonio S. Scattolero, commonly known as Tony Capollo, an Italian, aged about 40, of 227 River street, Haverhill, is at the Hale hospital and his name has been put on the dangerous list. He has two bullet wounds in the left side of his neck and one in the right arm near the shoulder. A general alarm has been sounded for the capture of James Rossi, who is accused of doing the shooting.

The men were attached to a gang engaged in resurfacing with oil the state highway on Storey avenue in this city, under the direction of Walter Cressy of Gloucester, the contractor. They had finished work for the day and had gone to the camp which had been established near the Storey avenue schoolhouse.

Just what started the quarrel is not clear, but it is alleged that Scattolero, succeeded in getting a basin of water away from Rossi after quite a struggle. It is charged that Rossi then drew a pistol and fired three shots in quick succession at Scattolero, who staggered a few feet and dropped to the ground. Rossi at once fled in the darkness into the fields toward the Newbury line.

In the excitement everybody turned their attention to aiding the wounded man. It was at once seen that he had been badly injured. Mr. Cressy took him into his automobile and started to a local hospital, where Scattolero begged to be taken to Haverhill. He said he felt that he would die and that he had a daughter there whom he wanted to see before he passed away. Yielding to his request, Mr. Cressy, turned his machine and made for the Hale hospital in the up-river city, 15 miles away.

The physicians found one bullet embedded in the shoulder and two in the neck, and that the patient's condition was extremely critical.

Storey avenue is in the outskirts of the city, and it was an hour after the shooting occurred before the local police heard of it. Then Capt. Wells, Patrolmen Woodman, Moynihan and Haley made a quick trip to the scene and, assisted by armed citizens, began beating the woods toward Crow lane, in which direction the fugitive had gone. They covered several miles of territory, but owing to the darkness and a thick fog were unable to make much headway, and shortly before 10 gave up the search for the night.

Rossi is described as 5 feet 8 inches tall, weighs 175, dark complexion and with sunburned arms. He has a smooth face and wore a tan colored shirt, black tie and white felt hat. Word was received by telephone that a man answering the description had been seen in West Newbury about an hour after the shooting, and that he was hurrying in the direction of Ipswich.

City Marshal McLean telephoned a description to all cities and towns between here and Boston.

LODGE FORCES BUSY

Looking for Support in Congress—'man Ames' Bailiwick

Attempt Made to Have Democrat Run in 17th District—Congressman Green Criticizes Ames—Boston Man Declares for Ames

While Congressman Greene of Fall River has been assailing the methods of Congressman Ames in his campaign for United States senator, emissaries of Senator Lodge are reported to have been using similar methods right here in Lowell, the only difference being that Congressman Ames has openly stated that he will canvass every corner of the state for votes while the Lodge people have practically given the assurance that they would not seek support in this section of the state and have then come here under cover as it were to do their campaign work.

Here is what Congressman Greene writes:

"In all the history of the state no such spectacle has ever been presented as has been called to the attention of the people of this section of the commonwealth during the last few weeks by an aspirant to the high and honorable office of U. S. senator residing in Middlesex county.

"He is down on the bosses. Then he proceeds to hold conferences for the purpose of procuring candidates for the legislature in both Fall River and New Bedford, and it is openly stated that he will with his untold wealth pay all the campaign expenses and will proceed to put the Ames' collar around the necks of the candidates he selects, and he asks that they shall obey his will in the legislature."

"Personally I care nothing for the distasteful regarding myself. Nothing I can say or do will injure me; but I have some regard for the high office of U. S. senator and I hope the republican voters may awaken themselves regarding the situation that confronts them."

A former ward six councilman who is well known in the 17th district was asked to run for representative in that district on the democratic ticket being given assurances of support if he would allow his name to be used. He declined but reports that it is from the information given him if he ran as a Lodge man he would be supported. Wonder how the high minded seniors of the republican party will like the idea of their model senator becoming democratic candidates for the legislature.

Senator Joseph H. Hibbard, who is an avowed Ames supporter, was assured by representatives of the state central committee recently that the committee would interfere in the legislative contests in this vicinity, which information has been taken by the local republicans to mean that the Lodge forces would not attempt to fight the contest on his own bailiwick. Ames' best, the Pawtucket candidate for sen-

SAFE BLOWERS

Got Large Amount of Stage Money

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Three safe blowers partly wrecked the Leland theatre early yesterday, dynamited the safe and secured $100,000 in stage money and $500 in real cash. The Lake street police arrived on the scene eight hours after the crackmen had departed. They believe they can recover the $100,000 in stage money, unless the safe blowers buy vegetables with it from some newly arrived immigrant. The $500 in legal tender they have no hope of tracing.

Tearing down the plush curtain draperies in front of the store—the theatre is owned by Weiner & Ottman, merchants—the burglars carried them to the theatre office to use in deadening the noise of the explosion.

TO PATENT LANDS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—At a meeting held here yesterday between officers in the field service of the general land office and officers of the forestry service an agreement was reached which gave to the general land office all responsibility for the patenting of lands in the public domain. The agreement places in effect the compact recently entered into between Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson respecting the rights of the two branches of the service.

The agreement provides that forest service officers shall report upon all locations made upon forest lands for any purpose and after the reports have been sent to Washington they shall be returned through the secretary of the interior to the chiefs of the field divisions for the various districts. After examination of the report the field division officers may confirm the report or they may order a new examination if there is anything about the papers to excite suspicion.

WOMAN SHOT HERSELF NEAR SEA TRAGEDY

But She Will Not Make Known Steamer Mascuppic Was Lost in Her Name the Fog

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—While surgeons in the Flower hospital were making every effort today to save the life of the fashionably attired young woman who shot and seriously wounded herself in the crowded waiting room of the Hotel Astor late last night, the attempts of the authorities to obtain a clue to the woman's identity were unavailing. She still persisted in refusing to answer questions. Whenever an effort was made to get her to say who she was she would bite her lips and shake her head.

Surgeons today say the young woman's condition was serious and that an operation would probably have to be performed on her during the day. She walked into the hotel shortly before midnight last night, seated herself in the woman's room and a moment later shot herself in the breast. She was conscious when taken to the hospital. "I did it myself," was all she would say, steadfastly refusing to say where she was or where she lived. She is about 25 years old, of medium height and light complexion, wore no jewelry and had only a small amount of money with her in a handbag.

LOSS IS $10,000 VICIOUS ATTACKS

Inmates of Cambridge House Escaped

Fishermen Are Hard Hit by Sharks

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 30.—Sixty persons were aroused from sleep early today by policemen and firemen and carried in safety from a burning tenement house on Putnam avenue, Cambridgeport. There were twelve families living in the house, mostly foreigners. The building was located in the heart of the factory tenement district and other property was threatened. Two firemen were overcome by smoke but none of the inmates was injured. The house was destroyed, causing a loss of $10,000.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Sharks in great numbers have so interfered with the fishermen who have been working the lower channel during the past few days that many of the boats have been obliged to return to Boston with unusually small loads of fish and minus a goodly part of their fishing outfit.

So ravenous have the sharks become as a result of long fasts, due to the bad weather outside, that they even jump at the fish that have been caught upon the trawls, carry them away and destroy the trawl.

A number of the boats in yesterday reported the loss of many tubs full of fishing gear.

The savage fish have become so numerous and daring that many of the boats have equipped their men with gaffs and spears, but these are of little effect. In several cases the shark has swum away with the gaff protruding from his back, simply diving beneath the water and disappearing. Several times sharks darted entirely out of the water when fish were pulled from them.

M. Lorenz of the Nettie Franklin became enraged at a great shark that persisted in attempting to snap a fish from his hook, and he pulled in his trawl and plunged a gaff into the shark's back. The shark was away in a moment, with the gaff still clinging to him. Others of the same crew lost gaffs in a similar manner.

As a result of the shark's attacks the Robert and Arthur lost 15 tubs of gear and the Nettie Franklin 10 tubs, 10 tubs more being so seriously damaged as to be useless. Aside from this Captain Frank Caspa of the Matchless lost $350 worth of jewels, due to the sharks.

It was reported at T wharf that of the 35 vessels that were at Provincetown, Friday, waiting for bait, five were still there three days yesterday morning.

JOHN CHASE TO ATTEND THE CONVENTION DRUGGISTS

"Dr." John Chase, head druggist at the drug store of T. C. Goodale, in Central street has gone on his vacation. The genial John is not to have the time of his life, and the mortar, pestle and the prescription counter will see him no more for a few weeks at least, as he will take in all the beaches on the north shore after which he will go to Newport and Narragansett Pier, where he will attend a genuine Rhode Island clam bake. After seeing the sights of Newport a side trip to New York will engage his attention and later he will go to Atlantic City, where he will be a guest at the "Druggists' convention which will be held there. John is well known to all the druggists and is considered the life of any gathering fortunate enough to have his presence. Mr. Chase is very witty and his whimsical talks have given enjoyment to many.

THEY WERE BAILED

Men Arrested on Suspicion Have Friends

John W. Ellis, known to the Boston police as "Big John" Crane, one of the four alleged pickpockets arrested at the Middlesex street station last Thursday by Inspector Maher, arraigned in court the following morning and held under $500 for his appearance Friday of this week, was bailed last night by James E. Winston of East Boston. Real estate was put in bond to the police as Fred Berry, another member of the quartet arrested, secured bail last Saturday.

Ernest Capasso, known as Frank Kelley, and Frank Gilbert, who it is alleged is Owie Lisa, have not yet secured bail.

LOST IN A FOG ON THE MASCUPPIC. THE FIGURE IN THE ROW IS THAT OF OUR GENIAL SENATOR JOSEPH H. HIBBARD HOLDING FOR HELP.

Senator Hibbard Saves Twenty-Six Passengers From Watery Grave by a Wireless Telegraphy Act on Lake Mascuppic—The Steamer Wound Up at Her Starting Point

Senator Joe Hibbard is assured of some 20 votes regardless of party affiliation in the next election, for with great presence of mind he transformed himself into a human wireless telegraphy system late last night and there by saved twenty men and six women from an untimely fate mid the deep and dark water of Lake Mascuppic.

Of all the men and women on that ill-fated steamer Mascuppic last night, none but the husky senator could offend as man of the hour for Joe possessed the only pair of lungs on the boat that could make an impression on the almost impenetrable fog that started to rise from the water about 9:30 and which at 10:30 had pond, Lakeview, Willow Dale and the surrounding territory completely enveloped.

The orchestra had ground out "Home Sweet Home," a polite hint for everyone to beat it, the musicians had folded their instruments and had marched to the boat, everybody on board said good night to everybody on shore, the whistle tooted several farewell toots and they were off, bound for Lakeview, only a short distance away.

"De night she's dark lak was black cat," so dark in fact that a fellow put his arm round a girl's waist and then quickly apologized, stating that it was so dark he didn't see her, and in a very few minutes the long row of incandescent lights along the Broadway Point dance hall had completely disappeared from view. Although the hour was quite late there were still a few canoes on the pond though completely hidden from view, their presence being detected by the voices of their occupants.

The captain stood manfully by the wheel wearing a worried look. His watch told him that he was due at Lakeview, his compass didn't tell him anything because it was in his other coat. He figured that it would have been impossible for anyone to have come along and move Lakeview, for he had left there only half an hour before and was then firmly planted and well lighted. Yet where was it?

THE DEMOCRATS

Protest the Action of Mayor Shedd

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 30.—When Mayor Shedd called last night's joint convention of the city councils to order, 10 republican members took their seats and 15 democratic members fled out the front door of the city hall, leaving the convention without a quorum. This was a new declaration of war by the democratic members against the mayor because of his refusal to listen to their request to suggest appointments to the charter commission.

The meeting of the city councils was called from the chair requesting that the members attend a joint convention to meet the inspectors of check lists and fill a vacancy. The mayor also announced that he would make the appointments of the members of the commission to revise the city charter and provided for in an act passed by the last legislature.

The democratic members of both branches, assembled in caucus and detailed a committee consisting of Alderman James H. Connor and Councilman Walter D. Roberts and Daniel J. Moriarty to wait on the mayor with suggestions.

They told the mayor that his democratic selections were in opposition to their wishes, and asked that they be permitted to suggest five democrats from which he might select the three necessary for the commission. They made this request as a majority of the city councils. After consulting with republican aldermen the mayor refused.

The republican aldermen and councilmen then met in the common council room and City Clerk Cyr called the roll and adjournment took place. After the meeting Mayor Shedd stated that he informed the committee of democrats that waited on him that the legislative act providing for the charter commission authorized him to make appointments and not the democratic members of the city council. As far as the election of an inspector of check lists is concerned, he said the inspector had hired a man to do the work and would probably continue to do so.

The democratic claim is that Mayor Shedd exceeded his authority in calling a joint convention and that he took advantage of the absence of some of the democrats to put through the charter commission appointments, which they have been holding up since a year or more ago. Their claim is based on the joint rule, which says that when a convention of the mayor and aldermen and common council is to be held the two boards must meet, and then a message sent from one to the other and a vote taken for the convention meeting.

TRAFFIC RESUMED

AFTER DRIVING PILES FOR BRIDGE AT VARNUM'S LANDING

Uninterrupted traffic between Lowell and Lawrence on the Lowell, Lawrence & Haverhill division of the Boston & Northern was resumed last night. While the workmen employed in building the state highway along the bank of the river between Lowell and Lawrence were driving new piles for the bridge to span the brook at Varnum's landing it was necessary for passengers on the electric cars to change cars at the bridge. The last pile was driven late yesterday afternoon, however, and now the cars are running through without change.

Roosevelt's mandate—"There shall be no other boss but me."

The Boston floating hospital for children is perhaps the only one of its kind in the country. It saves many lives by taking sick children down the harbor where they can get a cool breeze. At the same time experienced nurses and physicians provide the proper remedies and tell the parents what should be done for the little ones. In this way sick children are made well unless the disease has reached the incurable stage.

CLEAR THE DECKS FOR 1912

It is time to clear the decks for the big battle of 1912.

The greatest issues are at stake and it is the people's fight. Will the people rise to the importance of the occasion and do their duty, or will they sell out as they have done since 1896?

It is time for hoodoo candidates to take a back seat and give way to new men, who, if no better, will at least come before the electorate without the brand of one, two or several defeats. It is this persistency of perennial candidates that has ruined the democratic party on many occasions in the past and that will again land it in defeat if the self-constituted dictators be not retired. The voters should size up the situation and then act for their own best interests and the interests of the entire country. In the past they have been intimidated by the threats of the very trusts and combines that plan to oppress them.

Every state must do its part in this battle for the people and hence the leaders instead of planning for self aggrandizement should work for democratic victory.

PLEASING ASPECT OF THE HIBERNIAN PARADE

One of the most notable and most pleasing aspects of the recent Hibernian parade was the very friendly spirit with which the demonstration was greeted by merchants, officials and societies of all classes.

Many instances of this might be noted, but apart from the very general and elaborate decorations, there were occasional manifestations of good feeling towards the paraders that deserve more than passing note. One of these was witnessed at Odd Fellows hall on Middlesex street. A party of the visiting paraders had made their headquarters there and some of the Odd Fellows made it their business to see that the A. O. U. men had access to all the conveniences required on such an occasion. This act of kindness so impressed the Hibernians that on leaving the hall they gave three cheers for the Odd Fellows. The inscription on the decoration of the building was another evidence of good will from an unexpected source. This with many other instances of a similar nature convinced the Hibernians and their friends that a new era of good feeling, fraternity and tolerance has dawned and that the day has gone forever when men will allow prejudice to turn them against any class of their fellow citizens.

MAYOR GAYNOR'S ESSENTIALS FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

Mayor Gaynor in laying down provisions for honest municipal government says two things are necessary: First, honesty in all officials, and second, that all shall be competent. That is all very well but it is not practical.

Many a man has been chosen to public office for supposed honesty who when properly tried out was found to be dishonest. On the other hand many a man has been elected for supposed competency whereas the actual test proved him to be incompetent.

It is only by experience we can tell who is honest and competent and who the reverse. After a trial we may find that some of our most hopeful officials are neither honest nor competent.

That is why a city must be protected by charter provisions against dishonesty and incompetency. That is why the city of Lowell needs a new charter that will center responsibility and power so that it will be easy to point out the wrong-doer and so that the executive head may possess the power to remove dishonest or incompetent men without delay or ceremony.

THE SUBJUGATION OF KOREA

Poor Korea, the hermit nation that has a history noted principally for revolutions that seldom accomplished much and for the nation's unwillingness to hold commercial relations with the outside world, is now a province of the Japanese empire.

It is true that a good when lost is valued most, and Korea may now prize her liberty more highly than ever before; and if she does not make a struggle to regain it, she will thereby demonstrate that she is unworthy the undeniable right of every people which is absolute freedom and the power to govern themselves.

In spite of treaty relations or other considerations, Japan has taken Korea to herself, thus getting a foothold upon the Asiatic continent. This will give Japan an opportunity to fortify the principal forts, including off.

It is difficult to understand Korea's relation to China. While Korea aimed to be independent and on many occasions opposed Chinese domination, it is true, on the other hand, that she has often paid tribute to and it was in 1882 that China agreed with the United States to open Korean ports to foreign commerce.

Korea can boast of being such an ancient state without having made progress toward civilization, it would seem that Japanese control is to her much harm.

Any nation or people, however dull, should part with its independence as a struggle, but if any nation fails to make a right use of its liberty, it gives a foreign foe a pretext for stepping in "to improve" conditions. If we are to learn from historical examples Korea will pay dearly for her unprogressive policy both in blood and in gold.

THEY'RE BACK
I tripped on a tricycle left in the hall. I sat on a dolly that slept in my chair.

Some building blocks, scattered, gave me a bad fall. But, honest, I didn't, no, I didn't swear.

I heard childlike laughter and giggles and chuckles. And what did it matter a shin blug and black.

Or the loss of some skin from my old hardened knuckles. Compared to the joy of the kids being back?

I turned on the light, and behold, all around me. Were shu-shu cars, ready to start with the day.

The soldiers drawn up. They were told to surround me. And bid me surrender to them right away.

And there was a Teddy bear, front paws extended. Either to hug me or give me a whack. But just what it meant I at once comprehended.

Thank goodness, I muttered, the children are back. Then straight up the stairs and over the landing.

I flew with a bound and I went with a rush. In an ecstasy there was no misunderstanding.

Regardless of mother's admonishing hush. And into their room I burst like a madman.

And picked up the kiddies and gave each a smack. For there is no stopping a genuine glad man.

HAIR DANGERS

Three Foolish Things That Many Women Do

Women who put ammonia into their water when washing their hair, who do not understand what they are doing. Ammonia not only turns the hair gray prematurely, but has a deadly effect upon the hair roots. If you want thin, wavy, lifeless hair early in life, use ammonia when cleaning the hair. Any tonic or invigorator containing alcohol is also dangerous. Alcohol makes the hair gray and is injurious to the scalp. Most shampoos contain too much alkali, and people who use them run the danger of losing their hair, because alkali is kept clean with Birt's Head Wash, which is absolutely safe, contains no ammonia or alcohol, and there is in it not a trace of free alkali. It is made of mild, pure soap, combined with glycerine, coconut oil, white of eggs and salicylic acid. Use Birt's Head Wash, and your hair will be as beautiful, soft and glossy as you could wish for, and there will be not a sign of scales or dandruff on the scalp.

William J. Reardon, the figure expert of the assessors' office, received word a few days ago from an old schoolmate whom he had not heard from for 35 years. William E. Francis and William J. Reardon were schoolmates in the long ago, and William E. Francis, familiarly known as "Ed," went west to try his fortune there. Reardon and Francis were classmates at the Peabody high school and later at Comers Commercial college, Boston. While in Peabody Mr. Reardon never neglected to inquire for his friend and classmate Francis, but not until a few days ago did he receive any definite knowledge of his whereabouts. Mr. Francis is living in Newton, Kansas.

The last evidence of the sovereignty of the late King Edward has been removed with the taking down of his banner and other emblems as Knight of the Garter from his stall in St. George's chapel. Windsor, which was done this week. This stall is on the right side of the church just within the choir, and is always allotted to the banner, sword, helmet and crest. There is also a brass tablet on the back of the stall reciting the full names and titles of the king.

The banner of the present king will be removed from his old stall and his new one placed over the sovereignty of Wales will be hung in its place or whether this will be deferred until the young prince is able to take his position among the knights of the order.

All the emblems of the late king are to be given to Queen Alexandra, who will place them in Sandringham house, where she has a collection of the various things which may come to be open to the public. His personal belongings, favorite books and pictures, rare pieces of old china and valuable ornaments and the collection of walking sticks which has been handed down in the royal family since the days of Charles I, are at Sandringham.

A whole room was given up to these sticks at Buckingham palace, and they were in charge of a special servant. King Edward was very proud of them and was wont to relate the detailed history of each one to any of his friends who dined or lunched with him at the palace.

An enigmatical autograph by Mark Twain has remained undiscovered in a little Swiss hamlet for the last thirteen years, says Ernest Karel of Pittsburgh, who has arrived from Switzerland at Berlin.

In 1887 Mark Twain was a visitor at the cottage of an honest Swiss peasant, Alois Dahinden, in Bulligen, near Lucerne. In order to avoid publicity and the hue and cry of enterprising journalists the distinguished author resolutely refused to inscribe his name in the village register.

The villagers, who at first regarded Mr. Clemens with suspicion, gradually developed and print your vacation pictures. We do the work quickly and at small cost.

THE BASEBALL SEASON IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and fans are more than ever worked up over the national game and today at the Theatre Voyons they can enjoy one of the cleverest baseball comedies ever issued. "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is a long laugh with just enough of the grand old game injected to build up a pleasing plot.

"Willie Peggy," a romantic comedy acted by the most pleasing members of the Biograph stock company, is just about the best of its class. Peggy is a witty, lively and willful Irish lass, who marries a lord only to have a hard time to act with the required dignity as the great lady. She romps through many adventures and dually shows her husband not only that she loves him truly, but that she is able to take care of herself in any difficulty. The feature, "The Three Cherry Pits," is a strong dramatic subject with a novel plot. The character of the old French veteran is one that calls for dignity, nobility and bearing and a skill in the use of arms that is rarely seen on the stage, but in this picture the actor does his work in magnificent fashion.

THEATRE VOYONS

The baseball season is now at its height, and fans are more than ever worked up over the national game and today at the Theatre Voyons they can enjoy one of the cleverest baseball comedies ever issued.

"Take Me Out to the Ball Game" is a long laugh with just enough of the grand old game injected to build up a pleasing plot.

"Willie Peggy," a romantic comedy acted by the most pleasing members of the Biograph stock company, is just about the best of its class.

Peggy is a witty, lively and willful Irish lass, who marries a lord only to have a hard time to act with the required dignity as the great lady.

She romps through many adventures and dually shows her husband not only that she loves him truly, but that she is able to take care of herself in any difficulty.

ally become reconciled. The man on his leaving, however, having a characteristic modesty, he explained, and then reluctantly turning over the empty pages until the last one in the book, wrote: "Please do not forget this important truth: Habit is habit, and by any means, but please, down the stairs." Dahinden has refused all offers to part with the treasure.

"Chanticleer" may be supplanted by the play which Signor Gabriele D'Annunzio threatens to write. Instead of a barnyard drama, the poet means to have a deep sea tragedy, with mermaids and tritons and fishes may be leading characters. At any rate, D'Annunzio is full of his new idea and means to get to work on it at once.

D'Annunzio's idea has its origin in his strong belief in Gordon Craig's theories and inventions for stage lighting and effects. The poet and the son of Ellen Terry are intimate friends, and both believe in a great future for the theatre when stage lighting shall have been perfected.

Recently D'Annunzio gave a performance at the private playhouse of a friend of his in Paris to show what could be done in the way of scenic effects. The theatre was converted into an open air playhouse, with closed walls, and obtained by substituting for the ordinary back cloth a hemisphere concave toward the audience. Upon its surface colored lights were thrown by the poet himself, who sat at a sort of typewriter light, a starry night, a red sunset and a pink daybreak, to say nothing of a violent storm with blue, purple and black clouds, streaks of furious red and yellow and flashes of lightning.

This same hemisphere, D'Annunzio explained, could be used for representing the sea, with all the effects of light and shade to be obtained in its depths. Hence his plan to write a play on these lines.

CARE OF HORSE

Pneumonia is Liable to Follow Congestion

Pneumonia may follow congestion from over exertion or may exist entirely from other causes and often it is complicated with bronchitis and pleurisy. Pneumonia while resulting from general diseases of the respiratory organs more often is due to neglect and inattention; just a chill, a common cold, sore throat, will oftentimes run into a fatal case of pneumonia.

A horse run down from a severe cold worked or exposed beyond its strength will easily take on pneumonia or when in a weakened condition, kept in badly ventilated stable, breathing foul air and to the exclusion of pure air, and the lack of blankets, left on the floor in a weakened condition from some other ill, perhaps in the rain, the horse comes down with pneumonia.

The symptoms are first a chill. This important hint is generally overlooked, head down, dull and listless, mouth hot and sticky, fever running to the danger point, pulse quick, capillary a dry cough, but this changes as the case grows worse, discharge from nostrils sometimes showing blood stains and other times thick like matter; thirst, but little appetite, lining of nose red and dry, foetid discharge; legs cold, shiny droppings, if any, unusual in consistency; if not complicated with pleurisy there is no pain.

When the disease is about to terminate fatally, all symptoms intensify; he staggers, sweats profusely, pants, has cold sweats.

The disease lasts from ten to twenty days and when properly treated is not a fatal disease. The comfort of the animal must be considered. Good box stall, free from draughts, but accessible to fresh air in plenty; blanket and bandage; plenty of cold, fresh water; keep the hooves by rubbing with liniment and bandages.

Don't blister by using too strong liniment; sweat the lungs by the use of hot water and blankets but be sure to cover the wet with a dry blanket and steam for three or four hours, changing the wet, hot blankets every fifteen minutes.

Keep the cool air from striking the chest while the steaming is in progress, some good liniment to prevent the skin becoming chilled and cover the chest with a dry cloth. This steaming may be repeated every day for a week or so. In very cold weather omit the hot water for there is always danger of additional cold. Of course, you should give some good fever remedy and laxative.

Do not allow the animal to remain constipated. Give bran mash, gruel, scalded oats, green grass when possible, and enemas of warm water, three or four times daily. Keep up the strength. Should he refuse to eat, tempt with anything edible. Give three or four gallons of milk a day. Mix three or four fresh eggs to the gallon. Add a little whiskey or brandy perhaps the horse won't drink milk. Some do not seem to like it. Give a good tonic to the system. Good care and nursing are important factors in any form of illness but particularly so in treating a horse with pneumonia.

Yesterday morning two men, said to be Italians, called at the Wheeler house soon after 8 and demanded admittance. They were refused by Elsie Wheeler, whereupon they threatened to kill her. They were scared away by the approach of boys, who told the police that both men carried revolvers. On two previous occasions they had been scoured thoroughly in vain. The country for miles around is densely wooded and the immediate vicinity in which the men are believed to be in hiding is known as the "wolf hole."

The only description the police could obtain was that the men were of medium height, of dark complexion, wore dark clothes, one having on a cap, other a black derby hat. One man had a moustache.

MANY WILL ATTEMPT TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE facetiously termed "English channel swimming season" is now here, and, as has been the case for many years, determined attempts will be made to emulate the great feat of Captain Paul Boyton and Captain Webb, made thirty-five years ago. Dozens of ambitious men and women have striven to emulate the feats accomplished by the pair, but none has succeeded. Think of it! Thirty-five years ago two men swam the channel, but despite improved methods of training, wonderful exhibitions of perseverance and attempts annually renewed not one has duplicated the feat of the pair.

The English channel is probably the best body of water known to thoroughly try the capabilities of a swimmer. First there is necessary the ability to swim, and to swim well. Then comes endurance, a potential factor, as the sailors the world over know the channel as one of the stormiest bits of water to be encountered. The historic bay of Biscay is often peaceful, the English channel seldom so.

Early in 1875 Captain Paul Boyton, the American life guard, navigated the channel in his pneumatic rubber suit, aided by a paddle, the same equipment as he exhibited himself in for many years in this country. That trip in itself was something, but a few months later Webb surpassed this feat without any artificial aid, going from coast to coast in 1 hour 38 minutes less time than it took Boyton to paddle and swimming ten miles farther.

Webb's first attempt was a failure, he abandoning it after swimming thirteen and a half miles and being in the water 6 hours 48 minutes 20 seconds. Twelve days later he tried again and won. The Badminton library volume on swimming, from which many of these facts are obtained, states that the nearest point of French land from where Webb dived was Cape Grizelles, seventeen and a half miles, but his point of landing was twenty-one and a half miles from Dover in an air line and the actual length of the swim thirty-nine and a half miles. He was in the water 21 hours and 45 minutes.

In order to get the benefits accruing from the tide Webb started his successful swim about an hour after noon and at the completion of his trip had occupied three tides. He took but little rest on the journey and then merely to take refreshment, treading water meanwhile and having no artificial assistance whatever. This is attested by newspaper men who accompanied his handlers in a boat on the trip.

The temperature of the water was 65 degrees, but it is recorded that Webb never complained of the cold and was affected by drowsiness only through want of sleep and the terrible exertion he was subjecting himself to for nearly twenty-two hours. Before starting Webb was rubbed with porpoise oil, and it is said the sailors carrying him from the Calais sands to a carriage described him as feeling like a lump of tallow.

A remarkable feature of this exploit is that Webb used the breast stroke throughout, averaging about twenty to the minute, swimming high in the water, so much so that at the conclusion of each stroke the soles of his feet appeared above the surface.

Poor Webb! Much of the glory he gained through his successful navigation of the channel was lost for the time being when he tried to swim the rapids of the Niagara river below the falls in 1883 and lost his life.

Others who have tried to swim the channel and failed are Ted Heston of Liverpool and Dragoljub vel Militchewitch, who won the long distance championship of Serbia. He is a powerful man of twenty-eight years of age.

Many to Try Next Month.

Although there is neither pleasure nor profit involved and the lustrous thing called glory is the only reward for a man who dares all and fails, three men will make an attempt to swim the channel next month. Jabez Wolfe, who came closer to Webb's great feat than any other man, is to make another attempt some time between Sept. 13 and 26. Montague Holbein, who came almost as close as Wolfe eight years ago, is also preparing for another dash. Captain Hoey of New Zealand is down for a trial. There is a report that Miss Lily Smith, a woman professional of London, will try, and rumors are abroad from Burgess and Wiedman of Dover.

For some time past the experts on this side of the water have picked out this side of the New York Athletic club as the man most likely to duplicate Webb's feat. "T." has shown that he has no equal here at long distance work, and he could swim rings around Wolfe, Holbein or even Webb were he here today. Goodwin says next winter he will collect a lot of fat and will take a crack at the channel in 1911.

There is also some talk of Captain Sam Mahoney of Boston making an attempt. The latter is considered to be one of the best swimmers in the country today.

Swimming the English channel is not like taking a dip in the surf at some seaside resort, a dash through a nice calm lake or a swim from one side of the river to the other. Notation on a rough day in the tempestuous Atlantic ocean gives an idea of the European feat, but still it lacks some of the essential features that have made the aquatic Marathon unswim by so many.

The narrowest portion of the mill race of the ocean that runs between England and France is marked by Cape Grizelles, west of Calais, and Dover, about eighteen miles as the crow flies, and is, as one of the frequent contenders describe it, "the moving corridor, the marine labyrinth, where the waters of all the neighboring seas cross and thrust themselves against each other in a capricious set-to; where the winds, squalls and gales make the despair of the pilots endeavoring to trace out the itinerary of the swimmers."

But the channel swimmer can make no bee lines for his goal, no matter if the sea be as calm as a mill pond. From the Atlantic, through the channel and into the North sea, and vice versa, rush the tides. The flood or easterly tide, according to computations, drifts the swimmer some seven miles east of Dover, the ebb tide bringing him back again and taking him possibly six miles west of Dover, his course being represented by an irregular figure somewhat resembling the letter W.

Because of tides and temperature there are but three weeks in the year in which attempts to swim the channel are made. Between August and September is the mystic season, when the water averages 63 or 64 degrees, and for two periods of three days each are found the dead heat tides, when the water is running about one and a quarter miles an hour instead of the usual five mile speed. If an attempt made on one of the dead tides fails the swimmer must wait a fortnight before again essaying his task.

To add to the difficulties the channel flow has changed greatly since Webb captured the nautical crown. The immense admiralty pier and the national harbor, capable of accommodating the entire British navy, have been built in the meantime, and the displacement of water has undoubtedly enhanced the strength of the channel currents.

Webb in his famous swim crossed three tides between Dover and Calais, and his point of landing in a direct line was twenty-one and a quarter miles from England, but he actually swam thirty-nine and a half miles, and it took him 21 hours 45 minutes. Captain Boyton, who used to exhibit in a pneumatic suit with sail and paddle, crossed the channel, but with all these artificial aids he required one hour and thirty-three minutes longer for twenty-nine miles than Webb, relying on his strength and stamina, needed for a distance greater by ten miles.

Statistics, however, give a faint idea to the uninitiated of the hardships involved, so a few of the requisites that all channel swimmers follow before an attempt are given, which increase the wonder at the perseverance of which pure glory is the sole reward:

Food.—Swimmers must be able to take food in the water without the admixture of salt water, in which case seasickness usually results. Diet naturally differs. Webb subsisted largely on brandy and beer, while modern swimmers use beef tea, chicken and fruits, and Burgess in an attempt a year ago rounded off his menu with red currant tart.

Eyes.—The eyes must be accustomed to salt water, and in addition a canvas helmet with glass eyes is generally used, protecting the ears as well.

Head and Brain.—A thin rubber skull cap is generally used to keep the head and brain warm and prevent cold shivers.

Hands and Feet.—Because of the suffering from cold the hands and feet, together with the stomach, neck, back of the head and outside of the ears, are usually anointed with Stockholm tar, the inside of the ears being plugged with soft dentists' wax held in by wadding.

Body.—The body is smeared with Russian tallow in order to retain the natural heat as long as possible, and lard is used as a second dressing. Perfume is sometimes necessary to prevent an odor which may sicken a swimmer.

A remarkable feature of Webb's success was that he used the breast stroke almost entirely, varied with a side stroke. The lay swimmer knows the pain emanating from a kink in the back of the neck that this stroke provokes for even a short distance, and Webb felt it proportionately for twenty-one hours. Holbein, on the contrary, supports the back stroke as being the better, while Annette Kellerman used the double overarm, or trudgen, continually for ten and a half hours in her first attempt, swimming twenty-one miles and yet being ten miles from France when pulled from the water. The single overarm and side strokes appear the favorites with most channel swimmers, however, varied with the breast stroke.

Webb was essentially a man of stamina, at the time of his channel jaunt being a slow and ponderous swimmer, using so much force in his breast stroke that he half rose from the water, and the soles of his feet appeared above the surface after each kick. Holbein, too, is a man of stamina and had he possessed some speed might have reached the shore on the trial in which he was swept by the tide when half a mile away.

How the Amateur Athletic Union Has Uplifted Nation's Sport

By Hon. FREDERICK R. TOOMBS, Member of the New York State Legislature

PROBABLY no great reform in any branch of the world's activity was ever accomplished without obstacles raised or attacks made by envious or selfish or narrow minded or dishonest people. The history of every epochal change for the better in worldly affairs has shown the opening statement to be impossible of successful refutation. In athletic affairs in this country this situation has been most pronounced, and even today we find cavillers and vilifiers endeavoring to tear down the lasting structures erected by self sacrificing, philanthropic men for the purpose of making athletic pastimes honest, attractive and beneficial and capable of deserving and holding the absolute confidence of the American public.

I refer principally to the attacks made on the Amateur Athletic union by various ignorant or malicious persons at various times and to attacks made on some of the men who have been the vanguard of this well known army of athletic uplifters and standardizers.

Discredited Assailants.

Men who have been a discredit to amateur sport in this country and who consequently have been denied recognition by the Amateur Athletic union and other responsible, authoritative athletic organizations have been the chief assailants and have sometimes succeeded in deceiving members of the public as to their questionable motives; also occasionally one of them proves dexterous enough to mislead misinformers of newspaper editors or magazine editors into granting space for their fabrications. In years of writing on athletic subjects for various newspapers and magazines the present writer has had ample opportunity to study and observe the accomplishments, methods and operations of the Amateur Athletic union, and he places in it the highest degree of confidence. The Amateur Athletic union, in addition to maintaining amateur sport on a lofty plane, has also advocated salutary measures in associated lines. For instance, its leaders worked unflinchingly in favor of a playground commission for New York state. Last winter they succeeded in passing this playground bill through both houses of the New York legislature.

Personal Testimony.

As a member of the committee on public health of the New York state legislature last year I can personally testify to the valuable services rendered to the legislature and the people of the state by James E. Sullivan, the secretary-treasurer of the union. This committee, of which Dr. Gary H. Wood of Jefferson county, N. Y., was chairman, had charge of important legislation relating to the combating of the spread of tuberculosis in the state. In aiding the campaign against the dreaded "white plague" members of the legislative committee asked Mr. Sullivan for his advice as an authority on outdoor life and open air exercises, and we received from him suggestions of the utmost value. I cite the aforesaid instance merely to indicate how the work of the Amateur Athletic union and its members is of benefit in a wider scope than many people appreciate.

Looking at facts in their true light and surveying them with the analytical eye of impartiality, it becomes certain that no one will ever prove successful in dimming the luster of the accomplishments of that organization in its mission of elevating and purifying the athletics of this country.

It should prove of interest at this juncture to review some of the developments in the growth of the Amateur Athletic union since its early days as shown by official data placed at the writer's disposal at his own request by responsible athletic authorities.

Went Approval From Start.

The Amateur Athletic union as it was organized in 1888 was a union of clubs, with a board of governors of twelve, but the organization and expansion of sport in the United States under its auspices met with such spontaneous approval that clubs sprung up all over, and it became at once apparent that the mechanism of government was becoming unwieldy.

Pacific coast and New Orleans matters had to be adjusted in New York, and it was realized that something would have to be done if the organization was to remain intact and still have control. In 1893 A. G. Mills worked out what has since been known as the "Mills reorganization plan," whereby each section of the country would have home rule and instead of the union being an association of clubs providing that it should be a union of associations, active and allied.

The plan was adopted unanimously. The wisdom of the Mills plan was immediately apparent, as from it started what has proved to be the most remarkable growth of athletics known in any country of the world. An estimate of the competing athletes in 1888 would be about 8,000. Today statistics show that there are millions. Recognizing the strength of the Amateur Athletic union and the strength that would accrue from organized athletics in their own spheres, other governing bodies quickly formed alliances with the national body.

Among the allied bodies today are the Intercollegiate A. A. A., Athletic League of Y. M. C. A.'s, Athletic League of Young Men's National Catholic union, North American Gymnastic union, National Cycling association, International Skating union, Military Athletic league, Amateur Fencers' league, Federation of Motor Cyclists and the Union des Societes Francaises ed Sports Athletiques.

No Pay For Officers.

Since the day of its organization no officer of the Amateur Athletic union has ever received a cent of salary.

For Public Improvements.

As long ago as 1888 the Amateur Athletic union in its constitution put itself on record very strongly on the question of public playgrounds and baths.

The organization believes in playgrounds, and its entire record has been consistent in furthering what is now conceded to be a necessity in every large city and town. The officials of the Amateur Athletic union helped to organize the Public Schools Athletic league, the largest athletic organization in the world. The Catholic Athletic league, another large and important organization, was also suggested and organized by officials of the Amateur Athletic union.

Amateur sport would not be on the plane that it is today were it not for the Amateur Athletic union. It would exist in certain localities only. The Amateur Athletic union believes in nationalization and strong national organizations, and, as a matter of fact, the first championship meeting of the Amateur Athletic union was held in Detroit in 1888 in preference to some one of the larger eastern cities where athletic meetings were not uncommon. The success of the Detroit meeting in attracting athletes who otherwise would never have been seen in the west was so pronounced that the Amateur Athletic union since then has followed the custom of holding the annual championship meetings in various parts of the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

New Orleans Gets 1910 Games.

They have been held at different times in New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, Seattle, Portland, St. Louis and Jamestown, and on Oct. 14 and 15 of this year they will go to New Orleans, this being the first time the national events have gone to the Crescent City.

The Amateur Athletic union from the day of its inception has annually conducted the championships in the various lines of athletic sports—sometimes at a great loss—in track and field and all around events, and it is ever ready to help the cause of amateur sport. Records have fallen one after another under its guiding hand.

The union is recognized by every American sportsman and denounced by a few for personal reasons. Any old time athlete of the decades prior to the late eighties could interest the present day reader if he would tell him of the chaotic condition of affairs prior to the organization of the Amateur Athletic union.

The Amateur Athletic union has made athletics respectable by a uniform system of registration and control, and a young man can compete today without danger of being unjustly criticised or unfairly dealt with.

Contrary to the general belief, the Amateur Athletic union has no quarrel with the recognized professional. The union is antagonistic, however, to the alleged amateur who is in reality a professional.

The last statistics filed with the secretary-treasurer of the Amateur Athletic union prove that over 2,000,000 boys are taking part in competitive athletics. That is the kind of work the Amateur Athletic union has accomplished during its twenty-two years of control.

The Honor Roll of Athletics.

While it is true that a vigorous, un-deviating, reform athletic association will naturally be attacked by irresponsible persons or by those who have had questionable amateur athletic careers cut short, yet these assaults must prove futile when the men who have built up the organization are of the stamp of men who have been associated with the Amateur Athletic union.

The men who founded the union and those who have followed them in the work form the honor roll of American amateur athletics—A. G. Mills, New York; William B. Curtis, the father of American athletics; James E. Sullivan, New York; Bartow S. Weeks, New York; Joseph B. MacCabe and Edward E. Babb, Boston; Everett C. Brown, Chicago; Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, George T. Hepburn, F. W. Rubien, Major J. J. Dixon, H. Oberbushung and C. C. Hughes, New York; F. J. V. Skiff, Chicago; W. H. Lillinger, Milwaukee; J. T. Doelling, G. T. Kirby, New York; Harry McMillan, Philadelphia; J. J. O'Connor, St. Louis; George Orton, Philadelphia; T. E. Straus and H. G. Penniman, Baltimore; L. A. Wolf and S. S. Pelkotto, San Francisco; Dr. George K. Herman, Chicago; W. M. Inglis, Seattle; L. D. Benedict, New Orleans; J. Frank Facey, Boston —those are the names of some of the well known men who form the solid rock foundation of the organization.

Sullivan's Work For American Public.

The name of James E. Sullivan is in itself a guarantee of the high plane on which the union operates. His hair has gone gray in the work he has volunteered to do in making the name of American amateur athletics known, honored and feared throughout the civilized world. When he made the athletic department of the St. Louis world's fair a success he achieved a big feat, but when he, at President Roosevelt's request, became the American commissioner to the Olympic games in London and Greece he rose still higher, because he brought the sturdy, plucky American team home with the world's championship laurels tucked snugly away in their gripsacks.

Again a president of the United States chose to honor Sullivan when the late President McKinley appointed him in 1900 assistant American manager of the Olympic games in Paris. Mr. Sullivan became virtually the manager of these games. Former Mayor George B. McClellan of New York city appointed Mr. Sullivan a member of the board of education, and Mr. McClellan's successor in office, Mayor Gaynor, appointed him a member of a committee empowered to investigate charges of graft and mismanagement directed at one of the important city departments.

TY COBB, DETROIT'S GREAT BATTER, AFTER SWINGING AT BALL.

WHEN TY COBB IS BEST AT BAT

Says It Is Easier For Him to Hit Ball When Men Are on Bases.

Ty Cobb is proud of his ability to hit the ball safely with men on the bases and points with pride to the fact that he has driven in more runs than any member of the Detroit team since he joined the club. In speaking of this the other day the famous batsman said:

"I find it easier to hit the ball with the bases occupied. The pitcher is worried, the infielders are guessing, and when you do hit the ball the flying base runners rattle and disconcert the men who are trying to handle it."

"With men on base I generally lay for the first ball the pitcher hands over. It's dollars to times that if he can lay that first one straight over the pan he'll do it, and I soak quite a few of them. The majority of batsmen will pass up the first ball, no matter if it cuts the plate in half. But you'll never get this boy overlooking one of them kind. Nine times out of ten I go to the plate prepared to tinkle the first ball if the pitcher lays it over."

"I never take a good healthy swing at the ball any more. I like to do it, but you can't get anything in the big leagues swinging the willow. The spit-ball pitchers would make a dance of you in short order, to say nothing of the boxmen who have mastered a good change of pace. They'll shoot one over that looks like a pea, then feed you a slow one that comes floating up as big as a balloon. But you are set for the fast one and break your back reaching for the slow ball."

"In the old days the great hitters were Dave Orr, Pete Browning, Dan Frouthers and Pop Anson—big fellows, who swung onto a ball with the force of a trip-hammer. Bring 'em in one of the big rings today and the artists of modern baseball would make 'em look like jokes."

"You can't grab a wagon tongue down at the handle, reach back and swing halfway around for a curve pitcher. They'd make you look foolish, and you wouldn't have enough batting average at the end of a month to get your name in the percentages."

"The great hitters of our time grab their batting sticks a foot or more from the handle and, instead of swinging, aim to meet the ball flush. It's just like the short arm punch in the prize ring. The long swingers with their terrific haymakers seldom get the money nowadays."

Discussing outfielding and outfielders, Cobb says:

"Nearly all our fielders play too deep. For every ball hit over our heads there are dozens that drop safe between the infielders and outfielders. But you just can't get an outfielder to work in close unless it's for some weak hitter who never lifts the ball very far over an infielder's head."

CARDINAL'S HAT

Report That Archbishop O'Connell Will Receive One

ROME, Aug. 30.—It can be stated on good authority that among those who will receive cardinal's hats at the consistory next November are Archbishop Farley of New York and O'Connell of Boston. This is the first consistory in three years.

REPORT HARDLY CREDITED.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Archbishop O'Connell is absent from the city, having gone to Montreal to participate in the eucharistic congress next week. The archbishop will attend to a number of ecclesiastical matters on the way north and started a few days early in consequence.

The report that the Boston prelate would receive the red hat is by no means a new one, but hitherto coming from sources not regarded as authentic, and for the most part it has been a report among the laity. Clergymen pay little attention to the reports on account of their knowledge of the routine of the vatican and the fact that one who is to be created a cardinal sometimes gets the first intimation as much as six months in advance. It would be rather rare, according to clergymen, for only a couple of months' notification being given of a prospect of being created a cardinal.

It has now been a long period since any cardinals were created at Rome and there are nearly a score of vacancies in the sacred college. Pope Pius X. apparently is in no hurry to increase the number. Though three or four consistories have been held in the last two years, each time accompanied by rumors that cardinals were to be

He Was Chosen Mayor of Lawrence Last Night

LAWRENCE, Aug. 30.—Dr. John T. Cahill was elected mayor at a joint convention of the city council last night, to fill the unexpired term of William P. White, who resigned after being committed to the house of correction on July 13 for three years on conviction of conspiring to effect the removal of James A. Hamilton as chief engineer of the fire department.

This action will preclude the supreme court proceedings scheduled for today, when acting Mayor Thomas M. Jordan was summoned to appear as respondent to a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel him to call a session of the two branches of the government to fill the existing vacancy. The common council had adjourned until the third Monday in September, and the acting mayor, who had been regarded as a candidate for the office ever after City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy had given the opinion that no member of the council was eligible, had refused to call a special meeting of the lower board, on the ground that there was no manifest desire on the part of the councilmen that such a step should be taken.

Last night's meeting was for the ostensible purpose of listening to a report of City Engineer Arthur D. Marble relative to his inspection of the Broadway paving contract, complaint having been made that the contractor was not conforming to the specifications. The air was surcharged with talk of a joint convention, however, and on motion of Alderman Tobin it was voted to go into session and elect a mayor.

First Ballot Turns Trick

Aldermen Tobin, Callahan and Moss voted in the affirmative on the motion for a joint convention. Aldermen Jordan and Ford did not vote. The common council unanimously concurred.

The absence of Alderman Scapion, who is said to be at Bethlehem, N. H., on a vacation, made 12 votes necessary for a choice, and Dr. Cahill had that number on the first ballot. Councilmen Rushforth and Spencer broke away from their republican colleagues and voting with 10 democrats for him. There were reports about the chambers that in some quarters it was anticipated there would be no choice and four councilmen were named who were expected to vote for others than the doctor.

Those voting for the successful candidate were Aldermen Callahan and Tobin, Councilmen Begley, Foley, Morrissey, Donley, Maxwell, McCarthy, Rushforth, Spencer, Shaw and Welch. Aldermen Jordan and Councilman Noonan voted for Charles E. Bradley, who had been mentioned as a business man's candidate; Alderman Ford and Councilman Nugent for Attorney Michael P. Cronin, Councilmen Kenney and Nichols for ex-school Committee-man Michael J. Sullivan and Aldermen Moss and four republican councilmen for ex-Alderman Hugo E. Dick.

Jordan Not a Candidate

When the two branches had assembled jointly acting Mayor Jordan said that he desired it known that he was not a candidate for the office. He declared that he had good legal advice, that a member of the government was eligible. However, he felt that should he or any other member be chosen, in view of the city solicitor's opinion to the contrary, complications might be raised.

"I want what personal rights and personal ambition that I may have in favor of the interests of the city," he asserted, and concluded with an ex-

Ruggles Foundry Burned at Poultney, Vt.

POULTNEY, Vt., Aug. 30.—The early morning fire which totally destroyed the foundry part of the Ruggles machine shop here, owned by the A. Y. Gray Co. of Middletown Springs, and until now buildings can be erected about 10 men will be thrown out of employment. The hard work of the fire department saved the machine shops which were attached to the building.

The loss is estimated at $5000, well covered by insurance. It is very probable that the work of rebuilding will begin at once. The wooden structure which was 200,000 feet burned like tinder. The blaze was discovered by two boys who live nearby, Dennis Melvin and John Maher.

An alarm was sounded and the flames shooting skyward attracted nearly everybody in the town. It is thought that the fire started from a spark in the cupola from one of the furnaces.

SEIZED JEWELS

Are Said to be Worth $115,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Announcing that he represented Mrs. I. Reynolds Adair, wife of John P. Adair, of Pittsburgh, who arrived from Europe Sunday on the Baltic, and who is alleged by customs officials to have failed to declare a pearl necklace valued at $6000, Abram J. Rose, an attorney, appeared at the custom house and requested a hearing in the case.

The pearl necklace was found, it is alleged, by customs officials in the trimmings of Mrs. Adair's hat. The officials had received word that the necklace had been purchased abroad, and at the pier she is alleged to have denied that she had the jewels. She was taken to her cabin where, according to the officials, the jewels were found.

Although charged specifically with smuggling into this country a pearl necklace, a gold watch and a lace mantle, valued in all at $8000, Mrs. Adair must explain where she bought other jewelry valued at more than $100,000 before she is out of the customs net.

According to a statement made at Collector Loebe's office yesterday afternoon, jewels with a total value of $115,000 were found in the woman's possession and seized, while from her daughter, Marion, a $3000 pearl necklace was confiscated, and a third necklace taken from Mrs. Mary H. Doughty, a traveling companion.

These additional jewels do not figure in the smuggling charge against Mrs. Adair, who appeared before U. S. Commissioner Alexander and gave $75000 bail after waiving examination, but they are being held pending investigation and the production of bills of sale covering each piece.

The necklace taken from her, Miss Adair says, was purchased in this country, but lengthened abroad by the insertion of eight pearls.

Bond for Mrs. Adair was entered by her husband, who gave as security his residence, "Eden court" at Fougues, which he said is worth not less than $50,000.

LAKEVIEW PARK

GRAND FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT CLOSING FRIDAY EVENING

Lakeview park will close in an actual blaze of glory next Friday evening. When Masten & Wells, premier fireworks experts, under contract with the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co., will furnish a magnificent and often amusing display of colored flames. The exhibition, extraordinary and spectacular, will be absolutely free. For the evening one will be seemingly transported into another world and after the display will return to the old world with refreshed intellect.

The "Magis Hearts" is a remarkable showing of "pyrotechnic genius. Two great flaming hearts open and from them shoot, like Jack-in-the-box, two great heads of dogs which nod at each other in a truly hilarious way. The set piece combines beauty and comedy, and most charmingly fashion. The flaming, bodiless heads try to make friends with each other and act with all Parisian politeness.

Other features in flames abound. The "Tree of Fire" is probably one of the most brilliant pieces ever produced. The display opens with a dazzling circle, unfolding the outlines of an immense tree of fire. A sudden explosion fills the air with showers of fire, falling over the tree with a grand effect, while fire balls are thrown in great height.

As the multicolored spectacle is beautiful to behold.

Fully as brilliant is the display, the "Rising of Jupiter." The planet Jupiter is represented as rising from clouds of fire between revolving zones of dazzling colored rings. The effect is striking in the extreme.

Patriotism is excited, if never before, when the stars and stripes are gradually unfurled. At first the lights are all yellow, and then faintly the red, white and blue appear until at length the glorious emblem which all Americans honor is unfurled in glittering color. The ceremony is one of stately grandeur. Cheers are bound to rise when the immense flag looms up in all its splendor.

Another suggestive patriotic setpiece is "The American Shield." In it the red, white and blue stand out in commanding beauty.

With Friday night's display the most successful season in the history of Lakeview park will close. Every week during July and August special free attractions have been provided at the park. Next season the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. expects to give still greater and better free attractions.

FATALLY HURT PAINTERS' UNION

Boy Was Impaled on a Addressed by National Broken Limb Organizer Cummings

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 30.—While climbing a plum tree near his home on South Union street yesterday afternoon Stuart Kelley, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley, fell about fifteen feet and was impaled on a broken limb. The wood entered his abdomen, severed the liver and pierced his right lung.

The lad calmly extricated himself from his position, descended to the ground and without uttering a cry walked about 100 yards before he fell. His parents rushed to his assistance. He was taken to Mary Fletcher hospital and operated on. At a late hour last night he was slowly sinking and is expected to die.

The surgeons are astounded at the vitality exhibited by the lad after receiving the unusual injury, which in most cases would have resulted in almost instant death.

FATALLY INJURED

Mrs. Isabella Owler Fell From Window

Mrs. Isabella Owler, widow of the late Charles B. Owler and formerly a resident of this city, passed away very suddenly at her home, 21 Oliver street, Monday, aged 85 years, 1 month and 24 days. Her death occurred as a result of a fall from a second story window at her home Friday morning about 2.45. It is believed that the aged lady went to the window to get some air and in arranging the screen lost her balance and fell out. Mr. Charles W. Owler, her son, whom she made her home with, was aroused and he carried her into the house and summoned Dr. H. S. Johnson and he made a thorough examination and found that there were no bones broken, but it was feared that on account of her advanced age she would not survive the shock, and the end came peacefully Sunday afternoon. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons, Charles W. of Malden, James of Danvers, and Edward of Somerville, and eight grandchildren.

PLANS SUICIDE

Woman Drowned Herself at Amherst

AMHERST, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Ella E. Hall drowned herself yesterday afternoon in the Connecticut river. She dressed herself carefully and fastened inside her hat and took the trolley car, which she left at the west end of Hadley bridge.

She came back over the bridge to Norwottuck park, placed her hat with spectacles in it on the bank, removed her dress skirt, waded into the river up to her neck, threw up her hands, screamed and disappeared.

Lawrence Till saw her from the other side of the river and swam across but arrived too late. Men on the bridge also saw her drown. The body was recovered an hour after and viewed by Medical Examiner Clarence I. Sparks of Easthampton, who allowed the body to be removed to Amherst.

BADLY INJURED

Molloy Was Attacked
by Dogfish

BANGOR, Me., Aug. 30.—Fred H. Molloy and John Wallace of New York have been cruising along the coast for the past ten days in the motor boat Conqueror, which belongs to Molloy. Shortly after 4 o'clock, while two miles off Dark harbor in Penobscot bay, they shut down the engine while Molloy went in swimming. Fifteen minutes afterward he was hauled into the Conqueror's tender by Wallace, with blood streaming from his body in a score of places.

He had been attacked by a school of dogfish that had commenced to devour him piecemeal.

Molloy had not been in the water 30 seconds, when Wallace, who was reading, heard him yell, "Quick, for God's sake, come quick!" Wallace jumped into the tender and rowed frantically toward Molloy, who just then disappeared beneath the surface, as though drawn under by a shark.

After three attempts, during which the boat was nearly capsized, Molloy, streaming with blood, was pulled aboard.

The rescue was barely in time. Molloy was brought to Bangor in the motor boat and a doctor said he will live.

AUGUSTUS POST, ONLY AVIATOR WITH WHISKERS---ARE THEY HIS HOODOO?

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Augustus Post, having failed to find sufficient excitement in automobiling or ballooning, has taken to the air with a Curtiss biplane, or at least he has endeavored to plane, or at least he has endeavored to take to the air several times, but so far about all that he has accomplished is to wreck several machines, cause of his whiskers. Post declared Post has gained fame as a driver of that he will finally learn to soar, and autos and as a daring balloonist, but when he does his teachers expect some

Stacey's Body Awaiting Identification at Saunders' Morgue

Said He Was Shot by a Hunter in North Chelmsford Woods—The Second Wound Probably Inflicted by Himself

The mysterious Paul or Paul Stacy, who walked into St. John's hospital last Friday night with a bullet wound on his forehead and a bullet lodged in his intestines, died last night at the hospital without further enlightening the hospital authorities relative to the shooting.

When the man applied at the hospital for surgical attendance he gave his name as Paul Stacy and his residence as 153 Washington street, Brighton. He stated that it was while traveling through the woods in North Chelmsford, where he had been for a week, that he was shot in the intestines by a hunter, the latter taking him for game. Stacy said that after staying in the woods for several days after having been shot by the hunter he became discouraged and shot himself in the forehead with a .22 calibre revolver. The bullet did not penetrate the skull but glanced off, leaving only a slight injury.

gradually worse and the end came last night.

Medical Examiner J. V. Meigs viewed the body and gave as the cause of death the intestinal wound.

It is believed, by some that Stacy himself fired the bullet which caused his death. A .22-calibre revolver was found upon him after he came to the hospital, two of the chambers of which had been discharged.

He claimed to be an old soldier 65 years of age. He said he had no friends in Lowell and no immediate relatives living.

The body was removed to the undertaking rooms of William H. Saunders in Hurd street, where it is awaiting identification.

TO CAUSE RAIN

CHIEF MOORE TALKS OF USE OF EXPLOSIVES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—While L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau, is more than skeptical of the power of explosives to cause rain. Declaring that efforts to produce rain by bombarding the sky would encourage charlatans and would be denounced by all eminent physicists and scientists, Mr. Moore has submitted an opinion to Adjutant General Almsworth regarding the forest fire situation in Idaho and Montana. He says extensive experiments conducted by the department of agriculture have conclusively demonstrated that rainfall cannot be created by explosives. Rain is produced only by a marked increase in the vapor contents of the air or by a decided lowering of the temperature and man cannot operate on a scale to stimulate conditions.

Major General Leonard Wood's action in refusing the request of Senator Pilon and Representative Humphrey of Washington to allow the guns at Puget sound to be fired in the hope of producing rain has been approved by the president. A despatch to this effect was received by General Wood yesterday.

WAITERS DROWNED

Their Bodies Have Not Been Recovered as Yet

SEVERLY, Aug. 30.—Because of the great depth of water the bodies of three waiters employed at the Casino who were drowned early today have not been recovered. The dead are: ARNOLD SURDEZ of New York. ALEXANDER LOSSI, New York. LEONARD ST. PIERRE, Lawrence. The accident occurred about half way between the Beverly Farms shore and Mystery Island and about two and a half miles from President Taft's summer home. The three young men with Marcelle Cantalupo of New York went out rowing and two of the waiters exchanged seats. The boat was overturned. Surdez and Lossi sank immediately but St. Pierre and Cantalupo managed to hold on to the overturned craft for some time. Finally St. Pierre dropped off and sank. Cantalupo was rescued by the fishing sloop Gov. Cleves. The drowned men were from 20 to 24 years old.

SENATOR CARTER COL. ROOSEVELT

Replies to Interview With Pinchot

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 30.—U. S. Senator Carter, replying to a recent interview of Gifford Pinchot, makes this statement:

"Mr. Gifford Pinchot has rushed into print to shift responsibility for the distressing forest fires that have devastated so much of the western country."

"He says that Helburn, Mondell and Carter are responsible, because they opposed appropriations for forest protection. The fact is that the gentlemen named opposed the misapplication of the fund appropriated for forest protection. Reductions in appropriations were never urged except to money being applied by Mr. Pinchot to purposes apart from forest protection."

"The records of the office over which Mr. Pinchot presided will show that of the congressional appropriations since 1896 only $1,750,000 was used for improvement of the national forests, whereas the extraordinary sum of $19,192,000 was used for general expenses. It will be perceived that about 90 per cent of all the money appropriated was used for general expenses including the payment of lectures, the payment of editorial writers and reporters, the maintenance of a bureau of publicity and the general exploitation of Mr. Pinchot as a candidate for the presidency of the United States."

SENTENCE POSTPONED
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The sentencing of Charles R. Heike, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining company and Ernest Gerbracht, the former superintendent of the sugar trust's Williamsburg refinery, was postponed today until Sept. 10.

The trip to Osawatimie will be broken by an hour's stop at Pueblo, Colo., where Mr. Roosevelt will lay the cornerstone of the Y. M. C. A. building. The Roosevelt special will be stopped at Mineral Palace park, where a parade will form, at the head of which Mr. Roosevelt will proceed to the Y. M. C. A., where he will deliver a short address.

The corner stone ceremonies completed, Mr. Roosevelt will drive to the Union depot, where his special train will be in readiness to continue the journey to Osawatimie. Numerous stops of from five to ten minutes each are scheduled between Denver and Osawatimie, the principal towns being Colorado Springs, Colo., and Horace and Ottawa, Kan.

At Osawatimie Mr. Roosevelt will dedicate as a state park the battleground on the outskirts of the town, where in 1856 John Brown stood off a band of pro-slavery guerrillas. Mr. Roosevelt will be in Osawatimie for 21 hours and one of the most important speeches of his western tour will be delivered there.

COST $579,000,000

To Reproduce the Santa Fe Railroad System

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—It would cost $579,000,000 to reproduce the Santa Fe railroad system, according to President E. P. Ripley in the witness chair when the interstate commerce commission rate hearing was resumed today. The hearing is to determine the justice of the freight rate advance which the railroads scheduled for Nov. 1.

It added that approximately $45,000,000 of the investment is represented by franchises.

Out of each dollar received by the road about 70 per cent goes back to the general public, said Mr. Ripley. He declared the cost of a railroad and its capitalization should not enter into a consideration of its rates and that there never was a better rule than "all the traffic will bear."

"The value of the commodity handled and the value of the service are the factors upon which a rate should be determined," he continued.

The witness stated that of the money which returns to the public from the railroads 60 per cent goes to labor. This expenditure did not show in the list of wages paid on his road for the reason that much construction work is done by contract.

NARROW ESCAPE "TIM" WOODRUFF

Horse On Chemical Fell Down

One of the horses attached to the chemical at the central fire station had a narrow escape from being badly hurt while that piece of apparatus was responding to an alarm from box 16 shortly after noon today. While the other pieces of apparatus which had occasion to pass through Central street turned into Gorham street when Tower's corner was reached the driver of the chemical turned his horse into back Central street, which is being ripped up preparatory to the laying of new electric car rails. The driver evidently did not notice the condition of the street until he had made the turn and when he attempted to stop the horse the high horse fell and was dragged a considerable distance by the off horse.

The alarm was for a slight blaze on the roof of a house at 52 Walnut street belonging to George Kelleher and was caused by a spark from a neighboring chimney.

Slight Blaze
An alarm from box 5 at 11:13 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the department to a slight blaze in a house at the junction of Fletcher and Adams streets belonging to William B. Spalding. The fire was caused by some person carelessly throwing a match through a window. The match fell through a crack in a piazza, but the fire was extinguished before much damage was done.

HEROIC ACTION

Saved the Live of a Boy

PORTLAND, Me., Aug. 30.—The heroic action of Stewart W. Sylvester of the fishing schooner Mary E. Sinnott today saved the life of a five-year-old Italian lad who had fallen off Long wharf while sitting with a brother, who was fishing for sounders. Sylvester dove from his dory after rowing 100 feet and grasping the child after it sank for the last time rose to the surface and placed it safely in the boat. His act was watched by fully 100 men on Commercial street and Long wharf and they already are arranging to have him suitably rewarded for his bravery. Sylvester is 38 years old, lives at South Portland, and has followed the sea the greater part of his life.

CLAIMS TURNED DOWN
COPENHAGEN, Aug. 30.—The international socialist bureau today turned down the socialist labor party's claims to equal representation with the socialist party in America. Daniel De Leon, editor of the Daily People, of New York, who represented the former organization, maintained that it was entitled to cast the same number of votes as the rival socialist body but Maurice Hillquit of New York, the socialist party leader, gained the day and the bureau ruled that the socialist labor party was entitled to but one vote.

Capl. C. W. Farber, 8th cavalry, will visit the local army recruiting station Wednesday morning for the purpose of examining several applicants for the regular service. The recruiting station has removed from the Odd Fellows block, 84 Middlesex street, to the Marston block at 159 Middlesex street.

Tells About His Adirondack Estate

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Timothy Woodruff, chairman of the republican state committee, made a frank explanation before Commissioners Clark and Austin, who are conducting an investigation into forestry affairs while a member of the forest preserve board of Kamp Kill Kare, his Adirondack estate, and as to other of his Adirondack land transactions. His object for asking for a hearing, said Mr. Woodruff, was because "the imputation has been made that by some wrongful method I acquired my Kamp Kill Kare estate. I would have acted in violation of my obligations to the state had I, while president of the board, acquired any property which it would have been of advantage to the state to have acquired if the state could have acquired it. In this instance the state could not get this property, as the owners declined to make it public property because two miles from it were two lakes upon which Mr. Duane had spent thousands of dollars in improvements."

He produced documents showing that property embracing Lake Koru, on which his camp is located, has been advertised for sale as a private preserve before he purchased it.

All the fingerlings had been purchased from a private hatchery in Caledonia.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Aug. 30.—William H. Bolster, aged 84, committed suicide at his home here today by shooting himself in the head. No direct cause is known for the act, but it is believed to have been due to mental troubles. He was married last November for the second time.

Dr. Hill, the hotel physician, thinks the man committed suicide. The coroner has been notified. Hirsch was about 35 years of age.

MATRIMONIAL

One of the prettiest of this season's weddings was solemnized this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock when Miss Mary Frances McGovern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. McGovern of West Andover, and Frank William Dery, son of Mrs. Margaret Blory of Jackson street, were married by Rev. Fr. Daniel Heherman of Lowell, a relative of the bridegroom, in St. Patrick's church.

The ceremony at the church was largely attended as both the young folks are well known and very popular.

The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of champagne colored crepe meteor with a hat to match. She carried bride roses. Miss Cecilia McGovern, a sister of the bride was bridesmaid. She was attired in blue messaline with a white picture hat and carried Killarney roses.

Walter Dery, brother of the bridegroom was best man. The ushers at the church were J. Frank Mahoney, Louis A. Mahoney and James Arthur McGovern.

Following the wedding, a collation was served at the home of the bride's parents in West Andover, by Caterer Page of Lowell, followed by a reception.—Lawrence Eagle.

SUICIDE BY DROWNING
RUMFORD, Aug. 30.—"Suicide by drowning" was the verdict today of the coroner who investigated the finding of the body of Agnes Philbrook, aged 19, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Philbrook of Frye, in Swift river at Frye. The girl disappeared Sunday and her body was found late yesterday. No cause for the act is known.

GOT SIX YEARS

Girl Said She Could Not Help Stealing

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Mary O'Brien, the 15-year-old incorrigible, who admitted to Magistrate Cornell, in the Morrisania court, that she could not resist stealing, was sent to the House of Good Shepherd yesterday to serve six years.

A professional hypnotist, connected with an educational institution in New-Haven, studied the girl while she was in court, and sought out her stepmother, Mrs. William Hessian, of One Hundred and Ninety-eighth street and Third avenue. "I should like very much to attempt to cure your daughter of this habit," he said. "It is a shame that a girl with a face that seems to represent good rather than evil should be sent to a house of detention. If I could come in contact with this girl occasionally for a period of about six months I am certain I could cure her."

Mrs. Hessian was anxious to give him a chance to experiment on her daughter. The girl had been sentenced, however, and there was no opportunity of placing the matter before Magistrate Cornell. Some action may be taken today.

The O'Brien girl had been in charge of Police Matron Rose McCabe and her brother, former Policeman Thomas McCabe, at their home, No. 1170 Washington avenue. Miss McCabe secured possession of the girl at a time when she was about to be sent to the House of Good Shepherd some few weeks ago. Then the McCabes began missing small sums of money, and finally the O'Brien girl confessed to having stolen it. Miss McCabe reasoned with her, but Mary O'Brien said:

"I want to be a nice girl, but I cannot help stealing."

A BITTER FIGHT

Between Insurgent Republicans and Standpat Forces

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 30.—A clash over the endorsement of President Taft's administration as a whole seemed inevitable when the republican council met here today. Senator Bristow, leading the insurgents, had openly declared that Kansas republicans would not acquiesce in an approval of Secretary Ballinger's removal of Chief Forester Pinchot and the railroad bill as originally introduced in the last congress.

Senator Curtis, on the other hand, said he would insist upon an unqualified endorsement of the national administration.

At the opening of the council the situation had apparently developed into a clean-cut fight between insurgent and standpat forces.

Resolutions prepared by William Allen White, the Emporia editor, and embodying the sentiments as expressed by Senator Bristow, Governor Stubbs, Congressman Murdock and the other insurgent leaders, read as follows:

"We, the republicans of Kansas, in party council, desiring to express our pride in the traditions of our party, feel that respect and veneration to those traditions and for the history we have made may be most adequately and fittingly expressed by turning our faces forward rather than backward. Therefore, we bind ourselves to specific future, we bind ourselves rather than to ask for votes by reason of our past achievements, however great it is. Our platform shall be a guarantee of performance rather than a confession of faith."

"Yet we must congratulate President Taft as republicans on the successful outcome of the progressive party measures in congress; the postal savings bank law, the railroad law, and the law providing for the publicity of campaign expenses. And in this connection we wish to commend Representatives Murdock and Madison for their work in congress pursuant to the instructions of the Kansas republican platform of 1908 in modifying the rules of congress so that the enactment of these long-delayed measures was made possible. We wish to commend Senator Bristow for his hard and efficient work to carry out successfully his platform pledge to secure the enactment of the well known long and short haul clause in the inter-state commerce law."

We pledge anew our loyalty to the republican national platform of 1908 and bind ourselves to carry out its declarations, accepting the policy of protection as outlined in our platform as the established policy of the nation and binding our members of congress in both houses to vote steadfastly and without reference to any other instructions for a revision of the tariff law of 1900, using as a basis for fixing duties the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad with a reasonable profit for American manufacturers."

"We do not recognize the revision of the tariff of 1909 as a satisfactory fulfillment of the tariff pledge of the republican senators and congressmen to work and vote for legislation that will create an independent non-partisan tariff commission to ascertain accurately the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad with a reasonable profit for American manufacturers."

THE CRIPPEN CASE

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Dr. Hawley Crippen, jointly accused with Ethel Clara Leneve of the murder of his wife, has suffered a nervous collapse and was removed today to the hospital ward of Brixton jail. Solicitor Newton states that his client has given him an explanation of the farewell message found among the prisoner's effects by Inspector Dew which will throw a different light on the matter when it is made public. The message was read in court yesterday at the arraignment of Crippen and Miss Leneve and indicated that the writer contemplated suicide.

TEXT OF THE TREATY

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 30.—The text of the treaty by which the Korean kingdom was annexed to the empire of Japan was published here today and in the case of the Novoe Vremya was accompanied by a bitterly sarcastic editorial in which Korea is likened to an oyster which is about to be swallowed, treats with the gastronomoi who already has squeezed the lemon juice upon it. The sale document of importance in the official exchanges is the abolishing of the consular courts and the customs and the coasting trade right made subject to abolition after ten years.

The Novoe Vremya adds that the United States and Great Britain have been hard hit in the opinion of the editor who concludes that a war is the sole means of annulling a fact, the situation will be accepted for "assuredly nobody would go to war for Korea."

ately the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad and immediately to fix the duties on the basis of this information.

"We pledge our senators and representatives to vote for a joint resolution that will promote the revision of the tariff one schedule at a time."

"We demand the strictest enforcement of the anti-trust laws; and enactment of a law providing a jail sentence for willful violation of the anti-trust laws."

Other things that the republican senators and congressmen of Kansas are pledged to vote for are:

Amendments to the inter-state commerce law so as to give power and money to the inter-state commerce commission to ascertain the physical valuation of the railroads; laws that will prevent over-capitalization of corporations; measures concerning the conservation of natural resources along the lines advocated by former President Roosevelt in order to prevent private interests from obtaining unrestricted control of the vast mineral, water and timber resources of Alaska; consolidation of all appointive state and national offices, boards and commissions where good administration and economy have common interests; reduction of tax levies, direct or indirect.

Former President Roosevelt is commended by the resolution in these words:

"We send our greeting to Theodore Roosevelt, the new world's champion of the rights of man in the world-old contest between rising humanity and the encroachment of special privilege. And as republicans we stand ready to enlist under his banner in the fight for human rights."

6 O'CLOCK McGEE CAPTURED

But It is Believed That He is Fatally Shot

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Private McGee of Troop L, Tenth U. S. Cavalry, who shot and killed Private Turner of Company B, 24th regiment, and Corporal Jones of Company C of the 24th, all negroes, at Watertown last night, was captured at Boonville, 25 miles north of here, early today and in a running fight with civil officers before he gave up, was probably fatally shot. Boonville received word to look out for the fugitive from the military authorities at Pine Camp early this morning and when the 8 o'clock train drew in Deputy Sheriff Wetmore and Constable Stador split McGee on the bumper. The soldier started up the tracks on a run, the officers following. Two residents of the village tried to stop him, but McGee drew his big cavalry pistol and stood them off. Others joined in the chase and McGee was cornered between the canal and a knitting mill. McGee pressed, he jumped into the water and, standing waist deep, turned the gun on his pursuers. Stador told him to surrender. McGee replied with a bullet. Stador returned the fire. Walter Rinkle came up with a rifle. Both Rinkle and Stador fired at the same time and the negro dropped with two bullets in his back. Physicians say he cannot live.

PLAYGROUND FETE

ALSO OF SOME OF THE INDUSTRIAL WORK DONE BY CHILDREN.

Demonstration of Supervised Play Draws Thousands to So. Common

A delightful scene, a scene of rare beauty, was presented at the South Common this afternoon when nearly 2000 children gathered there to participate in the closing exercises, for this season of Lowell's supervised playgrounds. For beauty and inspiration there isn't anything to compare with the glad faces of happy children at play and if you missed the exercises at the common this afternoon you missed a whole lot.

It was a play festival and it was certainly nothing short of beautiful. It goes without saying that there was a great many happy parents present and the attendance was large because the closing exercises had been pretty well advertised. There was still another reason why the attendance was large. It's something that moves the world and it is nothing more for less than the love of children. Any man or woman with the milk of human kindness in his or her heart cannot but love children.

The weather clerk was very gracious and passed out the proper advice so far as weather was concerned and that was the greatest concern. If it had rained the exercises would have been held in the High school drill shed where they would have lost a deal of their spirit of attractiveness.

If the park commission and the playground supervisors had had a day made to order it could not have been better suited for the occasion than was today and the event on the South Common this afternoon was the best of the kind.

The benefit of supervised playgrounds was clearly made manifest and that the supervision of our playgrounds will be continued there is no doubt.

Judge Pickman, chairman of the park commission, is a firm believer in supervised playgrounds. It was mainly through Judge Pickman's efforts that the supervision of playgrounds in Lowell was brought about, and he is well pleased with the work as far as it has gone and he sincerely hopes that it will be continued. The children have had a delightful time during the summer months and their mothers appreciate how great has been the benefit to the children.

Mayor Meehan, too, is heartily in favor of supervised playgrounds. He says that nothing should be of more interest to the mayor of a city than the proper bodily and mental training of the boys and girls. He believes that the right kind of play helps to make good American citizens of our boys and girls.

The exercises this afternoon were held on the baseball diamond of the common and quite a number of automobiles drew up alongside to witness the festival or inter-grounds meet.

At 2 o'clock Miss Anna Moran, supervisor-in-chief of the girls, gave the training which the girls have received has formed no small part of their instruction. It is the folk dancing which has particularly attracted them. The practicing of the folk dances has been carried on both in the open air and in the basement of the Eliot school.

The playground march was followed by the folk dances selected by the desire of the little girls as their favorites. Some of the dances called for typical costumes of the countries whose dances were used, and many of the costumes were made by the girls themselves and their ability to make their own costumes is due to that particular branch of playground training.

The Dance Program

March.
Carrousel: Swedish singing game. This dance represents the Merry-go-round of Flying Horses. During the first part the Merry-go-round is supposed to be just starting; in the second part it is in full swing.

The Rabbit.
Dance: Cupid's Garden.
Danish folk dance: The Shoemaker.
Gilbert Dance: The Pointy Step.
American Plantation Dance: Topsy.
Catholics.
Polish Folk Dance: Gossyping Bina. This dance represents children chattering.

Norwegian Mountain March. This dance represents two travelers lost in the mountains with their guides. In the second part of the dance a house of shelter has been reached and merry-making takes place.

Captain Ball, Hunting, The Farmer, North common playgrounds.
Have You Seen a Larkie? South common.
Solo: Spanish dance.
Highland Fling.
Scottish Reel.

The dancing was followed by a drill in calisthenics, and following that an exhibition of the favorite group games by the girls from each of the large playgrounds. Little Canada chose the "Carrousel" and "Rabbit," North common, "Captain Ball," "Badge Ball" and "The Farmer," South common, "Did You Ever See a Larkie?"

Made for the dancing and the group games was furnished by Hubbard's or-

Another Rich Discovery at Brown-Farm

AUBURN, Me., Aug. 30.—A notable discovery of gems was that of Saturday at the old Brown farm on the road from Marston's corner to Minot, about six miles out of this city.

In one pocket in a tourmaline mint on that farm uncovered by a single blast, were found 6000 carats of the finest tourmaline. As the year worth $15 a carat cut, this means that the pocket contained from $50,000 to $75,000 worth of the gems.

Two weeks ago two other pockets were struck in the same mine which yielded not less than 200 carats of rough crystals, so that in the last two weeks gems which will run well up over the $100,000 mark have been taken out of this mine. The owner of the mine is Forest L. Hallow of Ash street, Lewiston. He leased the Brown farm a little less than 10 years ago for the feldspar, which was on it.

Scarcely any of the gems will cut less than a 10-carat tourmaline, and many of them will cut 50 carats. By a curious coincidence Mr. Farrington, collector for the Field museum in Chicago, was present when the pocket was opened, and the figures given are made up in his estimates.

IN POLICE COURT
Today's Docket Showed
Minor Cases

This morning's session of the police court was comparatively short due to the fact that several cases which were scheduled for hearings were settled without going to trial.

The case of Aaron Peterlosky, charged with assault and battery on Louis P. Caron, was called for trial but Messrs. Joseph E. Loughran and J. Joseph Hennessy, counsel in the case, had a conference with the court relative to a civil settlement and the case was dismissed. The assault took place a week ago Saturday in Middlesex street. It is alleged that Caron, who was intoxicated, was bothering Peterlosky, who keeps a second hand clothing store in Middlesex street. Caron tried to enter Peterlosky's store and the latter pushed him into the street, Caron falling and striking on his head.

The case of Anastasia Volteas, charged with the larceny of $36 from John Thomas, was also settled. This case grew out of the dissolution of partnership and it is alleged that the defendant collected some of the money due the firm. D. J. Donahue and J. Joseph Hennessy appeared as counsel in the case.

Michael Kinsalk, charged with assault and battery on Mary A. Kott, pleaded guilty, but no finding was made because the parties in the case reached an agreement.

Sent to the Reformatory
Constantinos Malaropoulos, who was yesterday found guilty of the larceny of carpenter tools from Leroy Dunn, was this morning sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory.

Drunken Offenders
Mary Brennan was charged with being drunk and admitted that she had partaken of a few drinks, but promised to let drink alone if given a chance. She was given a suspended sentence to the women's prison at Sherborn.

Thomas McGovern was sentenced to four months in jail, Timothy Desmond to the state prison, and Elizabeth Gennell will spend the next three months in jail.

David Sheehan was fined $3 and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

DEATHS

MCCORMACK—James McCormack, aged 70 years, died last evening at his late home in Perry street, Kenwood. The deceased was for many years a resident of this city, and for a number of years a devout attendant of St. Peter's church. The remains were moved to the funeral parlors of Undertakers M. H. McDonough & Sons in charge.

MAXWELL—Charles T. Maxwell, one of Salem's (N. H.) most highly respected and prominent citizens, died at his home on Highland avenue, at the Centre, Sunday afternoon, of Bright's disease and asthma, at the age of 65. Mr. Maxwell for the past two years has been failing in health, but only took his last breath on Saturday, when he began to fail very rapidly and passed away on Sunday. He had lived in Salem for over 40 years. He was a member of the Grand Army, and had held many prominent offices in the same; he was also a Mason, and past master of the Salem lodge. He is survived by a wife, one son, Fred Maxwell, of the depot, and one brother, Wilbur Maxwell of Maine.

WELCH—Annie Ellen Welch, aged one year and six months, child of George F. and Catherine Welch, died this morning at the home of her parents, rear of 40 Centre street.

CROWLEY—Daniel Crowley, a well known resident of this city, died this morning at the city hospital. His body was removed to the funeral parlors of C. H. Moly & Sons.

IF IT KEEPS ON

Every house in Lowell and surrounding towns will have a CRAWFORD RANGE in it. In spite of all the talk of hard times, we have sold three times as many CRAWFORD RANGES this month than any August in the history of this store. It's phenomenal. And yet, why should any one buy any other range? The CRAWFORD has everything that makes any range a good range. And plus that, it has the patented single damper. That makes it better, no matter how good other ranges may be. It saves fuel, and weight for weight, the CRAWFORD costs no more than any of the half dozen other good makes on the market.

TO RAISE THE MAINE

O'Rourke Explains His Plan to President Taft

BEVERLY, Aug. 30.—If plans which Pres. Taft regards favorably are adopted, the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor 12 years ago and since then concealing the secret of the disaster for which overwhelmed her, may be sailing homeward on or before Christmas, bearing a long-delayed verdict to the nation.

John F. O'Rourke, president of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction company of New York, submitted the plans yesterday to President Taft. They poured over them for two hours and O'Rourke departed with instructions to meet the president in Washington in the last week in September, when definite action will be taken.

The government is asked to furnish men, tugs and other assistance, which will co-operate with the O'Rourke forces in raising the Maine out of her grave of mud and water. In this way, Mr. O'Rourke says, the work can be done without the appropriation of $300,000 made by congress. A commission has been appointed to study the plans and pronounce their judgment when President Taft and O'Rourke meet for the final conference in Washington.

So impressively did O'Rourke state his case that the president favors the immediate selection of an engineer to undertake the task without going through the usual procedure of advertising for bids. It is not certain, however, that bids can be dispensed with, but the matter will be taken up with the attorney-general, and if he gives his approval the reclaiming of the Maine will be under way early in October.

Patriotism is understood to have much to do with an offer made by Mr. O'Rourke which will insure apparently that Uncle Sam will get the job done most reasonably. It is understood that Mr. O'Rourke agrees, granted government assistance, to undertake the task, and when it is completed have the work appraised. This appraisal, plus a reasonable sum for doing the job, will constitute his price, the total doubtless coming within the $300,000 appropriation.

The plan provides for raising the Maine by means of pneumatic caissons and steel cables. The ship will be preserved intact, Mr. O'Rourke says, with every evidence of the disaster which she may bear.

It is proposed to construct on piles a line of wharves about 20 feet from either side of the ship. Between it and the wharves will be sunk pneumatic caissons to a depth of about 40 feet below the keel of the Maine. Cables will be passed down one side of the caissons under the Maine and up the other side to the caissons there.

These cables will be placed at intervals of four feet and form a cradle in which the Maine will rest. The combined strength of the cables will be four times the weight of the ship.

Jack screws, to which the ends of the cables will be fastened, will be stationed on platforms erected over the caissons and when the jacks are operated the tightening cables will raise the Maine from her berth of mud and gradually lift her clear from the water. The caissons are planned to have a capacity of 50 per cent more sustaining power than the weight of the Maine.

As the caissons are called upon to support the Maine, pneumatic devices are installed, which will increase their efficiency so that they will not sink in the mud. About 1000 men will be required to attend to the jacks and other equipment and it is proposed that the government furnish all or part of this force, calling out a regiment if necessary. It is further proposed that repair ships in southern waters be sent to Havana.

"I am confident that the work could be done successfully if my plan is adopted," Mr. O'Rourke said after his conference with the president. "It is based on proven scientific principles. When the ship is raised, a platform above water and under the ship could be constructed between the caissons. The supporting cables would constitute a drydock on which the Maine could rest while she was being examined. Every facility for examination and repairs would be afforded."

Secretary of the Navy Meyer called at Burgess Point and viewed the plans while they were under discussion. His visit was for the purpose of conferring with the president on economy administration for the federal departments in Washington.

Juan Sumulong, one of the Filipino members of the Philippine commission, who is returning from Europe, was given an audience by the president yesterday afternoon.

At noon Mr. Taft pressed an electric button completing a circuit which opened the Ohio Valley exposition in Cincinnati.

he would support Speaker Cannon because he could not be elected is a boomerang. It did not have the desired effect. People are saying that while Mr. Cannon may be bad, his friends should not desert him. I heard Mr. Bryan make a speech recently in which he expressed sympathy for Mr. Cannon because Mr. Longworth, whom the speaker befriended, has declared his opposition to him.

"It is generally known that Ex-President Roosevelt induced Speaker Cannon to appoint Mr. Longworth a member of the ways and means committee. It is generally believed that Mr. Longworth's recent statement regarding Mr. Cannon was inspired by Col. Roosevelt. People do not like the attitude either of Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Longworth."

"I do not wish it to be understood that the feeling of sympathy for Mr. Cannon in certain quarters will help him. It simply serves to add to the disgust with which the voters regard the republican party and some of its prominent members. Mr. Cannon cannot be re-elected speaker because the house will be democratic."

HENRY G. DAVIS

Who is Reported to be Seriously Ill

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 30.—Henry Gassaway Davis, former United States senator and candidate for vice president on the democratic ticket in 1904, is seriously ill at his home at Wilkins, near here. The aged millionaire fell down a flight of steps recently, and as he has been feeble for several months the result of the accident may be serious.

DEEPER WATERWAYS ASSOCIATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—The vanguard of the delegates to the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association began arriving here today by train, steamer and automobile. They found the downtown district of the city decorated as it has seldom been before with welcoming signs on all sides. At the corner of Dorrance street and Exchange place facing the railroad station a large arch has been erected, displaying in big electric letters the greeting "What Cheer." Along the sides of the street hung lines of electric lights entwined with laurel, held up by white poles, surmounted by gilded tridents. Several electric arches crossed each other at the corner of Dorrance and Westminster streets, and from their center hung an anchor, rope and pair of oars.

The fact that President Taft is not to attend has dampened the enthusiasm of a great many. The various committees who have been working hard to make the affair a success feel the disappointment keenly as the president had practically fixed the date of the convention. The gatherings of the convention will begin tonight with an informal reception at the Narragansett hotel, the association's headquarters in this city. The convention will open formally tomorrow.

PRIMARY ELECTION

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—The first statewide primary election in Maryland is in progress today for the election of nominees for representative in congress. In four districts, the third, fourth, fifth and sixth, stirring campaigns have been waged. No primaries are held in the first and second districts, both democrats and republicans having agreed on their candidates. As far as the other districts are concerned the fights within one party or the other make it impossible to say who will get the nominations. Keen interest is taken in the republican contest in the sixth district, represented by George A. Pearce. Pearce entered the list to succeed himself, but subsequently withdrew his strength. It is claimed largely going to Gist Blair. In the fourth district four candidates are striving for the place of John Gill, who is not seeking a renomination because of ill health. The republicans in the fifth district are united behind Thomas Parman, as the successor of Sydney P. Mudd, who declined a renomination but the democrats are divided into two factions over the nomination, each claiming the victory.

In an Attempt to Rescue a Child From Drowning

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—While endeavoring to rescue her child, Marie, two years and eight months old, from drowning in Jamaica pond yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Catherine M. Hogarty, wife of Patrick J. Hogarty of 16 Hall street, Jamaica Plain, lost her life by drowning, and an unknown man, about 50 years old, who attempted to rescue Mrs. Hogarty and her baby, was also drowned.

The baby, Marie Hogarty, was rescued by the heroic act of Miss Martha Daley, 28 years old, a nursery maid employed by Dr. Mark W. Richardson of 116 Moss Hill road, Jamaica Plain, who, on seeing the frantic efforts of the unknown man in his attempt to aid Mrs. Hogarty and the child, ran into the water and brought the baby safely to shore.

Mrs. Hogarty, with her children, Marie and Annie, 10 months old, went to the pond, as has been their custom this summer, to spend the afternoon under the trees near the shore.

Baby Marie was sitting in the four-wheeled carriage, with leather hood, while Annie was sitting on the grass beside her mother under a tree nearly opposite the end of Elliot street. There the ground at the shore of the pond rises in a slight knoll that is quite irregular and precipitous.

Ever soon, unexplained the carriage with Marie in it started down the embankment toward the water. The mother screamed, got to her feet as quickly as possible and ran after the carriage, hoping to stop it before it should reach the water.

But the carriage with Marie sitting in it rolled quickly down the hill and into deep water.

The shore at this point, near where the old boathouse stood, dips quickly and the water is a number of feet deep a short distance from land.

When the carriage struck the water the baby was thrown out.

Mrs. Hogarty thought nothing of her danger, but madly sprang into the water to save Marie.

In her excitement she screamed and floundered about and attracted the attention of an aged man.

He ran up the path and boldly jumped into the water to rescue mother and child.

He is said to have reached Mrs. Hogarty, who was fast losing her strength and took hold of her. The baby had floated away a little distance from Mrs. Hogarty, and she frantically endeavored to reach her child. As a result there was a struggle with the unknown man and both sank.

Miss Daley was sitting on the grass not far from the scene of the accident with little Martha Richardson. Seeing the danger of the baby Hogarty drowning, she ran into the water up to her waist and rescued the baby. When Miss Daley had reached the shore with the child, she turned to see how the man was getting along in his effort to rescue Mrs. Hogarty, and to her amazement and grief both man and woman had disappeared from view.

Martin Nees of 14 Humboldt place, South Boston, was driving past the place and, hearing the screams of people, left his wagon and, on learning what had happened, he walked into the water up to his waist in an effort to recover the man and woman. A plant growth in the pond prevented him from seeing either.

Sergeant Charles Gilman of police division 13, who was a short distance away, also heard the screams and, snatching a life preserver from a post on the shore, ran to the spot. When he arrived both Mrs. Hogarty and her would-be rescuer had disappeared. Other men who were attracted to the spot tried in every way to aid in the quick recovery of the bodies.

Simon Fraser and George Erickson, employed at the bathhouse at Jamaica pond, manned two boats and hurried to the spot where it was said the two persons had sunk, and they were ready to make the attempt at recovery of the bodies by diving. But they did not know where to dive.

Sergeant Gilman went to a police signal box and notified Capt. Harriman at division 13, and the patrol wagon with scrapers, irons was hurried to the pond, with Sergeants Frank Arnold and Patrolmen Herthel, Egan, Claffin and Howes.

LODGE FORCES BUSY

Attempt Made to Have Democrat Run in 17th District—Congressman Green Criticizes Ames—Boston Man Declares for Ames

While Congressman Greene of Fall River has been assailing the methods of Congressman Ames in his campaign for United States senator, emissaries of the Lodge forces are reported to have been using similar methods right here in Lowell. The only difference being that Congressman Ames has openly stated that he will canvass every corner of the state for votes while the Lodge people have practically given the assurance that they would not seek support in this section of the state and have then come here under cover as it were to do their campaign work.

Here is what Congressman Greene writes:

"In all the history of the state no such spectacle has ever been presented as has been called to the attention of the people of this section of the commonwealth during the last few weeks by an aspirant to the high and honorable office of U. S. senator residing in Middlesex county."

"He is down on the bosses. Then he proceeds to hold conferences for the purpose of procuring candidates for the legislature in both Fall River and New Bedford, and it is openly stated that he will with his untold wealth pay all the campaign expenses and will proceed to put the Ames' collar around the necks of the candidates he selects, and he asks that they shall obey his will in the legislature."

"Personally I care nothing for the attributes regarding myself. Nothing he can say or do will injure me; but I have some regard for the high office of U. S. senator and I hope the republican voters may awaken themselves regarding the situation that confronts them."

A former ward six councilman who is well known in the 17th district was asked to run for representative in that district on the democratic ticket being given assurances of support if he would allow his name to be used. He declined but report has it that from the information given him if he ran as a Lodge man he would be supported. Wonder how the high minded seniors of the republican party will like the idea of their model senator becoming democratic candidates for the legislature.

Senator Joseph H. Hibbard, who is an avowed Ames supporter, was assured by representatives of the state central committee recently that the committee would interfere in the legislative contest in this vicinity, which information has been taken by the local republicans to mean that the Lodge forces would not attempt to fight the colonel on his own bailwick. Ames is Best, the Pawtucket candidate for senator is said to be an Ames man while it is understood that ex-Rep. Varnum, who is also a candidate has not declared himself.

It is believed that every republican candidate for the legislature in the local districts who has thus far announced himself is an Ames man. That the Lodge forces should try to break up the slate in the 17th district is probably due to two reasons, the first being that Rep. Barlow, who is seeking another term was one of the leading Ames men in the house and the second reason is the fact that the 17th district is listed by both state organizations as a doubtful district.

The candidacy of Frederic P. Marble in the 19th district is looked upon by many as a move of the Lodge forces, though the Marble forces claim that Mr. Marble is the strongest man that can be found to defeat Rep. Cuff, a democrat elected in a republican district. This district has been electing republicans for some years, but has received but little as a result. During the last year, however, Rep. Cuff did more for his district than his predecessors had done in a decade. His great fight was for the reimbursement of the town of Tewksbury for the taxes on the great amount of state property in that town, something that Tewksbury has been seeking for years without success until Rep. Cuff went to the house. Any republican who can carry Tewksbury against Rep. Cuff this year will certainly be going some.

Elmhurst H. Barnes of ward 20, Dorchester, announces his candidacy for the republican nomination for the state senate.

Mr. Barnes states positively that he is an anti-Lodge candidate, but believes in the progressive principles of the republican party as expounded by Theodore Roosevelt.

Ames is his first choice for the U. S. senate. He favors direct nominations and direct election of U. S. senators by the people.

Mr. Barnes was a candidate for the nomination last year but failed.

Haverhill Man is Not Expected to Live

NEWBURYPORT, Aug. 30.—As the result of a quarrel over a basin of water, Antonio S. Scattitolo, commonly known as Tony Capello, an Italian, aged about 40, of 237 River street, Haverhill, is at the Hale hospital and his name has been put on the dangerous list. He has two bullet wounds in the left side of his neck and one in the right arm near the shoulder. A general alarm has been sent out for the capture of James Rossi, who is accused of doing the shooting.

The men were attached to a gang engaged in resurfacing with oil the state highway on Storey avenue in this city, under the direction of Walter Cressy of Gloucester, the contractor. They had finished work for the day and had gone to the camp which had been established near the Storey avenue schoolhouse.

Just what started the quarrel is not clear, but it is alleged that Scattitolo, succeeded in getting a basin of water away from Rossi after quite a struggle.

It is charged that Rossi then drew a pistol and fired three shots in quick succession at Scattitolo, who staggered a few feet and dropped to the ground. Rossi at once fled in the darkness into the fields toward the Newbury line.

In the excitement everybody turned their attention to aiding the wounded man. It was at once seen that he had been badly injured. Mr. Cressy took him into his automobile and started to a local hospital, where Scattitolo begged to be taken to Haverhill. He

Got Large Amount of Stage Money

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Three safe blowers partly wrecked the 23rd and theatre early yesterday, dynamited the safe and secured $100,000 in stage money and $500 in real cash. The late street police arrived on the scene eight hours after the cracksmen had departed. They believe they can recover the $100,000 in stage money, unless the safe blowers buy vegetables with it from some newly arrived immigrant. The $500 in legal tender they have no hope of tracing.

Tearing down the plush curtain draperies in front of the store—the theatre is owned by Weiner & Ottman, merchants—the burglars carried them to the theatre office to use in deadening the noise of the explosion.

TO PATENT LANDS

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—At a meeting held here yesterday between officers in the field service of the general land office and members of the forestry service, an agreement was reached which gave to the general land office all responsibility for the patenting of lands on the public domain. The agreement places in effect the compact recently entered into between Secretary of the Interior Ballinger and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson respecting the rights of the two branches of the service.

The agreement provides that forest service officers shall report upon all locations made upon forest lands for any purpose and after the reports have been sent to Washington they shall be returned through the secretary of the interior to the chiefs of the field divisions for the various districts. After examination of the report the field division officers may confirm the report or they may order a new examination if there is anything about the papers to excite suspicion.

CONGRESSMAN LLOYD

Says That the Tide is Against The Republicans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—"There is every prospect of a democratic victory in the congressional elections," said Representative Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the democratic congressional committee yesterday. "I do not expect a tremendous democratic tidal wave, but I believe we will have a safe majority in the next house with."

Representative Lloyd came here from Buffalo, where he had a conference with Norman B. Maclean, chairman of the democratic national committee. Asked about the campaign plans, Mr. Lloyd said:

"There is nothing new about our campaign plans. We will continue to appeal to the people upon the issues of the iniquitous tariff, the increased cost of living, Cannonism and the bad record of the republican party. On these issues we expect to be successful. Democrats everywhere are working in harmony. Not in years has the party been so thoroughly united."

York last evening to confer with the democratic managers there. Before leaving he announced that he would continue his travels about the country, spending part of his time at the Washington headquarters of the committee and part at the Chicago headquarters.

The campaign in the east will be directed from Washington, while the Chicago headquarters will have charge of the western campaign. The south will be left to take care of itself, the feeling being that except in a few districts there is no danger of democratic defeat. These districts will be looked after carefully.

Representative Lloyd expressed himself as very much pleased with the differences between the regular and insurgent wings of the republican party. He does not believe that President Taft's campaign letter will have the effect of renouncing the party factions.

Dissatisfaction Widespread

"In my opinion the split between the republican factions will require a long time to heal if it ever heals," said Mr. Lloyd. "The president's letter will do little good. His admission that the tariff needs further revision is a confession of weakness and sustains our contention. It will contribute to the general feeling of disgust with governmental and economic conditions and against the party responsible for them."

"This feeling extends from Maine to California. In Maine it promises to be responsible for a democratic victory. In Massachusetts the disgust with republicanism and all the name implies which resulted in the election of Representative Foss some months ago will be much more manifest this fall."

"It is not any one thing that has caused the people to turn to the democracy for relief. In some sections it is the tariff, in others the increased cost of living, in others Cannonism."

"Here it may be the general spirit of insurgency against corporation influence in politics. There it may be dissatisfaction with an individual republican. But whatever the cause of the general dissatisfaction, discontent and disgust in different localities the democratic party will be the beneficiary."

Roosevelt Behind Longworth

"The regular republicans would rather see democrats win than insurgents victorious, while the insurgents will vote for democrats in preference to helping elect regular candidates. The republican split is especially wide in the west. In Indiana Senator Beveridge is defeated and a democrat will succeed him. In Ohio Gov. Thurman will be triumphantly re-elected. In Chicago the democrats will gain several congressional districts. In Kansas, Iowa and other states democratic prospects were never better."

"In New York the fight between the Broome-Burns forces and the 'old guard' republican politicians has failed to result in the election of a democratic governor and a gain of democratic districts are ripe for democratic victory."

"Mr. Longworth's announcement that

May be Erected in the Hall of Fame

OSAWATOMIE, Kan., Aug. 30.—Celebration of the anniversary of the day when John Brown's men destroyed ten times their number of Missouri guerrillas in the woods at the edge of the town of Osawatomie began today. At least 25,000 persons are expected here tomorrow at the second day of the celebration when Theodore Roosevelt will make the address dedicating to the state on a park the wooded hillside where the battle was fought.

So much enthusiasm for John Brown has been awakened that a movement for a statue of the western abolitionist in the Hall of Fame was started by a resolution in the morning.

That Kansas always had been a turbulent state, unmistakable in her views and ready to take her share in the responsibility in any national question, was the principal point emphasized by Joseph G. Waters of Topeka, the orator of the day, who, referring to Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Tomorrow an even greater audience than this will be addressed by an ex-president of the United States, illustrious, honored in all lands, and especially loved in Kansas. We glory in him as a magnificent specimen of an American citizen."

Following Mr. Waters' address, Mr. Heneock of Parsons, Kan., department president of the relief corps, who was leader for the movement which resulted in the buying of the park, made a short address.

...ING AUTO PARADE CHOSE SUICIDE

 ...rence Was Spoiled

LAWRENCE, Aug. 30.—A movement on foot among the automobile owners, dealers and chauffeurs for a grand automobile parade, slow race and hill climb to be held in this city, Oct. 24 and considerable enthusiasm is already aroused in the project. It is planned the parade to be made up of autos artistically decorated, and trucks with children singing and bands playing as they pass through the streets, and a slow running race which will be an interesting feature. After the race there is to be a hill climb in which will be shown the qualities of the different makes of cars and the expert demonstration of their operators. Citizens are requested to contribute money to be devoted to the purchase of prizes for the various events and the collector will be authorized to receive money for this purpose.

Manuel F. Silva, chauffeur for Dr. M. Sullivan, has been planning for some time for this event. He feels that if he has the co-operation of the auto dealers and their chauffeurs and the citizens of Lawrence that this cause will be a very successful affair.

Meeting will be held at the Commercial street garage, Friday evening of next week to select a committee to make arrangements for the affair and any one interested is invited to be present.

LINDBERS AND TWISTERS wanted.
by Brookside Mills, Brookside, Mass.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A photograph of Americus Jacobs and Frances Clifton, two young sweethearts who have been missing since last Saturday from Newark, was received yesterday by Angelo Jacobs, a brother of the missing youth. It was inclosed in an envelope mailed in Brooklyn on Sunday. With it Americus wrote:

"When you receive this, Frances and I will be dead."

The letter further stated that because Frances' parents would not permit them to marry, they had decided to go away and die together. The photograph had been taken at Coney Island.

On Saturday Jacobs told his sister-in-law, with whom he boarded, that he intended to take Frances to Coney Island that afternoon. Later in the day Mrs. Jacobs received a note from Americus, stating that he would not be home that night. Inclosed was his pay envelope and $10, his week's wages. That was the last heard of him until the letter was received by his brother yesterday.

Angelo Jacobs rushed to the Newark police with the letter. He said his brother had brooded over the objections of his sweetheart's parents to his courtship. As the girl was in a similar mood, he feared they might be found dead together. The Brooklyn police were requested to make a thorough search for the missing couple.

Two ladies connected with the Young Ladies' Hospital Guild, which has charge of the milk depot in Market street, gave an outing this afternoon to about 20 mothers who patronize the depot and their children, and about 30 children from the Ayer home. The program included a delightful ride up the Merrimack river to South Nashua and return, and during the trip a musical and literary program was carried out. Refreshments were served.

The weather was ideal, the arrangements for the affair were carried out in a manner that evoked much credit on the two ladies in charge, and through their philanthropy the mothers and their children together with the little ones from the Ayer home had a delightful time. The ladies, by the way, requested that their names be omitted, did everything possible to give the mothers and little ones a good time.

Shortly after 1 o'clock a number of women with their children boarded a special car in Merrimack square and were taken to the steamboat landing in Pawtucket street where the steamboat Gov. Allen was boarded. Later a delegation from the Ayer home put on an appearance and at 2.30 o'clock the Gov. Allen resumed the command of Capt. Prouty swinging from the stern into the middle of the stream and piled up the river as far as South Nashua. The anchor was thrown out at this point and ice cream and cake were served.

After the refreshments had been served the boat started back for the landing and was scheduled to arrive in Lowell shortly before 3 o'clock.

On the trip up and down the river the mothers and children listened to photographic selections through the courtesy of Mr. Michael Maloney and vocal selections by a trio from the Misses Evelyn Mills, Elsie Allen and Frances Hohlman.

Among those who assisted the hostesses in entertaining the party were Miss Alice M. Tinsay, who is the head nurse at the milk depot in Market street, and Misses Corcoran and Chadbourne.

Young Man Attempted to Take His Life

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The ambulance surgeon of the J. Hood Wright clinic who has the "early trick" led the following entry into his book yesterday:

Allen Browne, aged twenty-six; education, salesman; attempted suicide drinking carboic acid at the apartment house, No. 111 East One Hundred and Fourth street, on serious. Prisoner of the police.

It was all it meant to the ambulance surgeon. But in the two weeks that he faced each other later in life at the room where Browne came to the police.

"You will forgive him if he gets well?"

"I will never forgive him," she cried with sudden bitterness.

"If I had known he was a married man I would never have had anything to do with him," said Miss Besley later.

She went to visit Browne at the hospital during the day, however, and he seemed glad to see her. But when the woman who claims to be his wife approached his cot he merely looked at her without a word. Miss Besley was detained as a witness for a short time, but was honorably discharged by Magistrate Corrigan in the west side court.

Browne's condition was reported to luxury, he was the son of the late C. E. Browne, noted member of the Exchange and owner of a fine home on Long Island, the boy Allen himself, at his father's death, inheritor of three-quarters of a million dollars. That was only a few years ago. But the day, however to the apartment of Miss Wesley, on the sixth floor of the city, that the ambulance surgeon arrived early yesterday morning. It was then that a reporter at the Wesley residence, who had been at yesterday afternoon one of the dramatic meetings that were being held outside of a theatre, at Grove and I were out Sunday morning. Miss Wesley was saying to me: "We had dined together, and I was very tired. We got back at a little after midnight, and he was in a good night's sleep. He was then suddenly lifted by the back of the neck and drained it before my eyes. We were not engaged. He had asked me to marry him several times, but I refused. I don't know what he was doing."

Lesley. "Another reporter," she said as she rose to open when she had done so, she said apprehensively.

"In Mrs. Browne—his wife, you he said slowly. And then, with everything." He went to know to me, and I must have him! how long I have you known I must tell me all."

The young woman seemed stunned, back in a chair, but rallied a little while," she answered "I didn't steal him away from you."

"Then, turning to the rectory, you leave as alone to-day."

"John Brown is my husband," John said after the strange news over. "We were married years ago, and we were happy; just recently, when he began to run from home."

Visits Hospital

Last Saturday evening while he lay bed, and I have looked for since, I find today that he has told himself, and therefore here."

Three big improvements now under way or about under way are the building of a state highway between Lowell and Lawrence, the laying of tracks for the West Central railway line, the curve at Lakeview car being already in position and the unloading of Mammeth road from the city line to Collinsville under the direction of the state highway. This road is generally one of cutouts and at present is in bad shape. The new railway line through West Centralville opens up a fast growing territory without the disadvantages of the state highway between Lowell and Lawrence along the river bank, which has been promoted for the past 10 or 12 years are too well known to be described at this time.

STEADY AND VERY DULL AT THE CLOSE.

—The General Level of Yesterday
Was Restored

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Canadian Pacific made an opening jump of $\frac{3}{4}$, otherwise no other gains were shown throughout the list Union Pacific and American Beet Sugar rose $\frac{1}{2}$. The volume of business was very moderate.

While the market was less active than on yesterday it showed as near, as much strength. Business was somewhat better distributed and there was a good demand for some of the top priced industrials. There was a fraction at recession later and trading grew dull.

The movement toward recovery in prices lost its force in course of the morning. Recoveries in short interests deprived stocks of their principal factor of strength. Most of the first hour's gains were lost in the second hour. Operations were professional and uninfluenced by news of conditions. Bonds were irregular.

The drift of prices continued downwards but there was very little change of prices.

Prices sagged slowly and the major portion of the list ruled below yesterday's close with the metal group showing the most heaviness.

The market closed steady and incessantly dull. If the decline reached a point after which there was some stiffening of the market the

Boston Copper Market
BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Following an evening in which dullness was the only characteristic the copper share market developed some light activity with a low tone. The strength of American Agricultural Chemical was the feature of the general list.

Exchanges and Balances
BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Exchanges $$19,420$; Balances $$1,416,532$.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The cotton market was very nervous at the opening this morning and the first sale of August at 20 cents, or 25 points above the closing figures of last night strengthened the feeling that there was still some short interest to cover.

Notices of delivery, estimated at about 21,000 bales, were circulated, however, and scattering liquidation by holders on the long side soon broke August to 19.25. The big bulls seemed to be doing nothing whatever to check the decline and while August liquidation led to 15.50 the trading in that position was very quiet.

As was the case yesterday, the fluctuations in August had little effect on the latter months which, however, showed increased firmness and activity owing to bullish new crop reports and rumors that the old crop bull leaders are now turning their attention to the

But She Will Not Make Known Steamer Mascuppic Was Lost in Her Name the Fog

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—While surgeons in the Flower hospital were making every effort today to save the life of the fashionably attired young woman who shot and seriously wounded herself in the crowded waiting room of the Hotel Astor late last night, the attempts of the authorities to obtain a clue to the woman's identity were unrewarded. She still persisted in refusing to answer questions. Whenever an effort was made to get her to say who she was she would bite her lips and shake her head.

Surgeons today say the young woman's condition was serious and that an operation would probably have to be performed on her during the day. She walked into the hotel shortly before midnight last night, seated herself in the woman's room and a moment later shot herself in the breast. She was conscious when taken to the hospital.

"I did it myself," was all she would say, steadfastly refusing to say where she was or where she lived. She is about 25 years old, of medium height and light complexion, wore no jewelry and had only a small amount of money with her in a handbag.

LOSS IS $10,000 VICIOUS ATTACKS

Inmates of Cambridge Fishermen Are Hard Hit House Escaped by Sharks

CAMBRIDGE, Aug. 30.—Sixty persons were aroused from sleep early today by policemen and firemen and carried in safety from a burning tenement house on Putnam avenue, Cambridgeport. There were twelve families living in the house, mostly foreigners. The building was located in the heart of the factory tenement district and other property was threatened. Two firemen were overcome by smoke but none of the inmates was injured. The house was destroyed, causing a loss of $10,000.

IT'S DERBY DAY

READVILLE, Aug. 30.—Derby day was one of the two big attractions that drew thousands of horse race followers to the Readville track today for the opening of the grand circuit meeting. The other attraction that held the interest of the crowd was the great United States, the New England born and bred champion trotter of the world. This big gelding owned and driven by C. K. C. Billings of Cleveland attempted today to better his one mile wagon record of 2:01, made this season at the Cleveland meet.

The American derby handicap in two divisions had an aggregate prize of $15,000, two-thirds of it going to the trotters and the remainder to the pacers. In the former division there were twenty-three horses to face the starter while in the racing division of the race it had twenty-one entrants. The distance was one and one-eighth miles and the handicap forty feet to the second. That meant that the horses with the highest handicap at the 2:17 mark were 400 feet ahead of the scratch horses on the 2:07 mark. Last year the distance was one-eighth of a mile longer and the handicap was 45 feet to the second.

FELL INTO SHAFT

Man's Remarkable Escape From Death

CALUMET, Mich., Aug. 30.—One of the most remarkable escapes from death in the annals of the Lake Superior copper industry occurred at Red Jacket shaft of the Calumet & Hecla mine when Mike Sunrich, a timberman, in stepping from a repair cage to the main cage, fell into the shaft. He fell 150 feet before he grasped the rope attached to the skip, saving himself from a fall of a mile to the bottom. His hands were badly burned on the wire rope but otherwise he was unhurt. Sunrich was dangling from the rope when rescued.

CANOBIE LAKE THEATRE

Yesterday saw the inauguration of what will be the last show to be seen at the Canobie Lake theatre for this season. It is the last of J. W. Gorman's musical comedies by Matthew Ott, called "My Girl."

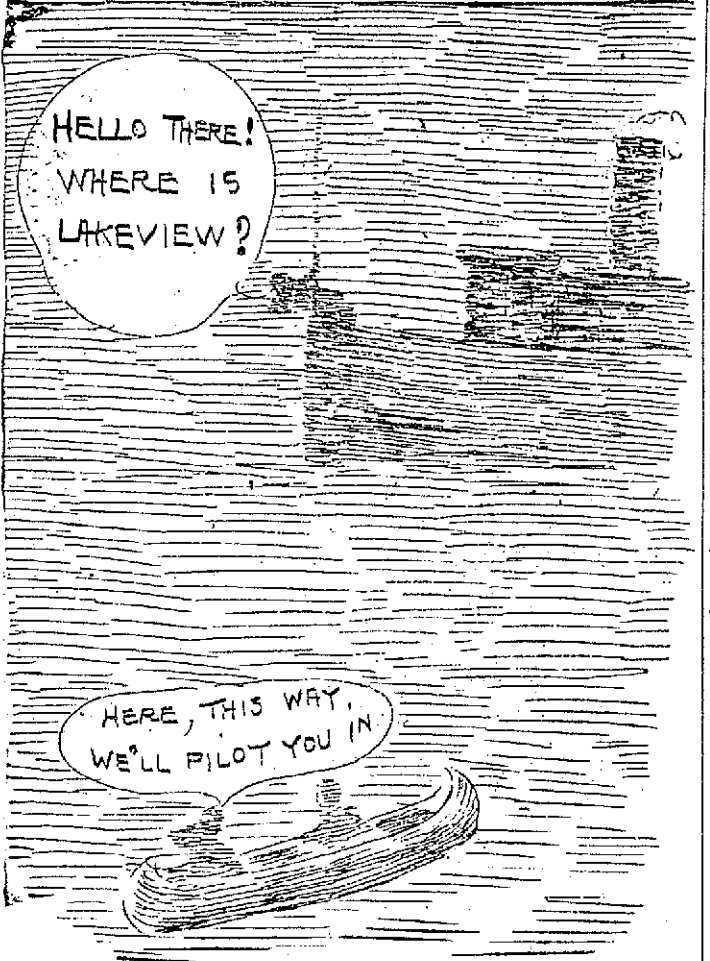

The plot deals with one of the funniest subjects that has ever lent itself to the stage, that of imposters in spiritism. Mr. Moore, according to the story, journeys to Boston, but in reality he calls upon his friend, Grindard Barrett, who, it happens, lives in the same apartments as does Prof. Knox Lombard, a fake spiritualist. Mrs. Moore becomes intensely interested in spiritism and goes to Prof. Lombard to be materialized. Her husband whom she believes to be far away appears upon the scene and the complications begin.

It is all very funny, and Charles Morgan and Miss Melba Drake are well supported by an able company, who work well together to get a lot of uproarious fun out of the many queer situations. Miss Lorraine made a decided hit with her song, "Call Me Up Some Rainy Afternoon," and with Miss Woods sings "Slingy Kid" in a very pleasing manner. Mr. Bold sings a college song that is very effective.

The costumes are all good and the play is well staged. As has been the case with all the other musical shows this season, the chorus of young ladies proved one of the real attractions of the show.

With two performances of "My Girl" on Labor day, the season at the Canobie Lake theatre will close.

LOST IN A FOG ON THE MASCUPIIC. THE FIGURE IN THE BOAT IS THAT OF OUR GENIAL SENATOR JOSEPH H. HIBBARD HOLLERING FOR HELP.

Senator Hibbard Saves Twenty-Six Passengers From Watery Grave by a Wireless Telegraphy Act on Lake Mascuppic—The Steamer Wound Up at Her Starting Point

Senator Joe Hibbard is assured of some 20 votes regardless of party affiliation in the next election, for with great presence of mind he transformed himself into a human wireless telegraphy system late last night and thereby saved twenty-six men and women from an untimely fate mid the deep and dark water of Lake Mascuppic.

Of all the men and women on that ill-fated steamer Mascuppic last night, none but the husky senator could officiate as man of the hour for Joe possessed the only pair of lungs on the boat that could make an impression on the almost impenetrable fog that started to rise from the water about 9:30 and which at 10:30 had ponded Lakeview, Willow Dale and the surrounding territory completely enveloped.

The orchestra had ground out "Home Sweet Home," a polite hint for everyone to beat it, the musicians had folded their instruments and had marched to the boat, everybody on board said good night to everybody on shore, the whistle tooted several farewell toots and they were off, bound for Lakeview, only a short distance away.

"Do night, she's dark lak way black," so dark in fact that a fellow put his arm round a girl's waist and then quickly apologized, stating that it was so dark he didn't see her, and in a very few minutes the long row of incensepsants along the Breezy Point dance hall had completely disappeared from view. Although the hour was quite late there were still a few canoes on the pond though completely hidden from view, their presence being detected by the voices of their occupants.

The captain stood manfully by the wheel wearing a worried look. His watch told him that he was due at Lakeview, his compass didn't tell him anything because it was in his other coat. He figured that it would have been impossible for anyone to have come along and move Lakeview, for he had left there only half an hour before and it was then firmly planted and well lighted. Yet where was it?

During the voyage a passenger aboard made many inquiries about the ship's "log," the latitude and longitude, the altitude of the polar star, the workings of the compass, the indications of the chronometer, and a lot of other things at which the captain merely shook his head. Finally impatient, the nautical passenger demanded of the captain to get a look at the sextant. At this remark an indignant passenger interposed with, "Dye think this is a church?"

"When are you going to land, Cap?" asked one of the musicians.

"Soon as we get to the shore," responded the captain.

The boat went along somewhere, for several more minutes and then the passengers began to feel awe-inspired. On all sides one beheld—nothing. Even the lights in the heavens had come out of commission.

Then came a chorus of "Where are we, Captain?"

"The captain would give a week's salary for the first correct answer, himself. There was one thing of which he was certain. The boat was still on Lake Mascuppic for there was no outlet through which it could have sneaked unknown to him, but just where on

Protest the Action of Mayor Shedd

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 30.—When Mayor Shedd called last night's joint convention of the city councils to order, 10 republican members took their seats and 45 democratic members filed out the front door of the city hall, leaving the convention without a quorum. This was a new declaration of war by the democratic members against the mayor because of his refusal to listen to their request to suggest appointments to the charter commission.

The meeting of the city councils was called from the chair requesting that the members attend a joint convention to meet the inspectors of check lists and fill a vacancy. The mayor also announced that he would make the appointments of the members of the commission to revise the city charter and provided for in an act passed by the last legislature.

The democratic members of both branches assembled in caucus and detailed a committee consisting of Alderman James H. Connor and Councilman Walter D. Roberts and Daniel J. Moriarty to wait on the mayor with suggestions.

They told the mayor that his democratic selections were in opposition to their wishes, and asked that they be permitted to suggest five democrats from which he might select the three necessary for the commission. They made this request as a majority of the city councils. After consulting with republican aldermen the mayor refused.

The republican aldermen and councilmen then met in the common council room and City Clerk Cyr called the roll and adjournment took place.

After the meeting Mayor Shedd

stated that he informed the committee of democrats that waited on him that the legislative act providing for the charter commission authorized him to make appointments and not the democratic members of the city council. As far as the election of an inspector of check lists is concerned, he said the inspector had hired a man to do the work and would probably continue to do so.

The democratic claim is that Mayor Shedd exceeded his authority in calling a joint convention and that he took advantage of the absence of some of the democrats to put through the charter commission appointments, which they have been holding up since a year or more ago. Their claim is based on the joint rule, which says that when a convention of the mayor and aldermen and common council is to be held the two boards must meet, and then a message sent from one to the other and a vote taken, for the convention meeting.

OVERTIME GAME

Lowell Went Down Before Worcester

While Lowell made twice as many hits as Worcester yesterday, the latter team won out after an 11 inning struggle.

Pitcher Parsons went bad in the second inning allowing Worcester two runs, one of which he forced in. Worcester got three hits and two bases on balls off Parsons in this inning. The Lowell men having no control. A circus throw from deep right field by Fluharty catching Crum at the plate prevented Worcester getting more than they did. It was a peach of a throw. Van Dyke was hit freely but not when hits counted. In the fifth Lowell almost scored, the runner being nailed at the plate by Anthony. Lowell tied the score in the eighth and then they went along until the 11th when a hit, a sacrifice, and another hit did the business.

Anthony started the second with a double to right. Groh bunted him to third. Haas hit a single to right, scoring Anthony. Haas stole second while Parsons was giving Crum a base on balls. McCune's grounder over second was blocked by Cooney and Haas could only make one base. The bags were filled. With one out, Parsons passed Van Dyke, forcing the second run in. Fluharty caught a fly in right and shut off another run at the plate.

Blakely smashed a hard drive past second in the eighth, with one man on. Fitzpatrick hit between third and short. Cooney clouted a long double to the right field fence, scoring both runs. Cooney was caught trying to make it three.

Worcester broke the tie in the last of the 11th. Russell, first man up, hit a liner to right for one. Anthony bunted, and Russell moved up. Groh, who had struck out twice and should have been an easy mark, was given a base on balls. Haas fled to Fluharty, making two runs. Crum scratched a liner out and Russell scored with the winning run. The score:

AMATEUR BASEBALL
The T. R. and T. S. want a game for Saturday.
The Bachman Stars defeated the Riverside St. Stars by a score of 10 to 0 yesterday.
Campbell, the pitcher of the Brook-sides, has a record of 62 strikeouts in five games. He made 15 hits out of 32 times at bat.
The J. P. S. defeated the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 14 to 8 Saturday.

DIAMOND NOTES
Lowell at Worcester again today.
"Terrible Terry" and his Brockton Beavers will be here tomorrow.
On Saturday the Lowell Americans and Sanctuary Choir team will play at Spalding park at 1:30 for a purse of $100. Lowell and Lynn will also play. Both games for one admission.
Poor "Jawn" O'Brien! A few months ago he refused a substantial sum for Pitcher Bedient from Tim McCarthy. Now McCarthy has drafted Bedient, and "Jawn" gets only the prescribed $750. Third Baseman Butler is also drafted. Both go to Cincinnati.

We made twice as many hits as Worcester and still we lost.

Everybody took a clout at the ball but Parsons.

Heavens to Betsy! The Lawrence freshmen defeated the Lawrence Press team by a score of 7 to 6. What do you know about that? It wouldn't be so bad if it was a team from the Old Ladies Home or the Home for Weary Wanderers, but to allow the freshmen to trim their passels, understanding and Billy Peters of the Bagle made two errors on second base and he had us all believing that what he didn't know about the game wasn't worth knowing.

Lawrence is back in Fall River. He got a start in Lowell and there isn't a diamond in the circuit that he has missed since then.

Terry McGovern leads the league in stolen bases.

There is talk of amending the rules so as to make it very expensive for a pitcher to hit a batter. It has been proposed that a batter who is hit by a pitched ball be allowed to take second base instead of first. If the rule should be thus amended, pitchers would be chary about aiming the ball at players' heads, as they frequently do when the stick men are crowding the plate. In all the leagues, big and small, players are being crippled from this custom, and there is an agitation on to severely penalize the pitchers, who have all the best of it anyway. Exchange.

What a chinch for Fitzie if the rule goes through.

Martini is the only Worcester player who has a perfect fielding average, but he has played in only 16 games. Haas, who has taken part in 104 games, has an average of .990, and Anthony, who played in the same number of games has a mark of .981, which entitles him to third place.

At Albany, N. Y., "I favor Sunday baseball" buttons have appeared on lapels and caps about the streets. These buttons are being sold by the Lotus club at 25 cents each, and entitle their possessors to admission to Chad-wich Park on Sunday, when the Albany and Binghamton state league clubs will play an "exhibition" game in the championship series. Since Gov. Hughes' crusade against Sunday ball playing for revenue there has been no professional Sunday baseball playing there. The button plan was hit upon during the present week.

Several men are in the field to purchase the Lawrence club franchise in the New England league, as it is now regarded as a forerunner conclusion that the present owners will vote to sell at their annual meeting in October. It is generally felt that Mal Eason, who is now a major league umpire but formerly managed the club for its present owners, will acquire control of the property. The franchise cost Lawrence $1500 in 1905 when purchased from Manchester, but is held at a somewhat higher figure today, notwithstanding that the club is heavily in debt.

The Indianapolis American Association team gave Outfielder Chester Chadbourne his unconditional release yesterday. Chadbourne was secured from the Boston Americans in the spring of 1909. Early this year the arches of his feet were broken and besides crippling the gardener his hitting fell off. He will return to his home in Guilford, Me.

A dispatch from St. Louis says that Manager Fred Lake of Boston is not there with the Doves. President Dovey, when asked as to his whereabouts replied that he was out on a scouting expedition. President Robinson of the Cardinals returned to the city yesterday. In commenting upon the subject of permitting the members of his club to participate in Tex Rickard's barnstorming tour of all stars he stated that he emphatically opposed it. This will necessitate Bresnahan and Konechky withdrawing, although the latter has already accepted $500 advance money.

Devine and Butler of Fall River have been having a great race to see who would tear off the first 100 hits of the season. Before the game yesterday Butler had 99 and Devine 98. Devine tied it in the first with his single and won the race in the second inning with his double. Fall River News.

Beebe of the Reds pitched a whole lot of losing ball early in the season, but he's pitching a lot of good ball lately.

Three of the victories of the Giants over the Cubs have been very one-sided and represent a total of 37 runs.

The Boston Red Sox won six games last week, every one they played. They did some strong finishing in several of them.

Any old twirler can strike out 14 men in a game, but when a boxman issues 11 walks in one contest, as did Shetler of the Phillies, that's some pitching.

The Highlanders have been going at a strong clip for the last two weeks. They have won 10 of their last 14 battles, one of which was a draw, making only three defeats in that time.

The four American league series, played the latter half of last week, were notable for their one-sidedness in favor of the Eastern teams. The latter won 9 out of 11 games, with one tie.

Weak hitters, these Cubs. They made four more homers against the Giants Saturday, a total of only seven in the four game series. By the way, Snodgrass whacked out three hits Saturday.

Stress is laid upon the fact that Keeler and Overall umpired a good game in Chicago the other day in the absence of two regular umpires. Of course they did. Ball players always go when pressed into service suddenly that way. The reason is not far to seek. There's no kicking against their decisions. There's a sort of professional etiquette which governs their fellow players on such occasions.

TWO FAMOUS RIVALS SCHEDULED TO MEET IN FIFTEEN MILE RACE

MONTREAL, Canada, Aug. 30.—Tom Longboat, the Indian Marathon runner, is planning a schedule of exhibition runs, which he expects will keep him busy for about three months abroad. On Labor day Longboat is scheduled to meet Alfred Shrubbs, the English distance runner, here, and following the contest he will leave for England. Longboat says he expects to tour Ireland and Scotland. The pair have met several times at distances from fifteen miles up to the full Marathon route within the last two years. Shrubbs has beaten Longboat at fifteen miles, while the Indian has turned the tables on the Englishman at the Marathon distance. Longboat has been training for some time and is sure that he will defeat Shrubbs at the latter's favorite distance. At present Shrubbs is ruling favorite, the experts figuring that if Shrubbs could beat the Indian when the latter was at his best he should easily repeat, as it has been some time since the Indian competed in any event.

WENT AGROUND

Schooner May Not be Floated

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Aug. 30.—The fishing schooner Speculator, bound into Boston from the fishing grounds with a full fare of fish, ran aground on Peaked Hill bar early today. The crew left the schooner in their dories and rowed around Race Point to Provincetown harbor. Lifesavers from one of the Provincetown stations went out to the Speculator in an endeavor to float her. It was thought that the chances of freeing the Speculator today were slim. The wind was northeast and increasing, and it was feared that the vessel would be driven higher up on the beach.

GEN'L BRAYTON'S CONDITION
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 30.—The condition of Gen. Charles Brayton, the blind republican leader of this state who was injured by a fall yesterday, was very favorable today. Martin S. Budlong, his attending physician, stated that the aged man had passed a comfortable night. Preparations were made for an examination by an X-ray of the general's hip this forenoon to determine the extent of the hip fracture.

TO SPARE AGED MOTHER
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—To spare his aged mother the shock of seeing him totter mortally wounded into the house, Patrick Rahill, a Brooklyn butcher yesterday put the last vestige of strength left him into the refrain of a popular song which he bravely whistled as he passed through the room which she occupied. As he passed into the adjoining room he fell unconscious.

Rahill and two companions were seen a moment earlier fighting in front of his home. An examination showed that he had received three knife wounds in the abdomen and one in the groin. He died without revealing the identity of his assailants.

FOUR BOUTS ON

Good Show Given at Gloucester

GLOUCESTER, Aug. 30.—At the second boxing exhibition of the Lenox A. C. held in the Dewey theatre last evening, four bouts were put on, one for the count, one for a draw and two for decisions. The attendance of last week was surpassed by a larger number, the 500 attending being more than satisfied.

In the first bout Young McCarron of Boston put Kid Briggs away with one punch to the jaw in a bout scheduled for four rounds. In the second, Dave Powers of Malden, champion 145-pound amateur of New England, got the decision over John Camp of Boston in six rounds of clever boxing.

The third bout, between Mark Conly of South Boston and Young Jasper of North End, was a fast go. The superior weight added longer reach of Conly showed to advantage over the clever boxing and footwork of Jasper. It took the limit of the eight rounds for Conly to get the decision.

The final bout of eight rounds, between Pat Rocco of Boston and Johnny Caville of West End, the referee called a draw, although Rocco might have had the decision. The first four rounds were pretty even, with Rocco's quickness in getting away after landing hard punches, telling on Caville. The fifth started off fast, but it was seen that Caville was firing and soon was on the mat, the going saving him. In the next three rounds Caville came back and the bout was declared a draw by Referee Clagherty.

KENNEY HAS TO QUIT
NEW BEDFORD, Aug. 30.—Kid McDonald of Boston had the better of the bout with Kenney of Cambridge at the New Bedford A. C. last night, though the fight did not go the full distance, Kenney injuring his right hand so badly that he was compelled to give up in the seventh round.

TWO ROUNDS ENOUGH
FALL RIVER, Aug. 30.—Kid Miller of Pawtucket and Young Block of Boston were scheduled to go 12 rounds last night before the members of the Colonial A. C., but at the end of the second round Young Block was in such shape that the referee decided that the bout belonged to Miller.

The Pawtucket boy was easily the master of the situation and could have put the Hub boxer out in the first round had he desired.

KLINE SHADES KAUFMAN
BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—In a six-round bout last night before the Army A. C. Patsy Kline of Newark had a slight edge over Bandy Kaufman of Philadelphia. Kline was the aggressor throughout and landed heavy body blows on his opponent, who after the first round resorted to clinching.

Kaufman's best work was done in the first third and fifth, when he landed hard on Kline's face and head. Both men fought a hurricane battle, but neither showed signs of fatigue at the finish.

In the semifinal Kid Williams of this city fought six hard rounds to a draw with Tommy Buck of Philadelphia.

HITTE AND HENRY DRAW
ALBANY, Aug. 30.—Charlie Hitte, who is considered the cleverest man in his class in this vicinity, met Kid Henry of Troy, colored, last night in a 10-round battle at Chadwick park. About 500 people saw the fight, which went the limit a draw.

From the third round to the finish Hitte was the aggressor, but he could not get on Henry's defence. Henry's best punch was a left jab, which he used all the time, but this did not do any harm to Hitte. Hitte was heavy but otherwise in good condition. Henry seemed afraid to mix it up with the Albany fighter.

HOTEL MEN CONFERENCE
SPRINGFIELD, Aug. 30.—Action favoring a uniformity of automobile laws among the states by act of congress was taken last evening in a conference of the New England Hotel Men's association in Cooley's hotel.

The occasion for the conference comes on the recent action in New York whereby owners of automobiles

CARDINAL'S HAT

Report That Archbishop O'Connell Will Receive One

ROME, Aug. 30.—It can be stated on good authority that among those who will receive cardinal's caps at the consistory next November are Archbishop Parley of New York and O'Connell of Boston. This is the first consistory in three years.

REPORT HARDLY CREDITED

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Archbishop O'Connell is absent from the city, having gone to Montreal to participate in the eucharistic congress next week. The archbishop will attend to a number of ecclesiastical matters on the way north and started a few days early in consequence.

The report that the Boston prelate would receive the red hat is by no means a new one, but hitherto coming from sources not regarded as authentic and for the most part it has been a report among the laity. Clergymen pay little attention to the reports on account of their knowledge of the routine at the Vatican and the fact that one who is to be created a cardinal sometimes gets the first intimation as much as six months in advance. It would be rather rare, according to clergymen, for only a couple of months' notification being given of a prospect of being created a cardinal.

It has now been a long period since any cardinals were created at Rome and there are nearly a score of vacancies in the sacred college. Pope Pius X. apparently is in no hurry to increase the number. Though three or four consistories have been held in the last two years, each time accompanied by rumors that cardinals were to be

He Was Chosen Mayor of Lawrence Last Night

LAWRENCE, Aug. 30.—Dr. John T. Cahill was elected mayor at a joint convention of the city council last night, to fill the unexpired term of William P. White, who resigned after being committed to the house of correction on July 13 for three years on conviction of conspiring to effect the removal of James A. Hamilton as chief engineer of the fire department.

This action will preclude the supreme court proceedings scheduled for today, when acting Mayor Thomas M. Jordan was summoned to appear as respondent to a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel him to call a session of the two branches of the government to fill the existing vacancies. The common council had adjourned until the third Monday in September, and the acting mayor, who had been regarded as a candidate for the office ever after City Solicitor Daniel J. Murphy had given the opinion that no member of the council was eligible, had refused to call a special meeting of the lower board, on the ground that there was no mutual desire on the part of the councilmen that such a step should be taken.

Last night's meeting was for the ostensible purpose of listening to a report of City Engineer Arthur D. Marble relative to his inspection of the Broadway paving contract, complaint having been made that the contractor was not conforming to the specifications. The air was surcharged with talk of a joint convention, however, and on motion of Alderman Tobin it was voted to go into session and elect a mayor.

First Ballot Turns Trick

Aldermen Tobin, Callahan and Morgan voted in the affirmative on the motion for a joint convention. Aldermen Jordan and Ford did not vote. The common council unanimously concurred.

The absence of Alderman Scanlon, who is said to be at Bethlehem, N. H., on a vacation, made 12 votes necessary for a choice, and Dr. Cahill had just that number on the first ballot. Councilmen Rushforth and Spencer breaking away from their republican colleagues and voting with 10 democrats for him. There were reports about the chambers that in some quarters it was anticipated that there would be no choice, and four councilmen were named who were expected to vote for others than the doctor.

Those voting for the successful candidate were Aldermen Callahan and Tobin, Councilmen Begley, Foley, Morrissey, Dooley, Maxwell, McCarthy, Rushforth, Spencer, Shaw and Welch. Aldermen Jordan and Councilman Newman voted for Charles E. Bradley, who had been mentioned as a business man's candidate; Aldermen Ford and Councilman Nugent for Attorney Michael P. Cronin, Councilmen Keavney and Nichols for ex-school Commissioner Michael J. Sullivan and Aldermen Mess and four republican councilmen for ex-Alderman Hugo E. Dick.

Jordan Not a Candidate

When the two branches had assembled jointly acting Mayor Jordan said that he desired it known that he was not a candidate for the office. He declared that he had good legal advice that a member of the government was eligible. However, he felt that should he or any other member be chosen, in view of the city solicitor's opinion to the contrary, complications might be caused.

"I leave what personal rights and personal ambition that I may have in favor of the interests of the city," he asserted, and concluded with an expression of appreciation of the support that had been accorded him.

Alderman Callahan announced that Armorer John P. Ryan desired it known that he was not a candidate. The ballot was then taken, and on motion of Alderman Tobin the latter and Alderman Ford were delegated to escort the mayor-elect before the body. The oath of office was administered by Assistant City Clerk Edward J. Wade.

Mayor Cahill expressed briefly his appreciation of the honor conferred and beseeke the support of the members of the government and the heads of departments in his effort to give a creditable administration.

"I assume the office," he said, "with good-will toward everybody and malice toward none."

Mayor Cahill's Training

The two branches adjourned on dissolution of the joint session.

Asked if he had anything to say regarding his policy, Mayor Cahill replied in the negative. "It is too much a haze just now," was the way he put it, referring to the complicated conditions that have followed the incorporation and resignation of ex-Mayor White.

Mayor Cahill is a native of this city, 42 years of age. He was educated in local schools and was graduated from Holy Cross college with degrees of A. B. and A. M., and from Harvard Medical school. He is a ready talker and has appeared as a speaker in state canvasses, having at one time taken part in a Vermont campaign. He was a candidate for the democratic mayoralty nomination in 1908, but was defeated by Michael T. Cronin, who in turn was outstripped by William P. White at the polls. Tables were turned in the democratic primaries last year, but again Mayor White won out.

The new mayor is married and resides at 841 Haverhill street. He is a member of the Elks, Eagles and Father Mathew C. P. society.

The city engineers report relative to the paving was for the most part favorable to the contractor, but he suggested the election of an inspector of cement mixing. No action was taken on the recommendation.

LOSS IS $5000

Ruggles Foundry Burned at Poultney, Vt.

POULTNEY, Vt., Aug. 30.—Fire early last evening totally destroyed the foundry part of the Ruggles machine shop here, owned by the A. Y. Gray Co. of Middletown Springs, and until now buildings can be erected about 40 men will be thrown out of employment. The hard work of the fire department saved the machine shops which were attached to the building.

The loss is estimated at $5000, well covered by insurance. It is very probable that the work of rebuilding will be begun at once. The wooden structure which was 20x50 feet burned the timber. The blaze was discovered by two boys who live nearby, Donald Mervin and John Mahan.

An alarm was sounded and the flames shooting skyward attracted nearly everybody in the town. It is thought that the fire started from a spark in the cupola from one of the furnaces.

SEIZED JEWELS

Are Said to be Worth $115,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Announcing that he represented Mrs. I. Reynolds Adriance, wife of John P. Adriance of Poughkeepsie, who arrived from Europe Sunday on the Baltic, and who is alleged by customs officials to have failed to declare a pearl necklace valued at $6000, Abram J. Rose, an attorney, appeared at the custom house and requested a hearing in the case.

The pearl necklace was found, it is alleged, by customs officials in the trimmings of Mrs. Adriance's hat. The officials had received word that the necklace had been purchased abroad, and at the pier she is alleged to have denied that she had the jewels. She was taken to her cabin where, according to the officials, the jewels were found.

Though charged specifically with smuggling into this country a pearl necklace, gold purse and a lace mantle, valued in all at $3000, Mrs. Adriance must explain where she bought other jewelry valued at more than $100,000 before she is out of the customs net.

According to a statement made at Collector Loeb's office yesterday afternoon, jewels with a total value of $115,000 were found in the woman's possession and seized, while from her daughter Marion, a $3000 pearl necklace was confiscated, and a third necklace taken from Mrs. Mary H. Doughty, a traveling companion.

These additional jewels do not figure in the smuggling charge against Mrs. Adriance, who appears before U. S. Commissioner Alexander and gave $75000 bail after waiving examination, but they are being held pending investigation and the production of bills of sale covering each piece.

The necklace taken from her, Miss Adriance says, was purchased in this country, but lengthened abroad by the insertion of eight pearls.

Bond for Mrs. Adriance was entered by her husband, who gave as security his residence, "Eden court" at Poughkeepsie, which he said is worth not less than $50,000.

LAKEVIEW PARK

GRAND FIREWORKS DISPLAY AT CLOSING FRIDAY EVENING

Lakeview park will close in an actual blaze of glory next Friday evening, when Musten & Wells, premier fireworks experts, under contract with the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co., will furnish a magnificent and often amusing display of colored flames. The exhibition, extraordinary and spectacular, will be absolutely free. For the evening one will be seemingly transported into another world and after the display will return to the old world with refreshed intellect.

The "Magis Hearts" is a remarkable showing of pyrotechnic genius. Two great flaming hearts open and from them shoot, like Jacks-in-the-Box, two great heads of flame which nod at each other in a truly ludicrous way. The set piece combines beauty and comedy in most charming fashion. The flaming, bodiless heads try to make friends with each other and act with all Parisian politeness.

Other features in flames abound. The "Tree of Life" is probably one of the most brilliant pieces ever produced. The display opens with a dazzling circle, unfolding the outlines of an immense tree of fire. A sudden explosion fills the air with showers of fire, falling over the tree with a grand effect, while fire balls are thrown to a great height. As the multicolored sparks vanish and then reappear the spectacle is beautiful to behold.

Fully as brilliant is the display, the "Rising of Jupiter." The planet Jupiter is represented as rising from clouds of fire between revolving zones of dazzling colored rings. The effect is striking in the extreme.

Patriotism is excited, if never before, when the stars and stripes are great all unfurled. At first the lights are all yellow, and then faintly the red, white and blue appear until at length the glorious emblem which all Americans honor is unfurled in glittering color. The ceremony is one of stately grandeur. Cheers are bound to rise when the immense flag looms up in all its splendor.

Another suggestive patriotic spectacle is the "American Shield." In it the red, white and blue stand out in commanding beauty.

With Friday night's display the most successful season in the history of Lakeview park will close. Every week during July and August special free attractions have been provided at the park. Next season the Boston & Northern St. Ry. Co. expects to give still greater and better free attractions.

FATALLY HURT

Boy Was Impaled on a Broken Limb

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 30.—While climbing a plum tree near his home on South Union street yesterday afternoon Stuart Kelley, 10 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelley, fell about five feet and was impaled on a broken limb. The wood entered his abdomen, severed the liver and pierced his right lung.

The lad calmly extricated himself from his position, descended to the ground, and without uttering a cry walked about 100 yards before he fell. His parents rushed to his assistance. He was taken to Mary Fletcher hospital and operated on. At a late hour last night he was slowly slinking and is expected to die.

The surgeons are astounded at the vitality exhibited by the lad after receiving the unusual injury, which in most cases would have resulted in almost instant death.

PAINTERS' UNION

Organizer Cummings

There was a large gathering of painters at the open meeting of the local union held at their hall in Middle street last night, which was addressed by National Organizer Edward J. Cummings of Providence. Besides the members of the craft, there were many friends of the painters present.

Mr. Cummings spoke in favor of unionism and he concluded by urging a stronger organization for the city of Lowell. Here, stated the speaker, are the lowest paid journeymen painters in the state. At the present time the scale of wages here varies from $2.25 to $2.50 per day while in Boston, painters doing the same work and laboring less hours receive $3.50 per day. In Providence, R. I., the painters receive $3.25 and in Fall River and Lawrence $3.00 daily.

The officers of the local union spoke briefly and later in the evening an informal program was given.

FATALLY INJURED

Mrs. Isabell Ower Fell From Window

Mrs. Isabell Ower, widow of the late Charles B. Ower and formerly a resident of this city, passed away very suddenly at her home, 21 Oliver street, Malden, aged 88 years, 1 month and 24 days. Her death occurred as a result of a fall from a second story window at her home Friday morning about 2:45. It is believed that the aged lady went to the window to get some air and in arranging the screen lost her balance and fell out. Mr. Charles W. Ower, her son, whom she had her home with, was aroused and he carried her into the house and summoned Dr. H. S. Johnson and he made a thorough examination and found that there were no bones broken, but it was feared that on account of her advanced age, she would not survive the shock, and the end came peacefully Sunday afternoon. She leaves to mourn her loss three sons, Charles W. of Malden, James of Danvers, and Edward of Somerville, and eight grandchildren.

HAD A REVOLVER

Court Ordered Woman to Sell It

HAVERHILL, Aug. 30.—The fact that Peter Pappas, a Greek, is alive is due to the failure of a revolver that Miss Anne Thompson had in her room at a lodging house on Washington avenue to fire.

Pappas was arrested early yesterday morning when he was found asleep in a Greek lodging house on Grunty court. Pappas, who at first gave the name of Charlie George, was found by Sgt. Sullivan and a detail of policemen who investigated the story told by Miss Thompson that when she returned home late last evening she saw a man's leg sticking out beneath the bed in her room. Her statement was that she ordered the man out and that she tried to have him leave the place. The man, she said, refused to go, and then she grabbed the revolver and pointed it at him but it did not work, and the man seized it and escaped.

Miss Thompson's screams attracted the landlady, Mrs. Matilda Morgan, and the landlady and the police were summoned. Accompanied by Miss Thompson, Sgt. Sullivan visited the Greek lodging house and the revolver was found in Pappas' room, and he was arrested on the charge of assault.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Thompson was arraigned in court when Miss Thompson repeated the story she told the police before Pappas' arrest.

"The accused denied her statements in his testimony, stating that he met Miss Thompson on the street and accompanied her home, where they had words, because the woman had refused to speak to him on the street. He said that Miss Thompson wanted him to go out and pointed the revolver at him and he took it away from her."

Mrs. Morgan testified that Pappas had never been seen about the place before. Judge Fuller, after hearing the evidence, put Pappas under bonds to keep the peace, and Miss Thompson promised to abide by the suggestion of the court that she sell the revolver.

PLANS SUICIDE

Woman Drowned Herself at Amherst

AMHERST, Aug. 30.—Mrs. Ella E. Hall drowned herself yesterday afternoon in the Connecticut river. She dressed herself carefully and fastened inside her hat and took the trolley car, which she left at the west end of Hadley bridge.

She walked back over the bridge to Norwottuck park, placed her hat with spectacles in it on the bank, removed her dress skirt, waded into the river up to her neck, threw up her hands, screamed and disappeared.

Lawrence Till saw her from the other side of the river and swam across but arrived too late. Her body was recovered an hour after and viewed by Medical Examiner Clarence I. Sparks of Easthampton, who allowed the body to be removed to Amherst.
